REDS 7 MILES FROM GRODNO

Await Roosevelt O. K. for Wallace

DEMOCRATS SEE NOTE'S ARRIVAL IN CITY TODAY

Convention Activity to Be Speeded.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Preparations for the Democratic national convention, which will be opened in the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday, are expected to be speeded by the arrival today from Washington, D. C., of Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the national committee. Hannegan was reported to be bringing two documents vitally affecting major business of the convention. These papers are:

1. A letter from President Roosevelt expressing a personal preference that Vice President Wallace be renominated.

2. A rough draft of a platform, said to have been approved by the President with a request that it be shortened.

Jackson Denies Having Letter.

As was reported in a Washington dispatch in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, there was speculation in the capital as to whether the President's letter indorsing Wallace would be addressed to Sen. Jackson of Indiana, who is to be permanent chairman of the convention, or to Hannegan. Jackson denied in Chicago last night that the letter was in his possession, and the report that Hannegan was bringing it gained currency.

The President is reported to have disavowed in the letter any wish to dictate to the convention, but to have asserted that the Vice President is able and to have expressed a desire for his renomination.

A report from Washington last night said there was some uncertainty as to whether the letter will be made public today or tomorrow or be withheld until the convention approaches the choice of a Vice Presidential nominee. It was reported to be a matter of strategy for the Wallace supporters to decide.

Reported Pleasing to Wallace.

On the one hand it was pointed out that, tho the letter is said to be worded in a manner satisfactory to Wallace, there was some possibility that a few days' discussion of it among the delegates might lessen its effectiveness.

On the other hand, it was asserted, that withholding the letter would give opportunity for growth of the boomlets already being developed for possible nominees for Vice President other than Wallace.

Steps to organize the Wallace strategy were being taken in Washington, but no floor leader for the Vice President had been selected up to last night and there had been no announcement as to who would make the speech placing his name before the convention.

Leaders of Wallace Drive.

It was assumed in the capital that among those invited into the strategy group will be Senators Guffey of Pennsylvania and Pepper of Florida, Gov. Arnall of Georgia, Oscar L. Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior and a delegate from Colorado; Jake More, Democratic chairman in Wallace's home state of Iowa, and Clarence Coleman, national committeeman for Washington state.

Before leaving Washington for Chicago, Sen. Guffey said, "Personally I favor the renomination of Vice President Wallace. His record justifies and calls for his renomination. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace have been a great team and they will continue to be."

Sen. Chavez of New Mexico, a delegate to the convention, was another who gave indorsement to Wallace's renomination.

Sen. Connally of Texas, issued a statement in Washington asserting that he is not a candidate for the Vice Presidential nomination.

Lucas Backers See Horse Race.

Friends of Sen. Lucas of Illinois said last night that they considered the Vice Presidential contest a horse race. Admitting that Sen. Truman of Missouri is in a favorable position, they took his statement of disinclination to run at only part of its face value. They did not think that he would refuse a draft, based partly upon his border state

Latin America Unrest Laid to Wallace Acts

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—William La Varre, resigned department of commerce official, charged tonight that activities initiated by Vice President Wallace are responsible for revolutions and the overthrowing of governments in Latin America.

La Varre asserted further that these same activities have resulted in the regimentation of workers in the various American Republics into a CIO program to create an inter-American labor union that can cooperate in simultaneous sit-down strikes thruout the American hemisphere.

Resigned in Protest.

The ex-government official made his complaint in a memorandum to the house committee investigating excesses of authority by executive agencies. He recommended to Chairman Smith [D., Va.] that the committee make a study of letters and other communications of Wallace touching on the subject.

La Varre recently resigned as chief of the department of commerce American republics division in protest, he said, against the encroachment of Wallace's followers on the department's efforts to protect American foreign trade.

Foreign Relations Jeopardized.

La Varre wrote Smith:

"I have discussed with the committee certain illegal activities—unauthorized, I believe, either by acts of congress or by executive orders, but initiated and promoted by the Vice President—which have seriously jeopardized our foreign relations and resulted in liabilities to the civilian population as well as to the military program of the United States, and which are continuing."

La Varre said the executive agencies thru which Wallace has worked are Wallace's now defunct board of economic warfare, the foreign economic administration, the foreign office of the office of price administration, the Rubber Development corporation, the Export-Import bank, and the Metal Reserves company. The latter three agencies are units of the FEA.

Suggests Film Inquiry.

La Varre advised the committee to examine all films prepared by Nelson Rockefeller's office of inter-American affairs, and to obtain a list of per diem "consultants" who have been on missions for Wallace in American republics.

La Varre said the activities of which he complained have produced six major tho little known liabilities:

"1. They have been responsible for the recent series of revolutions and the overthrow of governments in the neighboring republics of Bolivia, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatamala, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, and Honduras, and the attempted overthrow of the government of Colombia, adjacent to the Panama Canal.

Cause of Rubber Deficit.

"2. They have been the cause of a very large deficit of natural rub-

'G. I. JOE MUST EAT!' SO A SOLDIER GOES TO WORK DURING STRIKE

An army sergeant, who knows that food is almost as essential as guns in war, rolled up his sleeves and went to work at the American Can company plant in Maywood yesterday when all but two of the 285 employes in one department remained idle in a strike. The company makes cans for perishable fruits, vegetables, and meats.

Sgt. W. R. Benson.

The soldier is Sgt. William R. Benson, 29, who is on a 13 day furlough from Camp Ellis, Ill. His wife, Betty, is employed at the plant and was one of the two who refused to walk out in protest against a wage decision by the regional war labor board.

"I'm opposed to anything that is likely to interfere with G. I. Joe getting his three squares a day," Sgt. Benson said in explaining why he went to work.

A decision to call off the strike was reached by three locals of the CIO United Steel Workers' union yesterday at a mass meeting. The strike had affected 6,300 employes of the American Can and Continental Can companies in 10 plants. Harry Harper, CIO district organizer, said the unions will appeal the RWLB decision to the national war labor board.

CHICAGOLAND MEN, MACHINES HAILED IN WAR

EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS HDQ., July 10 [Delayed]—(AP).—Pooling what mechanical skills they had acquired despite primarily clerical backgrounds, men of an engineer section of a United States army port unit were commended today for assembling nine 30 ton floating cranes one week ahead of schedule at an English port. The section was headed by Maj. Charles V. Lambe of 1231 Granville av., Chicago.

Sgt. John Rausch of 1343 Walton st., Chicago, an electrician in civilian life, took charge of wiring for the cranes, which, on inspection were found to be better than specifications. The cranes were used in the loading of cargo ships for the campaign in France.

Maj. Lambe said part credit for the achievement was due to the Caterpillar Tractor company of Peoria, Ill., for its diesel engine used in the cranes.

WLB Ruling Breaks Unions' No-Raid Truce

Washington, D. C., July 14 [Special].—In one of its strangest decisions, the war labor board today virtually authorized a free-for-all raiding of rival union memberships.

The board released the American Federation of Labor from a no-raiding commitment involving International Harvester company employes and declared it free to seek rights of representation in those plants because the CIO Farm Equipment Workers had repudiated and violated the pledge.

Announcement of the ruling was made in a letter from W. H. Davis, WLB chairman, to David Sigman, AFL organizer in Milwaukee, Wis. The latter said the CIO violation took place at a plant in Rock Island, Ill.

Terms of Agreement.

The AFL and CIO unions had agreed in March, 1942, that for the duration of their contracts with International Harvester each would accept the then certified union as exclusive bargaining agent of the employes in the respective plants of the company covered by the national labor relations board certification.

The WLB, Davis said, accepted and acted on these representations in granting to the unions maintenance of membership clauses for the duration of their contracts with the company.

But last January, Davis said, the CIO affiliate at Rock Island violated the agreement by obtaining an NLRB certification at the plant there despite the fact it is under contract to the AFL.

Freed of Obligations.

"The board holds," he said, "that the AFL has thereby been released from the commitments made in March, 1942, and that it is no longer bound to refrain from soliciting or accepting as members employes of the company at the plants for which the Farm Equipment Workers has been certified, and that it is free from any obligation to refrain from seeking rights of representation at any of such plants."

The AFL promptly interpreted the decision to mean that the maintenance of membership clauses granted the CIO in six International Harvester plants is now null and void.

"The AFL regrets that this disturbing situation has arisen," a federation statement said, "but it is determined to pursue an active and intensive organizing campaign among workers at the International Harvester plants, as authorized by the national war labor board."

BODIES OF 3 FOUND IN CRASHED PLANE OF MAJOR GENERAL

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 15 [Saturday]—[Special].—A twin engined plane bearing the two star designation of a major general crashed and exploded in an open field 10 miles southeast of this city last night during a heavy rain and windstorm.

Three bodies and parts of a number of others were reported found in the widely scattered wreckage. Four partly opened parachutes also were found near the wrecked plane.

Army officers from near-by Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., hurried to the scene. Reports that one major general and other high ranking officers were among the victims were being investigated.

ILLINOISAN GETS D.S.C. FOR TAKING 7 JAPS' PILLBOX

WITH THE ARMY, South Pacific [Delayed]—(AP).—For single handedly storming and recapturing from the Japanese an American pillbox on Bougainville, Tech. Sgt. Earl J. Cashmore of Wadsworth, Lake county, Illinois, has been granted the nation's second highest military honor, the distinguished service cross.

The citation said Sgt. Cashmore first attacked the pillbox with rifle grenades, then crawled under intense fire to within five yards of it and hurled hand grenades. He then crawled back and obtained a submachine gun and charged the fortification twice, firing thru the slits of the pillbox. When his ammunition was exhausted, he used grenades and a borrowed rifle to continue the attack.

Seven Japanese, who had taken the pillbox in a night attack, were found dead in it.

GUNMEN BOMB JERUSALEM HDQ. OF POLICE; KILL 1

JERUSALEM, Palestine, July 14 (AP).—Unknown terrorists set district police headquarters afire today, threw in bombs which slightly wounded several British constables, and fled in an exchange of shots which killed one Palestinian constable and seriously wounded another.

The bombing was carried out by 10 men, armed with tommy-guns and other weapons, who forced their way into the four story building. They placed bombs in various places, and ran shooting from the building.

HACK THRU NAZI LINE IN POLAND; CAPTURE PINSK

Within 20 Miles of East Prussia.

LONDON, July 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—The Red army, pushing westward along a line less than 20 miles from East Prussia, today reported it had broken the Nazis' Niemen river line southeast of Grodno, Poland, and was closing in within seven miles of that strongpoint in part of a general advance from the Latvian border region deep into old Poland.

Among more than 315 towns announced as captured yesterday was the German redoubt of Pinsk, 100 miles east of Brest Litovsk.

Before Grodno, which dispatches this morning indicated was doomed to fall shortly, the Russians announced capture of towns seven miles to the east and eight miles southeast, but were silent on German statements that soviet patrols already had twice been driven from Grodno itself.

Cross Historic River.

The troops approaching Grodno reached the Niemen on a wide front, a soviet war report said, and in a fierce engagement crossed to the west bank of that historic stream which Napoleon crossed in the summer of 1812 to launch his ill-starred invasion of Russia.

Other outstanding captures as announced in the midnight war report and two orders of the day from Marshal Stalin included Wolkowysk and Skidel, on the approaches to Bialystok and Grodno, and the rail station of Opochka, 24 miles east of the Latvian border.

Pinsk, metropolis and stronghold of the Pripyat [Pripet] marshes, fell to troops of the 1st White Russian front, who forced two rivers and stormed the city with the aid of river gunboats, Stalin announced.

In a second order of the day, Stalin announced the capture of Wolkowysk, 50 miles east of Bialystok and 80 miles northeast of Brest Litovsk, as the Russians drew steadily nearer to the Bug river line on which Hitler and Stalin partitioned Poland in 1939 and from which the Germans attacked the Russians on June 22, 1941.

Nazi General Surrenders.

Thirty miles north of Wolkowysk, the Russians announced they had closed in on Grodno.

Grodno, a city of old Poland, is 20 miles from the present border of East Prussia, which was extended by addition of the Suwalki district after the Nazi conquest of Poland in 1939. The old East Prussian border is 45 miles from Grodno.

Moscow reports said Grodno had been by-passed on the north, where Russian forces were attacking on a 50 mile front south of Kaunas, Lithuania.

Gain Beyond Wilno.

Northwest of liberated Wilno and in the curving bulge along the southern Latvian border, the Russians announced continued advances. Beyond Wilno the Red troops were only 20 miles from Kaunas.

In the northern drive on Latvia, the Russians had widened their front to 100 miles and appeared on the verge of plunging across the border.

On the Latvian sector, the 2d Baltic army seized Opochka and was fighting the Germans in the streets, the soviet bulletin said. More than 40 other places also were captured on that front.

A German broadcast said Opochka was a key point in a "barrier system" holding back the Russian advance.

The Germans acknowledged retreats in the northern sector "to bring it into line with the central front," and in the south, in the Kowel and Luck areas of Poland.

Pearl Harbor Inquiries Set by Army, Navy

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—The war and navy departments today each announced the appointment of boards of officers to investigate the circumstances leading up to and surrounding the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

The action was taken at the direction of congress, which last month extended the statute of limitation on time for court martialing those responsible for the disaster until Dec. 7 of this year, and at the same time ordered the army and navy to "proceed forthwith with an investigation into the facts."

Personnel of Navy Board.

Navy Secretary Forrestal appointed Adm. Orin G. Murfin, retired, as president of the naval inquiry court which will hold its first meeting Monday. The two other members will be Adm Edward C. Kalbfus and Vice Adm. Adolphus Andrews, both retired. Comdr. Harold Biesemeier will be judge advocate.

Adm. Murfin, 72, was commander of mine bases north of Scotland in World War I. and later was judge advocate general of the navy and commandant at Pearl Harbor.

Adm. Kalbfus, 66, was a captain on sea duty in the last war and commanded the battle force of the United States fleet in 1938-'39. Adm. Andrews, 64, commanded the battleship Massachusetts in the first World war and early in this war commanded the eastern sea frontier.

Grunert Heads Board.

The war department named as head of the army inquiry board Lt. Gen. George Grunert, 63, commanding general of the eastern defense command. Other members are Maj. Gen. Walter H. Frank, 58, head of the air service command, and Maj. Gen. Henry D. Russell, 54, of the war department's man power board.

Congress ordered the investigations after the army and navy, thru inaction, rejected repeated demands in the senate and house for a full inquiry into and public disclosure of the responsibility for the nation's greatest military defeat, and for prosecution of those to blame.

The commanders at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese struck, Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, and Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, were relieved of their commands.

Request Courts Martial.

They have repeatedly requested that they be tried by courts martial, but the administration has argued such trials might hurt the war. Kimmel has publicly stated that the full story of the disaster never has been told.

Members of congress have charged that the trials have been delayed because they will disclose that high officials in Washington actually were at fault for our unpreparedness when the Japanese struck.

DEATH OF HONOR STUDENT LAID TO SELF-STARVING

Jonesville, Mich., July 14 (AP).—The case of Mary Ellen Gries, 21, whose death was attributed to "psychoneurosis with self-starvation," was described today by her physician, Dr. Luther Day, as one of the strangest in medical annals.

Mary Ellen Gries.

Miss Gries, an honor student in high school, first complained two years ago that she couldn't eat because she was "filled up" and couldn't swallow. Her fast was rarely broken. Two weeks ago, she began accepting nothing except water. At the time of her death last night, she weighed only 40 pounds.

Dr. Day said an autopsy showed nothing wrong with the girl excepting a lack of nourishment.

What Shall Harvest Be? Blisters for Rev. Williams

Salina, Kas., July 14 (AP).—The Rev. La Vern Williams, pastor of the First United Brethren church, who returned today from working in the harvest field, said his text Sunday would be: "Bodily Exercise Profiteth Little."

13 TOWNS WON AS YANKS DRIVE ON IN FRANCE

Hit South of St. Lo; Shell Lessay.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 14.—American troops thrust ahead along the Normandy front today. They captured 13 towns in gains that ranged from a few hundred yards to three miles.

"The whole United States army front from St. Lo to the sea is on the move," headquarters said.

At St. Lo, rugged German resistance brought the drive to a standstill, but the whole line hinging on this shell ruined communications center moved steadily to the south. In this advance the Americans took the town of La Barre de Semilly, two miles east, and the highest ground in the sector. Another thrust carried the Yanks to the outskirts of Le Mesnil Durand, three and a half miles northwest of St. Lo, and Le Hommet d'Arthenay, six and a half miles away.

Lessay Under Shell Fire.

Lessay, German stronghold on the west coast, was under shell fire from American guns now within 2,000 yards of the town, after Yank gains that carried three miles and swept up St. Germain-sur-Ay, Beauvais, and Lauine. German troops on a spit of land jutting out two and a half miles west of St. Germain escaped, yielding the villages of Salienel, La Gaverie, Fenouilleria, and Frocqueville.

At St. Germain, the Germans blew up all bridges across the Ay river and took up positions on high ground to the south. In cleaning up the north bank, the Americans took Angoville, 2¼ miles northwest of Lessay, and Pierrepont, 4 miles northeast.

Menace Lateral Road.

At the center of the line, southwest of Carentan, American advances menaced the big lateral road linking up the German front. Salients had been driven within two miles of this highway which links St. Lo, Periers, and Lessay. Headquarters located these American gains on both sides of the Taute river, below Auxais.

Wolfgang Nuechler, a German radio reporter, said, "In the sector southwest of Carentan, the bulk of the United States 81st division made nine attempts in 12 hours on the positions of two German paratroop battalions. Fighting was exceptionally bitter, with the Americans enjoying tenfold superiority. However, our defenses held fast."

Between St. Lo and Periers the Americans captured the crossroads town of Les Champs de Losque but withdrew under heavy German pressure. North and east of Periers the Yanks captured Es Aubris and La Vincenterie in addition to Auxais. Another column, pushing 500 yards down the road from Saintemy, reached the approaches or Raids, 3¼ miles northeast of Periers.

Nazis in Orderly Withdrawal.

Today's gains averaged approximately 1,000 yards all along the 40 mile front, even in the marshes along the center of the line where a junction of twin American thrusts appeared imminent. This area has proved a bottleneck for the forces trying to break out of the peninsula.

Headquarters said the Germans, who have elements of 11 or 12 divisions on this front, appeared to be conducting an orderly withdrawal.

[A German Transocean news agency dispatch from enemy headquarters said the Germans had withdrawn a few thousand yards between the marshes and the west coast, a distance of about 10 miles, "according to plan."]

The American lines stretched from St. Germain, on the west coast, to Beauvais, Vesly, and Gorges, thence southeastward to above Raids and on to the outskirts of Les Champs, southeast to Le Mesnil Durand and then in a curving line around St. Lo to a point about two miles southeast.

From the British-Canadian sector came word that 40 German tanks had assembled for an attack near Eterville. These represented the biggest concentration of armor against the British yet seen in that sector. The grouping was broken up, however, by massed artillery fire, and the impending attack never materialized.

British Give Up Hill.

Headquarters disclosed that the British had withdrawn from Hill [illegible] in the Odon-Orne wedge. This move was described as a withdrawal from an untenable position left in no-man's land. Maltot and Loewigny also were regarded as in no-man's land.

Hill 112 originally was described as the dominating position of the Odon salient and "whoever held that hill" could dominate the ground between the Odon and the Orne rivers.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Following is the German Friday war bulletin, as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"In the western part of the landing head of Normandy the Americans threw fresh formations into battle and continued their attacks with the focal point in the direction of St. Lo.

"In the course of bitter fighting the enemy, at a price of heavy losses, made an inconsiderable gain of ground. At no place, however, did he succeed in achieving the planned break thru. Heavy fighting continues with unabated vigor.

"German naval forces operating off the Dutch coast set two British E-boats afire. One of our own patrol boats was lost."

NO REST FOR GERMANS

BY GRAHAM MILLER.
[Correspondent of the New York News and The Chicago Tribune.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 14.—German prisoners around St. Lo are stumbling back to American cages, their eyes red rimmed and bloodshot for lack of sleep. Once inside the cages they fall flat on their faces under the open sky and sleep so soundly that it's almost impossible to get them sorted or interrogated.

That's one indication of the overwhelming allied air superiority, it was explained at this headquarters today. High on the priority of the tactical air force operating in Normandy is this simple injunction: "Keep the enemy from sleeping."

Unshaven and Smelly.

A few days ago I watched groups of Germans being herded along a road toward a prisoners' cage not far from Valognes. They were men obviously at the limit of human endurance. Staggering and swaying, they leaned on each other and on their guards. They were unshaven and odoriferous with that curious, sickly sweet stench of men who have not taken off their clothing or washed for many days.

Some prisoners, taken outside Caen on the British sector of the front, were so nerve-shattered by bombings and sleeplessness that their trembling hands were incapable of working the bolts of their rifles when ordered by their captors to unload and stack their weapons.

Nazi Traffic Slowed.

Between Orleans and Paris, it was reported by this headquarters tonight, German military traffic is flowing only in spasmodic trickles during the daylight hours as a result of the raids by the allied tactical air force. The man who is supposed to stop this state of affairs, Marshal Sperling, chief of the German fighter command in this area, is having troubles of his own. The fields from which his fighter planes operate around Paris are being pounded steadily and even when his ships manage to become airborne they are not much safer.

In one brisk engagement yesterday, 10 out of 12 enemy fighter planes were shot down by a Spitfire squadron without loss of a ship.

REDS FIGHT INTO GERMANY, NAZI MAP INDICATES

New York, July 14 (AP).—In the eyes of the Nazis, the Russian army already is fighting on German soil, it was disclosed today, altho from the Russian point of view soviet forces still have some distance to go before entering actual German territory.

A German map brought to this country by Philip Whitcomb of the Baltimore Sun papers, who was interned in Germany until last February, shows the Germans apparently made extensive boundary changes after their 1941 invasion of Russia. Titled "Map of the Great German Reich," it shows that the Germans moved the boundary from 80 to 125 miles east in Poland from the line of the Pisa and Bug rivers on which they had agreed with Russia in September, 1939.

This extension, embracing about 15,000 square miles, took Grodno, Wolkowysk, and Bialystok. Cities on the eastern boundary included Sobakince, Ostryna, Kamenka, Podbiocie, Rushanka, Zelwa, and Pruzhani. With the advances announced by the Russians tonight, by German standards they already are 10 to 20 miles inside the reich.

41 YANKS WIN MEDALS; 3 ARE FROM MIDWEST

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—Gallantry awards were announced today for 41 officers and infantry men for action in France. Twelve were silver stars, the rest bronze stars.

Bronze stars were awarded to two midwesterners, Pvt. Richard Ramer, 415 Logan st., Rockford, Ill., and Sgt. Lewis Newman, Fall Creek, Wis.

MAID LEAVES WITH $1,000 RING.

AGREE INVASION VICTORY INSURES DEFEAT OF JAPS

Proves Landings Can Be Made Anywhere.

BY WES GALLAGHER.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 14 (AP).—A special allied mission studying the results of the Normandy invasion with a view to applying its lessons to the Pacific has agreed in general that the successful landing against the most strongly defended coastline in the world has insured the defeat of Japan.

"It has proved that by proper application of sea, land, and air power the allies can successfully land any place they choose—including Japan itself under the proper conditions—and carry on a large scale military campaign," is the way one high officer summed it up tonight.

Invasion Explodes Bogies.

The mission is especially charged with studying the mistakes made in the organization of the unloading on the beaches. One of the chief lessons learned has exploded the old theory that a warship cannot engage and knock out shore batteries. Even old battleships sailed in close and knocked out batteries while suffering only superficial damage themselves.

Two other bogies exploded were that troops could not land in mined areas or over beaches covered by underwater obstacles. The mined beaches were hurdled by the use of rocket firing craft and bombing which exploded the mines. The underwater obstacles were overcome by sheer courage of skilled men.

Work Out Secret Methods.

A 24 foot rise and fall in the tide enabled these men to get at the underwater obstacles in low water and, altho few places in the Pacific will provide this advantage, the allies already have worked out secret methods of overlooking the handicap.

On the debit side the United States and Britain have learned that they could not wholly depend on man made devices to overcome nature's whims. An elaborate and costly plan to make the unloadings independent of the weather came to naught when bad weather ripped framework devices to pieces.

Several of the amphibious experiments have been of much greater success than anticipated and the allies are keeping them secret for use in the Pacific.

Refueling Is Big Problem.

One of the greatest problems the European theater mission is trying to overcome is that of refueling and munitioning ships at sea. In the channel operation warships fired tens of thousands of tons of shells, but all had to do a run of a hundred miles across the channel to replenish stores.

Normandy is held to have proved that the key to the success of an amphibious landing is superiority of fire power. This was supplied in western Europe by warships and army aircraft based less than 100 miles away. There is no place in the Pacific at present where the allies could apply this land-based air power with the force used in western Europe because the bases are so far apart. Thus the burden of fire power will fall on warships and aircraft carriers, making the problem of supply at sea the crux of the whole operation.

AMERICAN BOMBERS BLAST 4 OIL PLANTS IN BUDAPEST AREA

LONDON, July 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—American heavy bombers from Italy attacked four oil refineries and railyards in and near the Hungarian capital of Budapest yesterday as the worst weather since D-day held operations from the west to no more than 1,000 sorties.

British bombers attacked military targets in occupied territory, probably France, last night. Earlier the German radio said raiders were over the Hanover-Brunswick region.

R. A. F. Lancasters with fighter escort attacked the flying bomb installations in northern France yesterday afternoon without loss and a small force of Liberator heavy bombers followed Pathfinder planes to Amiens and bombed that Somme river rail center by instrument.

Between 250 and 500 heavy bombers, accompanied by Lightnings and Mustangs, hit the Fanto, Shell Koolatz and Hungary petroleum company refineries outside Budapest, and the Petfurdo refinery five miles to the southwest.

Liberators attacked the last target, while the first three, having a total yearly capacity of 358,000 tons of crude oil, were hit by Flying Fortresses. Liberators also attacked Budapest's Ferencuaros railyards.

Gets Year for Failure to Register for Draft

Charles E. Alexander, 37, of Collinsville, Madison county, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan to a year and a day in prison for failing to register for selective service. Walter A. Witkowski, assistant United States attorney, told the court Alexander had worked in various war plants in the last four years but had quit each time he was asked to produce his draft card.

REVEAL HITLER SEEKS POLITICAL GRIP ON TROOPS

Officers Ordered to Preach Naziism.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, July 14 (AP).—Adolf Hitler is making a strong effort to gain political as well as military control of the German army with appointment of political commissars whose duties are to indoctrinate troops with his theories of national socialism and to suppress any discontent.

This was disclosed today in a captured enemy document which was distributed to company commanders thruout the army upon appointment of the commissars.

Nazi "Cells" Organized.

With every battalion there was supposed to be a fuehrungsoffizier, or "guiding officer," to look after the interests of Hitler and the party by supervising organization of Nazi "cells."

Each company commander is under orders by the commissar to build a staff of loyal party members "who will help him strengthen the national socialism attitude of all the men in his company." And it is his responsibility along with those men he selects as his chosen aides to be bearers of "propagandistic ideals of our fuehrer."

Seek to End "Silly Talk."

The document, dated April 21, 1944, said Nazi leaders should use their influence to "put an end to all silly talk about invasion and losing the war" and special checks should be made of volksdeutsche, or nonreich Germans.

However, to avoid stirring up the resentment of troops it emphasized that company commanders should carry out the instructions from commissars "without causing too much notice in the company."

The document was from a Lt. Dr. Eymann to a Capt. Freizel.

CHICAGOANS GO BOUNCING OFF TO WAR IN JEEP

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN NORMANDY, July 14. — The major has been in the army 27 years and was formerly a top sergeant, so you couldn't expect him to enjoy hanging around as a service group commander in a war correspondent's camp.

Capt. Jean B. Reeves.

The major—Maj. James P. Owens—invited Aaron Bohrod, Chicago artist and a fellow war correspondent, and me to accompany him this afternoon in his jeep. The major borrowed a carbine, saying, "Maybe we'll see some rabbits," and we went bouncing off, the major at the wheel.

Our objective was the Lessay sector where the fighting has been particularly fierce and the major was so anxious to get there that he persuaded us not to stop at regimental headquarters.

Chicagoans at Post.

However, we thought that we had better get a look at the terrain, so we visited Lt. Col. J. B. Kraft, Buffalo, N. Y., who assigned a guide to take us to a forward artillery O. P. [observation post]. Kraft said they had had "good hunting" last night and today.

Lt. Col. Kraft's officers include Maj. John L. Savorias, Milwaukee, Wis., and Capt. Jean B. Reeves, 5131 Cullom av., Chicago, whose father, Sherman V. Reeves, is assistant to the general auditor of the Santa Fe railroad.

The road to the artillery O. P. was up a winding lane littered with German bicycles, weapons, and other debris, including a German tank knocked out atop a hill.

Sees Planes Bomb Nazis.

While we watched, a flight of Thunderbolts dived onto a hidden target perhaps a half mile before us and dropped bombs which sent smoke and dust rolling skyward.

They were handing out brand new "expert combat infantryman" ribbons during our visit to all the men who took part in the assault on the hill. The ribbons bring the recipients an extra $10 a month. Those receiving them included Pvt. Walter Temchuk, 21, 1345 N. Campbell, Chicago; Pvt. Dewey J. Hansen, 20, Peoria, Ill.; Tech. Sgt. Wilbur Rada, 33, Chester, Ill., and Pvt. Harold T. McDaniel, 19, Knoxville, Ia.

I also saw 2d Lt. Steve W. Trok, 32, 1052 N. Christiana av., and Pvt. Robert E. Nieburger, 19, 2148 Summerdale, both of Chicago.

Pvt. Robert E. Nieburger [left], Lt. Steve W. Trok [center], and Pvt. Walter Temchuk.

Take Side Road to Front.

Shortly afterward we went toward the sound of guns and we finally found ourselves in company with reconnaissance cars of an outfit which had just been driven from the village ahead by hot German artillery fire.

The major reluctantly decided that if the town ahead was too hot for armored cars it might be too hot for a jeep, so we turned off on a side road and by the simple process of following the trail of dead Germans arrived at the battalion command post.

There a lieutenant colonel was directing the advance of his outfit. He said, "We are having kind of a rough day. They just caught one of my companies at the crossroads and shelled the hell out of it; killed the company commander—best man I had."

During last night's advance the colonel said that his men took several hundred yards of ground, captured 33 Germans, plus three or four others who were wounded, and killed a known 15 or 20, of whom we saw about 10.

The prisoners, he said, were very young, ranging from 16 to 19. All the dead we saw looked young, as tho they had not yet started shaving.

Windsors Eat Chicken —for Two Long Weeks

Miami Beach, Fla., July 14 (AP).—Curtailment of shipments of rationed foods from the United States forced Edward Windsor, governor of the Bahamas, and his wife on a two week diet of chicken—and more chicken, last summer, she said here today. "We were without any meat at all for two weeks," she said. "We just ate chicken—and chicken—and chicken!" The Windsors, who arrived here yesterday, will leave for New York tomorrow.

NEW GREEK REGIME REPORTED; OPPOSES RULE BY COALITION

IZMIR, Turkey, July 13 [Delayed]—(AP).—Establishment inside Greece of a Greek provisional government opposing the new national Greek coalition government in Cairo, Egypt, was disclosed today by a member of the central political committee of Greece—the controversial Eam political-military resistance organization.

The new provisional government, this figure said in an interview, is called the "Peea"—signifying "political committee of national liberation." He said it was the offspring of Eam and was patterned after Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French committee.

This source, who has just slipped out of Greece, said the Peea sought an agreement with the exiled government in Cairo but was rejected.

DOUGHBOYS AND GENERALS BURY GEN. ROOSEVELT

Body Rests Among Dead of His Division.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 14.—Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., the army's foremost front line general officer, who died Thursday night of a heart attack, was buried tonight with military honors in a cemetery near the Normandy village of St. Mere Eglise. He was laid to rest beside the fresh graves of other soldiers of the 4th infantry division, which he had served as assistant commander.

Half a dozen generals, including Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, and scores of officers who had served with Gen. Roosevelt in the 1st and 4th divisions, and hundreds of doughboys and many French civilians stood among the white crosses and paid their last respects. Beside the casket stood the general's youngest son, Capt. Quentin Roosevelt of the 1st division; his aide, Lt. Marcus O. Stevenson of San Antonio, Tex., and Tech. Sgt. Kurt Show of Roslyn, L. I., who had been the general's jeep driver.

Chapter of Bible Read.

Lt. Col. James A. Bryant of Crystal Springs, Miss., division chaplain, read the 8th chapter from Romans. He said he had talked with Gen. Roosevelt recently and it exemplified the general's faith and devotion to duty and his dependence upon God and fellowship with Him. Col. P. C. Schroeder of Flushing, N. Y., 1st army chaplain, recited the 23d psalm. Even as the chaplains spoke the sounds of war were heard. German cannon fired at our observation planes, and along a road bordering the cemetery the flow of war traffic rolled on.

From an adjacent field at 9 p. m. the 4th division band led the funeral cortege into the cemetery, playing Chopin's Funeral March. Behind the band were Maj. George L. Mabry of Sumter, S. C., and his firing party; the colors—the Stars and Stripes and the 4th division flag—with their color guard, and the chaplains.

Two by two came eight doughboy pallbearers. Then came the flag-draped casket in an armored half track.

Honor to "My Company."

To a company of the 2d battalion of a certain infantry regiment fell the honor of providing the eight men for the firing party. Always in the lead of each of the three landings in which he had engaged, Gen. Roosevelt was with the first assault boats of this company to land on the Cherbourg peninsula at H-hour on D-day. Since then he always had referred to the men as "my company."

LIVORNO FRONT WEAKENS; YANKS SPRING AHEAD

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ADVANCING TOWARD THE ARNO RIVER, Italy, 7 p. m., July 14 (AP).—Organized German resistance has suddenly been withdrawn from before United States troops in many sectors of the Italian front in the last 24 hours, and gains varying from three to five miles were reported across practically the entire American portion of the front today.

As a result of the weaker resistance, there was a possibility that the Americans, whose advanced elements were moving on Livorno [Leghorn], might enter that seaport early next week.

The fighting was far different from the yard-for-yard slugging in the Volterra and Rosignano areas in the last two weeks. The Americans were encountering only small pockets of eight to 10 German snipers at a time and only spasmodic artillery fire of the harassing variety, mostly from the vicinity east of Livorno.

Deep Mine Fields Met.

The advance still was running into deep mine fields and extensive demolitions, however.

The last punch thrown by the Germans was reported late yesterday, when 80 Nazis counter-attacked from a mountain north of Castellina. Under a smashing mortar and artillery barrage, the enemy's attempt soon was broken up.

With most of the vantage points of the area lost, the Germans may have to pull back five or six miles to make a delaying stand south of the Arno river before retiring to their Pisa-Rimini, or Gothic line, fortifications.

French troops celebrated Bastille day by capturing the communications center of Poggibonsi, 21 miles southwest of Florence, after two days of combat in the outskirts.

[A German broadcast said Nazi chutists recaptured Poggibonsi. It was not confirmed.]

Spearheading a thrust into San Luce late yesterday was a regimental combat team of American soldiers of Japanese origin.

In bayonet and hand grenade fighting, the Americans first cleaned out the village of Pastina, two miles south of San Luce, and then repelled a furious counter-attack as they pressed on thru San Luce.

British Gain Near Arezzo.

Near the center of the 150 mile battle front, British 8th army troops drove the Nazis off high ground east of Arezzo and captured Monte Santa Maria.

In the upper Tiber valley the British seized three more commanding heights and patrols pushed within two and a half miles of Citta di Castello. Farther east, Indian troops advanced several miles and repelled German counter-attacks near Colle de Orci. Polish troops made slight gains near the Adriatic.

Mediterranean air forces flew 1,800 sorties yesterday, attacking railyards and bridges in northern Italy. Six allied planes were missing.

[The broadcast German war report said: "The enemy restricted his activities to attacks in the area north of Volterra and both sides of the Tiber in the sector of Citta di Castello. His gains were insignificant. In the rear of the front and in the upper Italian area several bands and sabotage groups were wiped out."]

ALGIERS CHEERS GREET DE GAULLE ON BASTILLE DAY

Eager Troops March for General.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALGIERS, Algeria, July 14.—Bastille day was an occasion for rejoicing on two counts and Free French colonials made the most of it today.

First they saw Gen. Charles de Gaulle return from the United States and Canada. Their papers had told them he had won recognition of President Roosevelt for the committee of national liberation as the de facto government of France pending the war's end. The people clapped, whistled, and shouted "Vive De Gaulle" at the general.

Then they saw their soldiers parade jauntily as bands from various colonies played martial music. It was the proudest Bastille day since the war began, for all knew the troops had been trained and waited impatiently to set foot on Europe again. The officers' pace was spirited and their faces bore eager grins as they saluted De Gaulle.

Yanks Help Village Celebrate.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS OUTSIDE ST. LO, July 14 (AP).—It was Bastille day in Castilly. In a little cemetery villagers gathered in their Sunday best to celebrate the independence that came to their nation 155 years ago.

They said their prayers in church, then marched out to a shaft of marble erected to 26 sons of Castilly who died for France in the first World war. Some one had tied a tricolor and an American flag to a fence near-by.

There were speeches by the mayor, the cure, a French major and an American officer. And then everybody cheered and the band played the Star Spangled Banner, God Save the King, and La Marseillaise.

Little boys and girls with hair plastered down under funny little hats were fascinated by the shining instruments of the American band.

A Tricolor in Meat.

ON THE BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, July 14 (AP).—In shell torn churches and cathedrals, Normans celebrated Bastille day today.

It was the first time since 1940, when the Germans swept into France that they had been able to celebrate the French national holiday without threat of death from their Nazi overlords.

"But we did not forget we once were a free people," said a Frenchwoman from Caen. "In shop windows, butchers would display a piece of red meat with a piece of white fat and a piece of blue heart. There was the tricolor."

MUSEUM SEWS ITS 1ST GOLD STAR IN HONOR OF GEN. ROOSEVELT

The first gold star was sewn onto the service flag of the Chicago Natural History museum yesterday and the flags on the two flagstaffs were ordered at half staff for three days in tribute to Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., who died Wednesday night in Normandy.

Gen. Roosevelt, a trustee of the museum since 1938, was one of five members of the institution's 21 man directing board commissioned in the army and navy. Thirty-five employes also are in service, Acting Director Orr Goodson said.

Several habitat groups of rare animals collected in Asia by Gen. Roosevelt and his brother, Maj. Kermit Roosevelt, who died while on duty in Alaska, will serve as a memorial to the two men, who made two expeditions for the institution in 1925 and in 1928.

GERMAN DRIVE BROKEN UP IN ALBANIA: TITO

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—Marshal Tito's broadcast bulletin said tonight a big German offensive against Albanian guerrillas had been smashed with heavy Nazi losses and that the guerrillas were counter-attacking.

The broadcast, recorded by the ministry of information, also said Yugoslav Partisans had destroyed two German garrisons and captured much war material in offensive operations in central and western Bosnia.

The Algiers radio broadcast that troops of a London division now were fighting with Tito's army.

VILLA SERVANT RECALLS DUCE AS JUST A YES MAN

Pistol Packing Wife Real 'Dictator.'

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, July 14.—Thru the halls of the Villa Torlonia where Mrs. Mussolini once chased Il Duce with a loaded pistol over a matter of infidelity, British officers roamed today.

Other Britons stowed away roast beef and Yorkshire pudding and quaffed Chianti in the banqueting room where Mussolini, with his ulcers, had to be content to nibble at vegetables and sip water.

Upstairs in the gilded bedrooms lolled others, their military caps slapped awry on white sculptures of voluptous Italian women. Mussolini may have been abstemious in the dining room but in those bedrooms he and his aides entertained their mistresses.

A Dictator's Dictator.

Mussolini had to be careful to do his dallying when his wife, Donna Rachele, wasn't around. Giovanni, the grizzled gatekeeper, who is still on the job, recalled today that Donna Rachele would not stand for any of Mussolini's dictator posturing or the presence of his girl friends.

"No women outside of the family were admitted to the villa when Signora Mussolini was around," Giovanni said, then added with a twinkle in his eyes, "but when Donna Rachele was not there. . . ."

One of those latter times, blond and buxom Claretta Petacci, the last of Il Duce's girl friends, got in and applauded while Mussolini, astride a white Arabian steed, galloped and jumped fences on the grounds. Donna Rachele didn't mind the equestrianism but she objected to a bedroom scene and bought a pistol.

Duce Almost Gets Plugged.

Brandishing the weapon, she pursued Il Duce thru the corridors and threatened to shoot him. Claretta did not appear at the villa any more.

"Donna Rachele scolded Il Duce often," Giovanni said, "and he didn't dare talk back."

Then, with extreme volubility and gestures, Giovanni used an Italian expression for which the expurgated English equivalent would be something like, "If he got too tough she would smack him down."

Villa Houses Mess.

Other Britishers viewed the tennis court where Mussolini often played—badly—but always won because his opponents knew they had better let him.

The villa and its spacious grounds, with lovely pines and sycamores was taken over by the British shortly after our arrival in Rome and is used for mess and living quarters. Il Duce's son, Vittorio, had come home last October and moved some furniture to the north of Italy, selling the remainder to dealers.

ANTI-FASCIST PARTIES WON'T BE DICTATORS, ITALY PREMIER SAYS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 14.—Prime Minister Ivanoe Bonomi said today as he took office in Rome that the Italian government being developed from six anti-Fascist parties must not become "a dictatorship of these parties."

Bonomi promised reestablishment of the liberties of speech, press, opinion, and meeting, and that provincial authorities will not be made the slaves of one party.

The first meeting of the Bonomi cabinet will be held here tomorrow. Among matters to be considered are Italian participation with the allies in the war and publication in full of Italian armistice terms.

PATRIOTS DELAY REPATRIATES' FRENCH TRAINS

IRUN, Spain, July 14 (AP).—German railway officials admitted today that they did not know the exact location of three trainloads of British repatriates en route to Lisbon to be exchanged for about 900 Germans. It was apparent that Maquis [French underground] leaders who control the territory between Bordeaux and Toulouse alone could say when any of the trains would get thru. The repatriates left Germany on July 6. The Swedish liner Drottingholm, which arrived at Lisbon this week with the German exchangees, had been scheduled to start for Britain yesterday.

KEEP U. S.-BUILT PACIFIC BASES, CHANDLER URGES

Must Have Supply Line to Australia, He Says.

BY GUY GENTRY.

Warning that "there must never be another Bataan or Corregidor," Sen. Chandler, [D., Ky.] urged yesterday before the Executives' Club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman that the United States immediately obtain permanent rights to the use of air fields and installations constructed in many parts of the world at a cost of more than 500 million dollars.

Sen. Chandler.

"The American people saved Australia from being overrun by the Japanese," Chandler said. "It would be foolish for us not to insist upon a well anchored and well protected supply line to Australia in the future."

The Kentucky senator, introduced as a possible candidate for Vice President in the Democratic national convention meeting here next week, drew cheers when he pointed out that he had pleaded in the senate a year ago for more assistance to Gen. MacArthur, whom he described as "the greatest field leader yet produced by this war."

Mandate Error Called Costly.

"The failure of the United States to accept any mandates after the last war," Chandler pointed out, "left these mandates open to other countries. As a result we find our armed forces now not only trying to regain possession of the islands mandated to Japan, but many others which were mandated to other nations unable to defend them when the showdown came.

"It is obvious that in our own interest and for our own protection we must hold all such bases which in the hands of an enemy would constitute a menace to the people of the United States and in the hands of a friend unable to defend them would have to be taken by us with possible great loss of life.

Cites Huge Investment.

"The American people are entitled to some return for the more than 24 billions already invested in lend-lease funds for the aid of Britain, Russia, China, and our other allies. Many of these bases have been won by the blood of American soldiers. We gave up our right to these bases after World War I. and came home. This time we must arrange to keep them. The men who are offering their lives to take them want it that way."

The senator said "We must cooperate with our allies, but we must do it upon a realistic basis and I hope our government will have understandings with them now and not wait until the war is over."

Early in his address Chandler said he had been known as one of the "budget balancing" governors.

"I have always believed that no nation, state, or business could prosper if it annually piled up deficits beyond its ability to pay," he asserted.

SEAGOING TANKS OF A CHICAGOAN FIGHT IN PACIFIC

NOEMFOOR ISLAND, Dutch New Guinea, July 7 [Delayed]—(AP).—At its beginning the American campaign to capture strategic little Noemfoor posed one of the most severe logistical problems of the Southwest Pacific war. Coral reefs surrounuded the island and no landing barges could float across them. Until channels could be blasted thru the rock—a two day job—only amphibious vehicles could move from ship to shore.

Working sometimes under enemy firee, they landed the assault forces. Then they had to transport thousands of tons of supplies and equipment—all the massive impedimenta of modern warfare.

Greeks Condemn Twelve More in April Mutiny

3 AILMENTS SEND MRS. CHIANG TO BRAZIL FOR REST

Arrives in Rio After a Secret Journey.

CHUNGKING, China, July 14 (AP).—Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, China's first lady whose arrival in Rio de Janeiro for a rest cure was announced today, was pale and listless, friends said, when she departed Sunday in utmost secrecy.

Suffering from nervous exhaustion, insomnia and chronic urticaria—an inflammation of the skin, Mrs. Chiang planned to spend three months in Brazil, away from the intense summer heat of China.

Under the care of Comdr. Frank Harrington, assistant United States naval attache for several months, China's first lady told friends at a farewell tea that "Dr. Harrington told me I'd never be cured if I stayed in Chungking."

Accompanied by Sister.

Comdr. Harrington said the intense, humid heat of Chungking aggravated Mrs. Chiang's condition.

In her party of 10, which left China secretly to avoid Japanese war planes, were her sister, Mrs. H. H. Kung, whose husband, as Chinese minister of finance heads the Chinese delegation to the Bretton Woods, N. H., monetary conference, and Mrs. Kung's children, Miss L. W. Kung and Louis Kung.

Going to England.

Last year Mrs. Chiang went to the United States and, after spending some time in a hospital, was a guest of President and Mrs. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y.

It was reliably reported here that after recuperating in Brazil Mrs. Chiang will visit England and return to Chungking late in the fall.

Eddyville, Ill., Sergeant Awarded the Silver Star

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—The war department today announced award of the silver star to Tech. Sgt. Lewis T. Horton of Eddyville, Ill., who, as crew member of an aircraft "calmly and resourcefully assisted direction of the crew in extinguishing a fire in the tail section." Then, "with complete disregard for his own personal safety, he entered the tail section, with little more than the skin holding the damaged tail section to the fuselage, and repaired damaged control cables."

Control Railroad

CHUNGKING, China, July 14 (AP).—The Japanese again encircled the pivotal Hunan city of Hengyang on July 10, three days after the Chinese had broken the seige, and it still is surrounded, a Chinese army spokesman said today.

He also announced the Japs control the Canton-Hankow railway from Hengyang to the outskirts of Leiyang, 32 miles to the south, and have shifted their field headquarters from Changsha to Hengshan, 25 miles northeast of Hengyang.

Enemy forces also are advancing from the south toward a junction to cut China in half. The Japs were said to have resorted to poison gas in their intensified attacks on Hengyang, but the Chinese said they were repulsed with more than 1,000 casualties.

Counter-attacking Chinese recovered several strongpoints on the approaches to Hengyang, and killed 500 Japs in fighting below Leiyang.

[A Tokyo broadcast said the Japanese air force had begun using the air fields at both Changsha and Hengyang, compelling the American air forces to withdraw to other fields some 600 miles distant.]

Mighty QUIET tomorrow ...around HENRICI'S

Won't be anybody here! No chefs . . . no waitresses . . . no nobody (except maybe some disappointed folks outside . . . who didn't see this ad).

Because, you see, we're going to play hookey Sunday . . . we aren't even going to *think about HENRICI'S until first thing Monday morning.

And that's for every single Sunday thru July and August! Golly!

GEN. LEAR NAMED HEAD OF ARMY'S GROUND FORCES

Succeeds M'Nair, Who Is Assigned Overseas.

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—The first shift in the top level command of the army in more than two years was disclosed today with the announcement that Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, ground forces commander who has been called "the brains of the army," has been ordered overseas on an important assignment.

Lt. Gen. Ben Lear.

Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, 65, former 2d army chief, still remembered for his disciplinary orders to a group of soldiers in the "yoo hoo" incident at Memphis, Tenn., in 1941, has succeeded McNair as commanding general of the ground forces.

No hint of the nature of McNair's new job was given but the war department stressed that it was important.

Designed Training Plan.

Small [he is 5 ft. 8 in. tall], neat, energetic, and soft spoken, McNair, 61, is the designer of the training program that has produced combat units which fought like veterans in their first battles. He is credited with streamlining the old "square" division of nearly 20,000 men into the "triangular" infantry division of 15,000, and is said to have originated the tank destroyer.

Lear, who succeeds him, is a cavalryman who rose from the ranks. He commanded the ground forces temporarily when McNair was wounded while visiting the Tunisian front in April, 1943.

"Yoo Hoo" Recalled.

A celebrated incident in his career was the "yoo hoo" affair at Memphis. Lear, in civilian clothes, was playing golf when the trucks of the 110th quartermaster regiment rolled by on their way to Arkansas. The soldiers "yoo hooed" and whistled at girls on the golf course and when they saw a golfer teeing off, yelled, "Fore!" "Hey, buddy, need a caddy?"

The golfer was the commanding general of the 2d army, who forthwith ordered the soldiers on a disciplinary march. It set off a controversy in the press and in congress, and the war department ordered Lear to make a full report.

"Loose conduct and rowdyism cannot be tolerated," was his reply.

The 2d army command was a training job, too, and Lear won the distinguished service medal for his "excellent judgment, forceful leadership, untiring efforts, and high professional attainments" while he held it.

American Tanker Sunk by U-Boat Off Colombia

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia, July 14 (AP).—Sinking of the American tanker Harrisburg by a U-boat off Colombia was disclosed today.

MORE FLEEING JAPS KILLED IN NORTHEAST INDIA

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, July 14 (AP).—Japanese forces abandoned more positions in northeastern India after sharp fighting with advancing British troops, headquarters announced today.

Near Ningthoukhong and Khakhunao and south of Bishenpur, which is 20 miles south of Imphal, the Japs lost 62 killed. East of Imphal British forces harrassing the withdrawing Japs inflicted heavy casualties and captured many prisoners and much equipment.

FOIL JAP DRIVES AGAINST ALLIES' 2 GUINEA TRAPS

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, July 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—Japanese forces, struggling to break two compressed allied traps in New Guinea, are reorganizing for a new offensive in one area and are crawling thru hazardous jungles in the other, headquarters announced today.

Stubborn American resistance blunted the initial assault Wednesday by vanguards of 45,000 Japs east of Aitape in British New Guinea. In a blazing jungle battle, the Japs crossed the Driniumor river, 21 miles east of the important Tadji airdrome, after one allied outpost withdrew.

The assault was smashed and the attackers began reorganizing for another attempt.

Battle in Valley.

A total of 268 Japs have been buried in the Aitape area since the current push began with skirmishes Monday. Naval and air forces pounded the Jap rear areas.

The fighting lines are in the Driniumo river valley, with Yanks and Nipponese on both sides of the river.

War developments in New Guinea.

Approximately 300 miles to the west, in Dutch New Guinea, American forces have captured the Saware air field in the Sarmi-Maffin bay area. Jap resistance virtually has collapsed there and the survivors are moving west in what headquarters called "a hazardous movement of doubtful success."

Sink Jap Freighter.

Headquarters announced a 3,000 ton Jap freighter, loaded with men and ammunition, was sunk by allied aircraft at Halmahera Island, some 300 miles south of the Philippines, on July 9.

In other raids, bombers made their 10th attack of the month on Yap, in the western Carolines, on Thursday. Four of 15 intercepting Zeros were destroyed. One bomber was lost.

Former Minister Mandel Killed, Vichy Radio Says

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—The Vichy radio said tonight that Georges Mandel, interior minister in Premier Paul Reynaud's cabinet at the time of the fall of France, had been "killed while being transferred from one prison to another."

"You guys are poppin' too many questions at him! Remember we weren't very full of talk when we came back in 1918!"

BRITISH DEMAND HOMES ACCEPT ROBOT REFUGEES

Bombs Still Untamed, Minister Admits.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—Protests against the reluctance of householders in safe areas to provide a refuge from robot bombs for women and children removed from London were voiced in the press tonight as 30,000 more children were taken from the capital.

The Evening Standard, in a story typical of the press' reaction, told how mothers with young children were forced to return to London because of the refusal of residents of one northern town to billet them, and called it a "new kind of horror."

Begin Prosecutions.

Reports from evacuee reception areas meanwhile disclosed that authorities were adopting a stiffer attitude toward householders who refused to take refugees and in the holiday town of Blackpool officials instituted court action to prosecute eight persons for refusing to accept evacuees.

There was a possibility, too, that army camps vacated by invasion troops might be opened. Ministry of health officials said negotiations had begun with the war office but "no suitable camps were available as yet."

The London passenger transport board rejected an offer by Manchester and Sheffield bus and street car operators to take temporary jobs in London to give drivers and conductors there a rest from the raids, but the post office accepted the offer of 20 Manchester women telephone operators and 20 telegraphers to exchange jobs temporarily with Londoners.

Problem Still Unsolved.

On a tour of a bombed area Home Security Minister Herbert Morrison warned today that "we are looking forward to the day when the flying bomb will be mastered; but it would be foolish and unkind of me to encourage people to count on this as an early achievement."

"I think that the wise course," he continued, "is to act on the assumption that we may have to put up with quite a bit of it yet, despite everything our airmen and our armies can do to defeat it and everything the government can do to minimize its effects."

He described the robots as "one of the Nazis' last desperate throws," intended "to assist their own chances of winning a compromise peace by getting on the nerves of the people of London and wearing down their resistance."

Pound Robot Installations.

Counter measures already have made an "appreciable difference" in the weight of the robot bomb attack, Morrison said.

For the fifth consecutive day, Lancasters of the R. A. F. bomber command pounded flying bomb installations in northern France today without suffering loss.

The Germans sent flying bombs over the southern counties tonight, causing additional damage and casualties, but for the fifth straight night no mention was made of any falling in London.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by M. Seitter, 6454 Laflin st.]

THE QUESTION.

What can your father do that you brag about to your friends?

WHERE ASKED.

Jackson park.

THE ANSWERS.

Donald Ruswick, 9, 4452 University av.—My dad is a good cook. There aren't many men who know much about the kitchen, but he really knows his way around. He experiments with new dishes. He makes different dishes with pepper in them. He fries tomatoes and eggs and covers them with pepper. He cooks mostly with pepper.

Raymond Best, 12, 6422 Throop st.—My dad swam all the way to the crib when he was a boy and that's about four miles out in the lake. I know he did it because he still talks about it. I haven't seen him swim this summer or last, but I suppose he still knows how because he used to be such a good swimmer.

Jimmy Le Blanc, 7, 6343 Elizabeth st.—Dad can still turn somersaults and that's pretty good for his age. Once he was turning somersaults in the kitchen and he almost broke a dish. He's an electrician in the navy now. I don't see him much, but I know he's the best electrician in the navy. There couldn't be any better.

Howard Cohen, 6, 5310 Dorchester av.—When dad is lying on the floor, I put the baby on his head and then I sit on his back. He throws the baby over his head, catches him and lays him on my bed. Then after he's done all that he jumps up and throws me on his bed. You have to be awfully strong to do that.

Barbara Schmich, 10, 911 W. Marquette rd.—It's not his business to be a painter, but at home dad painted all the ceilings and papered the walls in the whole house. He did a good job of it, too, and you would think it was done by some one who made a business of it. Besides that, he's a figure skater.

Edith Rosenbaum, 8, 5461 Everett av.—My dad is strong. He holds his feet up in the air and I stand on them. We do the tricks on his bed so that if I fall I don't get hurt. He lies on his stomach, too, while I sit on his back. Then he does push-ups with me sitting on his back. I bet your dad can't do that.

REIGN OF TERROR BEGUN BY NAZIS, HULL CHARGES

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull charged today that the Nazis had begun a reign of terror thruout occupied Europe.

In London, another state department official, Herbert Claiborne Pell, said he believed the Germans would attempt to wreck occupied Europe as preparations for another war.

Pell said that by such violence—"beyond anything the world has seen"—the Germans would seek to weaken their neighbors permanently while they remained relatively strong.

It was the reported wiping out of the Grecian village of Distomo and mass killings of Jews in Hungary that prompted Secretary Hull to denounce the alleged atrocities anew and to promise that punishment would be dealt out to the Nazi perpetrators. More than 1,000 persons were reported killed at Distomo in dispatches from Ankara, Turkey.

"The cold blooded murder of the population of Distomo is another shocking example of the reign of terror which the Nazis have instituted in Europe and which becomes more savage as they become more desperate," Hull said.

Of the massacre of Jews in Hungary "by the Nazis and their Hungarian Quislings," Hull asserted that the number of victims is already great, and "the entire Jewish community in Hungary, which numbered nearly 1,000,000 souls, is threatened with extermination."

He said the United States "will not slacken" its efforts to rescue as many of the people as possible.

POISONED NEWS.

C. V. R. Thompson, New York correspondent for Beaverbrook's London Daily Express, sent his boss a story from Chicago recently in which he said that "every other building in Chicago must be some kind of a bar or night club." He said that each of them had "a non-stop strip-tease show of such coarseness that I had better not describe it. In most of them the strip-teasers join you at your table in between acts—you would have to be downright violent to keep them away. . . ." He had many more such details, but his dispatch failed to mention that Chicago and the middle west are producing more munitions for all of the allies than the entire British empire. He did not touch on the fact that the middle west has sent more food to Britain than has the empire—food which our country gave to his country and which his country sold to its people at a profit.

Mr. Thompson's story might have been dismissed by Americans as a silly piece of British scurrility, a most ungrateful gesture of reverse lend-lease, except that it is part of an old, old pattern. As long as England has been an empire it has been her practice to defame and traduce every other nation. This is her method of maintaining British superiority and it has not been relaxed to exempt the fond friends and allies who are saving her from destruction in this war. The English even cast slurs at the other residents within the United Kingdom. They caused the Scotch to be known as avaricious and stingy, and the Welsh to be known as welchers who did not pay their debts. The old nursery rhyme, "Taffy was a Welshman, Taffy was a thief . . ." did not have its origin in America or in Wales.

The British news agency, Reuters, has long been a leader in the game of international defamation for England's benefit. Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, tells in his book, "Barriers Down," how Roderick Jones, the titled head of the British news agency, said that his concern "probably has done more than any other single institution abroad to create British atmosphere and to spread British ideas." Mr. Cooper relates that on another occasion Jones boasted that his agency reached every isolated outpost on the globe and said that in the far east "there has been no other single factor which has contributed more . . . to the maintenance of British prestige."

Mr. Cooper tells how the directors of the Associated Press started to crack the stone wall Reuters had built up against the dissemination of American news in China and Japan a decade or more ago. He reports the remarks at this board meeting of the editor of THE TRIBUNE who said that "Reuters is a national propaganda news service in China. I have had a great many letters from people in China complaining of the quality of news that gets over there—nothing about America except lynchings in Alabama and gang murders in Chicago, and financial and critical news about New York—about the kind of things I used to read about America when I lived in England thirty years ago." The editor of THE TRIBUNE said that America was "much the most important country in the world and much the richest country in the world" and warned that it was a patriotic obligation for the Associated Press to extend its foreign news service everywhere. In the years that followed the Associated Press developed its great news collecting service abroad and sent American correspondents to the farthest corners of the earth.

Great Britain had a monopoly on world news until THE TRIBUNE, along with a few other American newspapers, the United Press, and finally the Associated Press, began gathering news thru their own American staff correspondents. But the dissemination of American news is still in British hands thruout the British empire. Nowhere in that empire is anything used but news of British origin, nor do British controled newspapers anywhere print the unedited reports of foreign agencies. The British policy of keeping dominion and empire peoples subjected to the economic as well as the political influence of England prevents these subjects from throwing off the Reuters yoke.

Reuters' contracts, which divide the distribution of news with agencies of foreign countries, generally contain the term "exploit." Reuters reserves the right to "exploit" British possessions and areas of British influence, while the other news agencies are given the right to "exploit" their own countries. The American directors of the Associated Press were the first to challenge the use of this word. They regarded the publication of news in America and of American news abroad as a service for the benefit of the readers and not as an exploitation for national or commercial ends.

Sen. Mead, the New Dealer who toured the world battle fronts with four other senators a year or so ago, says in his book, "Tell the Folks Back Home," that Reuters still is putting in its licks despite the fact that Americans are arming, feeding, clothing, protecting, and defending the British empire all over the world. In India, he says, OWI officials complain that "Reuters is spreading the report that reverse lend-lease is releasing heavy food deliveries to us and thus increasing the shortage and starvation [in India]." The same was true in Cairo, Sen. Mead said, where another OWI man reported that "when we got here every air raid and ground victory in the desert by joint British and American troops was written up by Reuters as 'allied' or 'joint British' actions. Now we've got them to use the word 'Americans' also, where deserved."

Against this background it may be easier for Chicagoans and other Americans to understand why Mr. Thompson wrote and the London Daily Express printed a distorted and false description of Chicago, ignoring her war activities. It is part of the old British superiority propaganda line thru which a weakened and decadent England is attempting to maintain itself as a world power. The important thing for Americans to remember is that Mr. Thompson and the other British journalists who are depreciating us today do not spread falsehoods and traduce nations and peoples and communities for fun or for money. They do it for England.

A LITTLE GLOBALONEY OF HER OWN.

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, prancing away from a conference with Gov. Dewey, indulged in an ebullience that goes a long way to explain why the glamor girl school of politician, of which she momentarily is the leading practitioner, doesn't go farther in politics.

Rep. Luce asserted that she obviously knows just what the Republican plank on foreign affairs means, since she helped draft it, and it means that the people of America are aching to join an international association, "call it a league of nations or what you will." She then went on to quote Gov. Dewey as favoring such an organization "to use force if necessary" to maintain peace.

Such use of force means an international police force. It means a permanent detail of American boys, under British or Russian or French generals, in all probability, patroling the Balkans and the other trouble spots where European power politics brews its wars. If she thinks American fathers and mothers are for that she's batty.

Rep. Luce and some of her trousered colleagues who have been calling on the nominee at Albany are doing Gov. Dewey a grievous and it may be an irreparable injury by their free-hand interpretations of his views. If they don't keep still they may beat him before he starts to run.

SKIN GAME.

Let's see what's been happening at Bretton Woods, N. H.

One of the purposes of the meeting is to set up an international fund that is supposed to stabilize the values of the various currencies the world over in relation to each other. The conference has adopted the principle that a country can make use of the fund in proportion to its contribution to it. The more a nation puts up, the more it can draw down to settle its international obligations. Accordingly, all the nations that are actual or prospective debtors on international account have been trying to get bigger allotments.

The contributions are supposed to be made partly in gold and partly in paper, but special arrangements are provided for the countries which are shy of gold. Their contributions can be made largely in paper. In effect, the chief contributor of gold will be the United States. The United States will also be the chief creditor among the nations. What the plan amounts to, then, is a scheme by which our good neighbors in Europe and Asia will obtain our goods and pay for them with our money, taken from the international stabilization fund. Out of the fund will go the gold that everybody wants and into the fund will go the paper moneys that nobody wants. Before long, there will be no more dollars and no more gold in the fund, and we shall be pressed to ante up again, and so on, ad infinitum, or at least until we are as busted as the rest.

It's a skin game, and if anybody doubts it, let him look at the attitude of the Russians, as disclosed a few days ago. Russia presumably still has a lot of gold and undoubtedly possesses some of the richest gold mines in the world. Russia was one of the big gold producers before the war and no doubt will expand its gold mining very largely after the war. Nevertheless, Russia has been trying to avoid making a contribution of gold to the fund proportionate to her means. She wants a bigger allotment in the fund to increase her borrowing power, but she wants to make a smaller contribution of hard money than her position warrants.

Now it is true, of course, that Russia has been hit heavily by the war, but that is largely irrelevant. Russia will need a lot of reconstruction and she, no doubt, is planning very large purchases of machinery and equipment in the United States. The point to remember is that if she put her gold into the fund she could get dollars for it without any difficulty, but if she did that she wouldn't have the gold with which to finance other purchases. She wishes to avoid subscribing gold to the fund because she regards it as an eleemosynary institution where you get something for nothing. She will get all she can for nothing and only then spend her gold.

Russia and most of the other countries aren't seriously seeking a plan to stabilize currencies. They are seeking a way of getting goods out of the United States without giving anything of equal value in return. They can't be blamed too severely for trying to put this over, but our representatives can be blamed most severely for giving them encouragement.

Surely no one can believe that this kind of financial hocus-pocus can do us anything but harm. As long as the scheme can be made to work it will balloon our capital goods industries at the very time that they will be under pressure to equip our own factories for civilian production. When the good money in the fund is beginning to run out we shall have to choose between renewing the subscription and inviting a business collapse like that of 1929. If we increase our ante we shall do so in the certainty that there will be that much less gold backing for our own currency.

As it stands, the plan is designed to enrich other countries at our expense and make inflation in America inevitable.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. The oldest parliamentary body in existence is that of Switzerland Great Britain Iceland Mexico.
2. Which famous American said, as his contribution to our war sacrifices, he would give up caviar, "and you know how I like caviar?" Stimson Roosevelt Morgenthau Wallace
3. The word "deuce" is employed in what outdoor sport? Baseball Swimming Football Tennis.
4. A halter should make one think of which type of sound? Whinny Moo Quack Ba-a-a.
5. Which European ruler, upon being informed her subjects were in a rebellious mood as they hungrily cried for bread, flippantly retorted, "Let them eat cake!" Victoria Marie Antoinette Elizabeth Isabella.
6. This is a true-false problem in which you are to encircle the "T" in front of a statement if you consider it true, or the "F" if you deem it false. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

T F [a] Concrete will not harden under water.
T F [c] A woman can have only one baby by the Caesarian method.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

MR. PEPYS ON SWANS.

15th July—Have been enjoying the coolth, which is my word for the opposite of warmth, these last few days and am hoping it will bring on a touch of frost next week when the fourth-termites begin to squirm obediently at the Democratic convention. Have no doubt, however, that the FDRobots will put on a good show, since they are well trained.

Had a letter from my contributor Uncle Loule, who said he had just been made a captain, after starting his military career as a buck private. This proves that you can't keep a good poet down, even in a career where poetry is regarded as useless. Uncle Loule tells me he helps to keep the B-29s in good condition for their future round trips to Tokyo.

On a fine Sunday afternoon went out to study the domestic habits of swans. It seems they hatch out from two to four swanlets who are born without the long necks of their parents, and that the little ones work hard all summer at neck-stretching exercises. When they have completed the course and grown necks that look like question marks, they are worth about $50 apiece, which sounds as if swan-breeding would be a good business if it didn't require such a large investment in lakes.

My swans were batting 100 per cent with four children, but a family in another pool didn't have anything to show for their spring fever. Asked why this had happened, and the swanherd ho-hoed and said, "The birds got mixed up in storage over the winter. That bunch may be two of a kind, but it's not a pair."

SONG OF A CITY SOLDIER.

Of boulevards agleam; for rain at night
Along deserted streets; for all the clang
Of all the city's tongues in mad harangue.
Let me see canyons window-filled, and gray
Long shadows dropped in angular array;
See furnaces' fierce light, their dawns displayed
Against the night in fiery accolade;
Drab smokestacks ranged in batteries that rise
Like grimy, smoking guns into the skies.
Tonight I long for lights; for hiss and roar
Of traffic penned beneath the city's floor;
For glimpse, tho brief, of spires and citadels;
Tonight once more the dissonance that swells
In strident song of thorofare and mill.
Then, let tomorrow's dawn bring what it will!

It Makes a Slight Difference.

The purchasing agent of Loston Foundry company asked one of his clerks to order 1-12 dozen 8 inch flat files from Softon Hardware corporation. Exactly 11¼ minutes later, the president, two metallurgists, a salesman and the traffic manager of the hardware concern are cooling their heels in Loston's anything-but-air-conditioned reception room. After the conventional hour-and-a-half wait, the P. A., Mr. Buyzwell, condescends to see them for a moment. The president of Softon is speaking:

"We just happened to be passing by, Mr. Buyzwell. So nice of you to see us, sir. In regard to your esteemed favor, sir, our metallurgists will gladly go into the matter of obtaining the correct degree of hardness in your 1-12 dozen files, sir. Our traffic manager will see to it personally that they are shipped at once by Mid-West Union special messenger, sir, subject to our best extra-extra discount, 35-25-10 and a couple of 5s, on consignment, payable within the next five years, if that is convenient, sir. Incidentally, I happen to have two tickets to the Baer-Schmeling fight, with transportation, which I beg of you to accept with our compliments, sir. And, by the way, sir, why not have lunch with me at the club and a game of golf afterward, sir?"

That was only a few years ago, but now . . .

Mr. Buyzwell, after spending most of the morning on the telephone, finally gets the half-hearted attention of the third assistant office boy of Consolidated Softon Hardware and Defense Industries and futilely attempts to place an order for six [or less] new [or completely worn out] No. 3-A milling machines, price $9,125 per copy. The third assistant office boy is speaking:

"O, hello, Buyzie, ole sock. About those tickets for the ball game, I can't use them. I'm taking the boss' daughter to a cocktail party on the north shore this afternoon. What's that? You'd like to buy a milling machine? Heh-heh-heh, that's a good one. I must remember to tell that to Chuck—O, you know, the boss. Well, I have to be toddling along, it's time for my mid-day nap. Don't take any wooden nickels or German marks, you ole so-and-so. Heh-heh-heh-heh-heh!"

Are stupid and ignorant, stolid and crass.

Now take me, for instance—why, I never squawk;
If I'm out of gas, I just get out and walk.

But I feel I must tell you, wherever you are,
That the reason I don't mind gas rationing and the rubber shortage and the scarcity of spare parts, and all the other unpleasant aspects of the present automobile situation, is that

I ain't got no car!

"Do you think he'll run again?"
"Sure he will."
"What makes you think so?"
"Why, he just made a statement to that effect."
"Well, that's news to me. He'd be foolish to even think of running again."
"Why do you say that?"
"Well, he's too old."
"What's that got to do with it?"
"It has a heck of a lot to do with it. Why he wouldn't have a ghost of a chance to win if he did run."
"Say, what are you talking about?"
"Glen Cunningham, of course."

R. V. P. writes: "Last week I became 30, but my board refuses to reconsider me for class 2-B, claiming I was 29 when it last reviewed my classification in May. I passed my pre-induction physical examination in April. The board maintains it is not mandatory to reclassify me in the over 30 war worker group and said it intends to induct me next month. Can it do this?"

If you were placed in 1-A in May, while still under 30, your board is technically correct. If you have been reclassified since becoming 30 your board is wrong, or at least is ignoring paragraph II. of Illinois state memo 800. The registrant is classified under the applicable regulations according to his attained age at the time his classification is reviewed. If you have not received induction papers, your employer may submit a new 42-B and request the board reopen and reconsider your case on the ground your present age is a new material fact.

CAREFUL NURSING FOR THE PREMATURE BABE.

SOMETIMES babies arrive before they are quite ready to battle with the world. We call them "immature" or "premature." It may be that the entire period of pregnancy [280 days] has elapsed. Nevertheless, if under five pounds in weight at birth, the infant is considered somewhat below standard. This means that rather more careful nurturing will be demanded, as the tiny body will have difficulty in adjusting itself to the environment in which it is trying to survive.

The most important factor is to provide warmth. These mites lose heat rapidly because they lack fat which, with older youngsters, serves as an insulating layer. This explains why incubators play such a vital rôle in maintaining life.

Furthermore, the subnormal tot will not possess as much endocrine secretion as he should. Hence some will be unable to retain fluid within the tissues. If thyroid is lacking, it may be supplied. In fact, some physicians believe that one-quarter grain of thyroid substance should be prescribed shortly after birth. Thereafter, much smaller doses may be administered for two or three weeks. Others will need adrenalin.

After birth, and as soon as the skin has been cleansed, heat retaining garments may be employed. The bassinet must be artificially warmed. Hot water bottles will suffice, but constant watching and renewal will be called for as an up and down range of temperature may play havoc. The room must be kept at about 80 degrees F. An arrangement of electric light bulbs, which may be turned on and off, will aid materially. Homemade devices will serve in an emergency. As soon as possible, an automatic container should be obtained.

Fluid is essential. For example, a two pound baby will require four and one-half ounces daily; a four pounder, nine ounces. If the little one will take the liquid from an eye dropper, well and good. Otherwise, a slender tube can be passed into the stomach.

Fifty or more calories per pound per day must be furnished by the second day of life. The most suitable nutriment is breast milk, which may be reinforced with an easily digested form of sugar. If this is not available, a substitute mixture may be utilized. Appropriate ingredients are evaporated milk, olive oil, calcium caseinate, dextrimaltose, and a minute fraction of halibut liver oil. These materials can be obtained in powder form. One ounce is mixed with five ounces of boiled water. After a time, a useful addition is raw egg yolk.

These fragile new-borns have but feeble resistance against infection. Visitors are not allowed, and the attendants can wear masks, as a respiratory disorder may be hazardous. If a skin rash appears, the doctor should be notified immediately, as we must be on the alert against impetigo. Now and then vitamin K to prevent hemorrhage will be helpful. This may be given with or after each feeding.

Success will come with gain in weight, even tho it is slow. Much will depend upon skilled nursing.

From a boy in Normandy comes a tale of a fellow soldier during the shelling of Cherbourg. His vehicle was in a field surrounded by mine fields which were marked by the Germans "Achtung Minen" with a skull and bones painted prettily [our boy writes] on signs. The vehicle finally was hit, and shells continued to fall in the field. When asked what he did after watching his vehicle get hit, the soldier replied:

"I looked at the vehicle and then at the Achtung, looked at the Achtung and then at the vehicle, and then I Rogered out."

Prophecy?

The following bit of jetsam is going around. Don't ask us where it started or with whom, but because of the exigencies of space required to reprint it, it can use an advance explanation. There are six columns of figures below. They refer, in order, to Churchill, Hitler, Roosevelt, Il Duce, Stalin, and Tojo. The first horizontal line of figures gives the year in which each was born. The second gives his age. The third gives the year he took office. The fourth gives his years in office. Here goes:

70	55	62	61	65	60
1940	1933	1933	1922	1924	1941
4	11	11	22	20	3
3888	3888	3888	3888	3888	3888

End of war:
½ of 3888—1944.
½ of 1944—972.
9—September, 9th month.
7—day of month.
2—time. 2 o'clock.

Without going into the matter any further, we wish to say that Mr. Mussolini left his high office in 1943, 21 years after he stole it, and not 22 years later, as given in this table. What that does to this astronomical calculation is beyond us, but as far as that is concerned, the whole thing is.

P. S. If you really want to be in on the secret, the mathematical genius of this office, which is not this department, just took soundings on himself. He was born in 1902, is now 42, came to work here in 1933, and has been here 11 years.

Add all these figures and you will have 3888. That probably means that at 2 o'clock on Sept. 7, 1944, he is going to achieve his dream of 11 years and blow his top. Try it on yourself, and then just wait until Sept. 7 and see what happens to you.

THE BURDEN OF AGE.

Long Beach, Cal., July 10.—Next week Mr. Roosevelt's convention will follow his orders and draft him as the New Deal Presidential candidate. As in 1940, Mr. Roosevelt demands another term either because he is loath to give up the power which he has enjoyed for more than 11 years, or because he believes that no one else can equal his own ability. Whether these are sound reasons for his insistence is debatable, but two other facts are not.

The first fact is that Mr. Roosevelt will be 63 years old next January. Since only three of our 32 Presidents have been so old when first inaugurated, their records are pertinent. When William Henry Harrison took office in 1841 he was 68; he lived but one month thereafter. Zachary Taylor was 64 when installed in 1849, and died 16 months later. James Buchanan was 65 when inaugurated in 1857, completed his term, but was so ineffective that the 1860 Democratic national convention did not nominate him for a second term. Andrew Jackson was 65 at his second inaugural, lived to 78.

Fact No. 2 is that even the most expert New Deal radio and press commentators can no longer conceal that Mr. Roosevelt's physical powers are on the wane. He was recently compelled to shorten his daily working hours. Last spring he was forced to drop the momentous affairs of state and take a month holiday to recuperate after an attack of grippe.

Mr. Dewey, when inaugurated next January, will be but a few months older than was Theodore Roosevelt when he assumed office in 1901 at the age of 42. The problems which Franklin Roosevelt has created in three terms necessitate that his successor be at the peak of his physical and mental powers. That is why it is so fortunate that Mr. Dewey's best years lie ahead as definitely as Mr. Roosevelt's are past.

OSCAR A. BIGLER.

NAME FOR THE NEW DEAL.

Chicago, July 4.—President Roosevelt wanted a new name for the New Deal party. A good name would be Mixup party since it consists of crackpot New Dealers whose philosophy is one of defeatism and scarcity, radical CIO strikers against the war who want to run the country their way, and conniving Communists, led by Ex-Convict Browder, who want to overthrow the country. It is a real Mixup party that will continue to keep things thoroly mixed up. E. W. W.

OPEN THE UNIONS TO SOLDIERS.

Freeport, Ill., July 1.—I suggest that a federal enactment shall declare all demobilized members of our armed forces to be fully paid up life members in all existing labor unions, free for life from all dues, assessments or discrimination of any kind. The general purpose of this act shall be to guarantee to our returning soldiers full participation in any and all labor monopolies that may have been built up in their absence, with a strong voice toward keeping them clean. OPPORTUNITY FOR GRATITUDE.

Chicago, July 11.—It has been said that gratitude is the emotion one feels for a favor about to be received. The accuracy of this cynical definition of gratitude will soon be determined by the conduct of our people in a great issue. Are the American people so lacking in gratitude that they have forgotten the many blessings and favors their great President has bestowed upon them during his long tenure in office? Are the American people so ungrateful that they have forgotten his many kindnesses toward other old men; that they have forgotten how he fought for the well deserved retirement of the worn-out, tired, old justices; that they have forgotten how magnificently he has provided for their own old age security and retirement? Are the American people such ingrates that they will command this valiant soldier, their most humble servant, to crucify himself in the ensuing four years and deny him the ardently sought, wistfully longed-for, and much, much deserved retirement to Hyde Park? Are the Republicans his only friends?

K. W. TEUTHORN.

SEN. LUCAS ON AGE.

Fairbury, Ill., July 4.—Sen. Lucas, of the Democratic state convention, warned us "Not to send a boy to the mill to do the job." Apparently, this is a "smear" directed at the next President of the United States. His remarks bring to mind that when Sen. Lucas was presented to the 1940 Democratic convention as a candidate for Vice President, he declined with this statement, "If this were a free and open convention, etc., etc." The senator is the same man who wants the British to fire Sir Oliver Lyttleton for his remarks concerning Pearl Harbor. Is it possible that the senator has "matured" to the extent that he now realizes that what we need in the congress are men, not boys?

CHARLES STEINBERG.

SPEEDING UP THE "L".

Maywood, Ill., July 11.—During evening rush hours while trains are barely moving around inside track of the loop I have often wondered why some of the Metropolitan or Lake street trains are not routed around outside track, which since the subway began operation has many less trains, thus speeding up service to the west side. Of course this would require new schedules to replace the 30-year-old ones now in effect, but I have a solution for this. Let the super-annuated management hire some young men [45 or 50 years old] with new ideas to work these schedules out, and save at least 10 minutes in the trip around the Loop.

PREDICTS DEWEY VICTORY AND A G. O. P. CONGRESS

Halleck Praises Nominee for 'Co-operation.'

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., July 14.—Rep. Halleck [R., Ind.], chairman of the Republican congressional committee, today predicted the G. O. P. will capture the White House and control of congress in the November elections. He made the prediction after a conference with Gov. Dewey, the Republican Presidential nominee. The Republicans now have 212 seats in the house and need only six more for a majority.

"There are about 300 congressional contests in which we stand a good chance of winning," Halleck said. "This doesn't include any of the deep south nor some of the big city districts ridden by Democratic bosses. In Cook county in Illinois, the G. O. P. will pick up from two to four seats."

Campaign Organization.

Halleck said his conference with Dewey was devoted to organization for the campaign rather than to any discussion of the issues.

"The interview was very satisfactory from my standpoint," he said. "The congressional campaign will be coördinated with the Presidential campaign. The governor indicated a genuine interest in the election of a Republican congress, and the congressmen are certainly going to be active in behalf of the Presidential candidate.

"The way Gov. Dewey has approached this assignment is impressive. His maneuvers have been orderly and coöperative. The Republican party is not going to be a one man show.

"Congressmen and senators appreciate his calling delegations from different states for consultation before opening the active campaign. This presages harmony between the legislative and executive branches of the government after the new administration takes office.

Seasoned Legislators.

"The Dewey administration will have the backing of seasoned legislators. Of the 212 Republican congressmen, all have been renominated in those districts that have held primaries to date."

Halleck was asked by a reporter whether the outlook for the Presidential ticket was as bright as for the congressional races.

"There's a difference of opinion," he replied. "In the past, congressional contests usually followed the Presidential outcome. This time, owing to some local situations, I believe it will be easier to carry the house than for the head of the ticket to win. Both will win, I'm sure, but we still have plenty of work to do."

Predicts Willkie Support.

Halleck, who placed Wendell Willkie in nomination for President at the 1940 Republican convention, expressed belief Willkie would back Dewey. He added, however, that he had not talked with or seen Willkie recently.

"My view is he will support the ticket," Halleck said. In New York, Willkie remarked, "I don't believe I have had a talk with Charlie in two years."

Halleck left here this afternoon for New York City to confer with Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman. Dewey left to spend the week-end with his family on their farm.

G. O. P. LEADERS TO MEET MONDAY WITH GOVERNOR

Will Prepare Fight on New Deal.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Preparations for the Illinois battle against the New Deal will be coordinated Monday when Gov. Green confers with the other state candidates and representatives of the state central committee.

Prior to this Springfield meeting, the 16 Cook county members of the G. O. P. state central committee will meet in Chicago to pass their ideas along to a subgroup of four, headed by the new chairman, John F. Tyrrell. The four will go to the Springfield conference.

Chosen to Attend Council.

Tyrrell met the 15 downstate central committeemen in Springfield on Thursday. Chosen for Monday's council were Secretary of State Richard Yates Rowe, who resigned this week as state G. O. P. chairman; Paul Rosenquist of Rockford, and John W. Spence of Fairfield. Spence is executive committee chairman of the Republican County Chairmen's association.

Tyrrell said he would make use of the proposal prepared by Rowe. It sets up a campaign caravan, radio broadcasts, and statistics covering every precinct in the state.

"This is not going to be a one man committee," Chairman Tyrrell told the downstaters. "I am not going to act except to carry out the will of the majority of all 25 members."

Headquarters to Be Set Up.

State headquarters will be established in the Abraham Lincoln hotel in Springfield and in the La Salle hotel here within the next month, he said.

Secretary of State Rowe yesterday accepted the resignations of three Democratic department heads. The three are William G. Worthey of Jerseyville, chief clerk of the corporation department at $7,000 a year; Harry J. Wernsing of Greenview, executive clerk, and George M. Brown of Decatur, chief clerk of the shipping department.

After he was appointed by Gov. Green to serve out the remaining six months of the term of the late Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, Rowe told his employes they could not engage actively in politics. Hughes was a Democrat and the three who have resigned have important roles in the Democratic campaign. Worthey's resignation will take effect Sept. 1. Wernsing and Brown will leave their jobs Aug. 15.

AFL Swing Expected.

Resignation of Francis B. Murphy as state director of labor was believed yesterday to have made it easier for the G. O. P. to gain more votes of American Federation of Labor members.

Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, commented that Murphy's resignation "settles the issue as far as I'm concerned."

"We have taken the position that the director should be a man from the ranks of labor and the new director, Robert L. Gordon, fits that category," Olander said. "We had no candidate for the position. We're satisfied."

GREEN WILL IGNORE U. S. DEADLINE TODAY ON BOBTAIL BALLOT

Gov. Green will let today's deadline for approval of the federal bobtailed soldier ballot go by without further action on his part because the Illinois soldier vote law offers a practical, constitutional means of voting a full "home" ballot, he said in a statement yesterday.

The governor replied with some asperity to the drive for the federal blank ballot led principally by Communists and the CIO political action committee. Even if he wanted to authorize counting the bob-tailed ballots in Illinois, he could not legally do so, he said. But he made it clear he has no desire to do this.

"The unalterable fact," Gov. Green said, "is that the Illinois law gives every service man and woman a practical and adequate means of voting a full, official, and secret ballot for all the national, state, and local offices.

"Also under interpretation of the law by the Illinois attorney general, the federal ballot application in the hands of the military may be honored by local election officials in Illinois.

"In addition, any person on behalf of a service man may request election officials to send an application for a ballot to a service man anywhere, and such application, no matter how informally made, will be honored."

PARTISAN DRIFT OF NEGRO GROUP HIT AT MEETING

Protests by members of the Chicago chapter against the political character of the war time conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People featured an open forum at the morning sessions yesterday in the Metropolitan church, 41st st. and South Park way. The forum followed a speech on "How Should the Negro Vote," delivered by Leslie S. Perry of the N. A. A. C. P.'s Washington bureau.

J. E. Maxwell, delegate from Baltimore, Md., protested he did not believe, altho he is a New Dealer, that the organization should become so partisan as to indorse any party.

Perry's speech was described by a local member of the organization as "One of the best campaign speeches in support of the New Deal I have ever listened to."

Objects to Board Action.

Prince Clark, Detroit, Mich., delegate, objected to a move to refer to the board of directors a question as to whether the N. A. A. C. P. was Republican, Democratic, or non-partisan. "I want to serve notice now," Clark said, "that the board of directors does not run this organization when it is in session." Some Chicago chapter members have charged that the board of directors, headed by Walter White, is attempting to "sell out the N. A. A. C. P. to the New Deal, the Communists, and the CIO."

The Rev. D. Z. Jackson and the Rev. J. L. Horace, identified in last Sunday's TRIBUNE as members of the executive board of the N. A. A. C. P.'s Chicago chapter, are members of the chapter, but not members of the board.

Losing Nonpartisan Stand.

During the morning, the resolutions committee accepted a resolution presented by the Baptist Ministers' alliance and the Baptist Ministers' conference which strongly protested the N. A. A. C. P.'s steering toward "partisan politics and denominational entanglements."

The resolution, after calling attention to the fact that the respect and support of the N. A. A. C. P. have come from its nonpartisan character, said: "It is apparent that this great and useful organization is drifting from its moorings into partisan politics, which will divide the people who have supported this organization over a period of 30 years."

"How Can a Negro Hold His Job?" was the subject of a panel discussion last night between Walter Hardin, Negro member of the United Automobile Workers [CIO] of Detroit and R. E. Gillmor, president of the Sperry Gyroscope company of New York, representing labor and management.

Warns of Overoptimism.

Noting prospects for supplemental labor saving machinery, Hardin warned against overoptimism in holding Negro jobs after the war. He asserted the Negro worker has a reasonably good chance of holding a skilled job if he can make his record stand up against his predecessors [white workers] in the prewar period.

Gillmor envisioned a bright postwar period for Negro workers. He said that, given equal training and opportunity, the Negro employe will prove to be the equal of any other employe. Absenteeism among Negro workers, he added, is low. In his company, since peak production was hit in 1943, Gillmor said, the employe cutback has been 10 per cent but in the Negro group it was only 6 per cent.

DEWEY DESIRES TIE TO BRITAIN: REP. CANFIELD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—An assertion that Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican Presidential nominee, desires a post-war alliance with Britain has been made by Republican Congressman Gordon Canfield of Paterson, N. J., "Peterborough," a columnist of the London Daily Telegram, said today.

The writer said he met Canfield and Congressman Hugh D. Scott Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa., yesterday in the company of Richard Law, minister of state who deputizes from time to time for Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. "Peterborough" reported that Canfield told him:

"Tell your folks not to worry too much over the coming elections. Both parties are determined to see the war thru to the end and remember, Mr. Dewey wants a permanent alliance with the British."

'REDS AND DUPES IN NEW 4TH TERM GROUP': BUSBEY

The newly formed national citizens' political action committee, replacing the CIO political action committee, is "just the same group of commies, left wingers, and fellow travelers with a few respectable boys thrown in as a front to fool the public," Rep. Busbey [R., Ill.], arch critic of Communists, asserted here yesterday.

Busbey predicted the formation of the new committee in an address Monday before the Illinois Republican Service Men's league and said the CIO political action committee will be active politically under many other aliases during the coming campaign.

Hillman Heads Group.

Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO political action committee, also heads the new committee, which was admittedly formed to circumvent legal restraints against labor unions contributing directly in political campaigns. Hillman said the committee is dedicated to a fourth term.

Nine Chicagoans are members of the committee of 84. The committee also includes such alleged Communist sympathizers as Bruce Bliven, editor of the radical New Republic; Louis Adamic, leftist author; Max Lerner of the New York newspaper PM, known to Manhattan as the uptown edition of the Daily Worker; James Loeb, secretary of the Union for Democratic Action, alleged Communist front body, and Freda Kirchwey, publisher of the Nation, left wing magazine.

Chicagoans on the committee include:

Prof. Oscar Lange, former professor of the University of Krakow who came to America as a Polish refugee and joined the staff of the University of Chicago. He recently went to Russia with the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, Polish American Catholic priest. Lange was denounced by Polish-Americans in this country as a Communist.

Linked to Pro-War Group.

Francis McMahon, former professor at the University of Notre Dame, who severed his connection with that school over differences concerning McMahon's public views, and is now professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago. McMahon was formerly Indiana chairman of Fight for Freedom, an organization that clamored for war prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Municipal Judges John Gutknecht and George E. Quillid, who have appeared on the platform at meetings of so-called "liberal" and CIO groups.

Dr. Robert C. Weaver, administrative assistant to Hillman in the council of national defense, an active office holder in the old PWA days and now a member of Mayor Kelly's committee on racial relations.

Head of Rosenwald Fund.

Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, author of a number of books on racial growth, and chairman of Mayor Kelly's committee on racial relations.

Frank W. McCulloch, Chicago director of the Union for Democratic Action, an alleged Communist front group, and director of the Mullenbach Institute.

Jaroslav J. Zmrhal, retired Chicago school official and president of the Czecho-Slovak National council.

Mrs. Robert Biggert, north shore society woman, an active Willkie supporter before his retirement from Republican politics, and an advocate of strong international collaboration.

VOTE CLUB MEETS

A Vote for Roosevelt club, formed by Chicago union officials affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, held a meeting in Plumbers' hall, 1340 Washington blvd., yesterday and adopted a resolution calling upon labor to support the fourth term candidacy.

Invitations to the meeting had been sent to officers of 900 AFL local unions in Illinois. Between 250 and 300 officials, mainly from Chicago, attended.

The chairman of the meeting was William Lee of the Bakery Drivers' union. Other members of the committee to back the meeting were William A. Lewis, Printers' union; Thomas H. O'Donnell, Bricklayers' union; William A. Quirk, Plumbers' union; Daniel J. McNamara, Street Carmens' union; William L. McFetridge, Building Service union, and R. Emmett Kelly, Meat Cutters' union.

TRUMPET STOLEN FROM AUTO.

Oscar Tenghlad, 7438 Bennett av., reported to Desplaines st. police yesterday that a thief broke the window of his car parked at 100 Elisabeth st. and took a trumpet, valued at $125, and a pair of reading glasses.

The Republicans have already convened—the Democrats have yet to meet. The Cafe de Paris welcomes both Parties. Politics are something personal, something individual—our beautiful country, the U. S. A., is the home of political freedom. But before everything else America is indivisible. This year, 1944, is a crusading year, one in which all Americans are united by one law, one determination—that of winning the war so that other peoples may come to understand and appreciate the grandeur and the happiness of our ideals, our way of living. Ours is the country of plenty—America's heart and generosity are great. Let's buy more bonds and march forward together. We will never retreat. Henri Charpentier, Cafe de Paris.

★ "Mail a letter, will ya, Pop?"
★ "When do we eat, Pop?"

THESE are old questions to Pop Etter and he knows how, when and where to answer them. Pop Etter has spent a good many days of his life traveling with soldiers, sailors, marines and yes—WAVES and WACS. "God bless 'em all," says Pop. And many a homesick rookie has blessed Pop for his kindly advice and his cheery smile.

Pop Etter is what is known in railroad parlance as an "escort." It is his duty to act as a contact between the Commanding Officer of the military party in transit and the railroad men responsible for the operation of the train. Today, these military trains are the most important trains on the line, superseding even the famous OLYMPIAN and HIAWATHAS.

Pop Etter is the dean of the specially chosen men who act as "escorts" to military parties moving over The Milwaukee Road. He traveled with the "boys" in 1917-18. So the job isn't new to him.

As a typical representative of the railroad's passenger department, Pop Etter is as solicitous of the welfare of our men and women in uniform as he would be of a party of DARS making a pre-war convention tour of Yellowstone National Park. His attitude toward our fighting men symbolizes the spirit of the 35,000 Milwaukee Road employes, whose constant thought is "Give them the best we have."

BRIGHT TOUCHES PUT ON STADIUM FOR DEMOCRATS

Signs, Pictures and Two Donkeys Arrive.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Fifty-six fluorescent V for victory signs, pictures of the 14 Democratic Presidents, two live donkeys, and six additional feet of lumber on the photographers' stands have been added to the Chicago Stadium for the opening of the Democratic convention Wednesday.

Thomas D. Garry, who has set up three national conventions, said he believed the V signs will be right pretty when they alone are left to illuminate the arena. He also spoke warmly of the pictures of the Democratic Presidents, which will have a 60 foot sign saying "Democratic Presidents" so there can be no mistake.

Graze Outside Stadium.

The extra footage on the photographers' stands has been added so they will not maim one another or innocent bystanders in getting pictures of celebrities. The two donkeys were left to graze peacefully outside the Stadium until their buggy arrives from Woodstock.

The flies bother them some, but Garry dispatched a man to drive the pests away. Along with the flies there are 778 seats for newspaper men and 212 seats for feature writers.

Arrangements have been made by Garry and his helpers to take care of 100 newspaper photographers, 40 newsreel cameramen, and 160 radio employes. There are approximately 719 miles of wire stretched about the Stadium and to the loop by Western Union Telegraph company and Illinois Bell Telephone company to handle five million words.

20 Radio Announcers to Talk.

Some 20 radio announcers will utter about one and one-half million words into microphones set up by four networks.

Meanwhile J. G. Grouzard, concessionaire manager, sat in the basement among a stock of $20,000 worth of beer, hot dogs, soft drinks, and souvenirs and a hope that the Democrats would outshine the Republicans in the gustatory department. At their convention, the Republicans ate 30,000 of 50,000 hot dogs.

They did pretty well in the soft drink department, draining 85,000 bottles, but failed to browse among the beer. Only 40,000 bottles were emptied.

There are 96,000 bottles of beer awaiting the Democrats, 50,000 hot dogs, and 125,000,000 soft drink items.

More than 100 girl usherettes and 200 veteran Frain ushers will see that the delegates and spectators get to their seats or approximately thereto.

GUNMAN GETS CAR AND $15.

Brandishing a revolver which he said was his "calling card," a bandit followed Lemuel R. Smock, 57, of 6142 N. Forest Glen av., into his car parked at Ashland av. and Irving Park rd. yesterday, told him to drive to Grace and Greenview sts., where he robbed him of $15 and a straw hat and then ordered Smock out of his car and drove away, police were told.

'PANTY-WAIST BRIGADE' CHARGE DENIED BY HULL

Washington, D. C., July 14 [Special].—Secretary of State Hull today denied that his department, as charged in a full page article by Publisher Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, in the Washington Times-Herald, is hoarding men of draft age in a "panty-waist brigade." The article titled, "Some State Department Boys Who Do Not Choose to Fight," contained pictures of 20 youthful career diplomats.

Hull, in a statement, lashed out at what he labeled a violent and grossly unfair attack, and said draft deferments had been requested for no man under 26, and only one for 90 days for a man under 30. Ninety-five men in the 30 to 37 age groups are deferred for occupational reasons, the secretary said.

He admitted a vastly different set-up in the foreign service, however, with 457 men in the 30-37 age group and 96 between the ages of 26 and 30 deferred for occupation. He said there are five expiring deferments in the group under 26. The state department has one of the best records in this connection, the secretary claimed, and said he welcomed an investigation.

political value. The fact that he is not running for reelection this year would make his race for second place a "nothing to lose" proposition, they said.

They also considered Sen. Barkley of Kentucky a hot bet. His recent anti-Roosevelt flareup over the constitutional independence of congress, followed by his praise of the President, will make him a strong contender, the Illinoisans said. Barkley also has the advantage of being in a state which may need a shot in the arm to make it score for the fourth term, they said.

Platform Group Meets.

A start toward work on the platform was made late yesterday when a subcommittee of the resolutions committee, headed by Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, majority leader of the house, assembled in the Stevens hotel.

McCormack announced that public hearings will be started at 10 a. m. Monday in the Stevens. As many witnesses will be heard as possible before the full committee on resolutions is appointed by the convention Wednesday.

Members declared the platform will be short and indicated it will conform to the wishes of President Roosevelt. "Roosevelt will be the platform," remarked Rep. D'Alesandro of Maryland.

Rep. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, dean of women in congress, who is co-chairman of the subcommittee, said the presence of 11 women on the committee would be an aid to terseness.

"Women," she said, "are always more concise. They do not use as many words to express a thought."

Co-Chairman Norton, who has been chairman of the labor committee of the house since the wages and hours bill was up in 1937, expressed herself for a strong plank on social security.

May Seat New Deal Foes.

Vague rumors yesterday were that in the Texas contest, the credentials committee of the convention is likely to seat the delegates elected by the state convention at Austin which came out in open revolt against the New Deal. It was followed by Mississippi in its convention, and to some degree by South Carolina. The Texas bolters, said to be only 89 New Deal delegates, or less than 5 per cent of the state convention, have filed a contest.

Arguments and briefs are arriving in the mail from Texas.

The Texas state convention, at the time of its revolt May 23, adopted a resolution that if the delegates it sent to Chicago are not seated, then the Presidential electors named by the Texas convention are absolved from voting in the electoral college for the national ticket, but are instructed to vote for some other Democrats "who believe in the fundamental principles of the Democratic party."

The Texas convention also absolved its Presidential electors from voting for the national ticket, if the convention fails to restore the old rule requiring a two-thirds vote of the delegates for nomination of the national ticket or if it puts planks into the platform encroaching on state's rights in prescribing the qualification of voters.

Nellie has been breaking in Clom's new shoes for the last 20 years.

TICKETS TO GO OUT ON MONDAY FOR CONVENTION

Delay in receipt of additional badges required for the Democratic national convention will hold up the distribution of tickets until Monday, convention officials said last night. The system of allocating tickets differs from that of the Republicans.

For one thing, Illinois, the host state, is recognized in a degree by the national committee's allocation of nine times the number of delegates [58]. Allocations for adjoining states will be roughly six times the number of delegates. Other states will get three times as many tickets as their number of delegates.

After delegates and alternates receive one ticket apiece, senators and congressmen will get approximately four and two each, in the rank of their standing.

OPA TO REDUCE PRICE OF CANNED MEATS ON AUG. 4

Canned meats will be reduced slightly in cost at retail stores Aug. 4 under wholesale price reductions announced yesterday by the office of price administration. The wholesale reduction will be 10 per cent of the cost of the raw meat ingredients. Retail reductions, it was estimated, will run from 1 to 5 per cent.

O'DANIEL LASHES WPB 'FLUNKIE'S' SMEAR ATTACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—Sen. O'Daniel, anti-Roosevelt Texas Democrat, charged today that a "government newspaper reading flunkie" in the war production board was responsible for attempting to smear the senator for publishing his anti-fourth term organ, the W. Lee O'Daniel News.

In a letter to WPB Chairman Nelson, O'Daniel told Nelson that "I hope you do not countenance this 'smear' letter written by one of your flunkies."

The senator's message referred to a letter written last week by Arthur R. Treanor, director of WPB's printing and publishing division, inquiring how O'Daniel obtained newsprint for his weekly paper.

The senator has explained that the newsprint purchases were studied and approved last month by the Dallas, Tex., regional office of WPB.

Court Silences Roosters as Neighbors Complain

Hereafter, Adam Bernacki, owner of a store at 1364 N. Wolcott av., will have to slaughter all his roosters as soon as he receives them. The order was issued yesterday by Judge Harry P. Beam in Racine av. court after neighbors complained that the roosters crowed from dawn to dusk at regular 15 minute intervals.

WOMAN LEADER SCOFFS AT OWN 2D PLACE BOOM

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

It won't be in her time, but the day will come when a woman will seek the office of Vice President of the United States, or even President, Rep. Mary Norton of New Jersey said yesterday.

The veteran congresswoman, who will be the first woman co-chairman of the platform subcommittee, serving with Rep. John W. McCormack [Mass.] as chairman, predicted the possibility yesterday after being questioned about her candidacy for the Vice Presidential spot.

Told that Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, committeewoman for Illinois, had suggested her for the office and asked if she'd run, she countered with: "Are you serious?"

She's for Roosevelt's Man.

Then she continued: "My own opinion is that some day a woman will seek that office—but not in my time."

For the Vice Presidency, she said she'd stand by the choice of President Roosevelt. She agreed, however, that Mrs. Conkey's suggestions of leading Democratic women for cabinet posts were good ones and indicated that, in her opinion, women's competence in such positions had been established by Secretary Frances Perkins, who runs the labor department so efficiently that a phone call for information brings it "delivered into my hands in three hours."

Heads Labor Committee.

Dean of women in congress, Rep. Norton is serving her 20th year. She was the first woman of her party to be elected to the national body, the first woman to be chairman of the house labor committee, the position she now holds.

As co-chairman of the important resolutions subcommittee, Rep. Norton will share leadership of the 23 member group which, for the first time, will have equal representation of the sexes.

Two Senators' Wives Arrive.

Other Democratic women arriving in Chicago yesterday included Mrs. Claude Pepper, attractive wife of the Florida senator. Her political activity, she said, consisted solely of "thinking."

Another was Mrs. Albert B. Chandler, wife of the Kentucky senator, whose announcement that she is a grandmother comes as a surprise to observers of her own youthfulness and vivacity.

She declared her husband would be "less than human" if he weren't interested in the Vice Presidency, but said he was "making no move."

Film Star Divorced

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Joan Blondell in court yesterday at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14 (AP).—Actress Joan Blondell got a four minute divorce today from Singer Dick Powell on her testimony that he had been guilty of numerous acts of cruelty, including a demand that she "get the hell out of the house."

Powell, whom she married eight years ago aboard a liner en route to New York, told her he didn't care whether she got a divorce or not, Miss Blondell testified. She said he insisted on using their home for his office, that two telephones were ringing almost constantly, and that she was unable to get any rest or privacy. Powell did not appear to oppose the divorce.

Under a property settlement previously agreed upon, Miss Blondell gets custody of their two children, Ellen, 5, and Norman, 9, the son of Camera Man Norman Scott, whom she divorced in 1935, the year before she married Powell. She also receives half their community property with Powell retaining $125,000 worth of his separate estate.

300,000 Personalty Tax Bills Mailed by County

County Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday that the last of 300,000 personal property tax schedules had been mailed to residents of Chicago. He also set deadlines for the return of these schedules. An addition of 50 per cent will be made on assessments of those who fail to make returns. The township districts in the city and their deadlines are: Roger Park, North, Lakeview, Jefferson and Hyde Park, July 25; West, Aug. 1; Lake, Aug. 10, and South, Aug. 20.

Not an A Card in Ye Group

Wherever they went, they walked . . . on guard at every step. Hardships taught our forefathers the virtue of self-reliance and the need for cooperation. Thus, in the humble cradle of privation, the spirit of our Democracy was born.

Our enemies foolishly ignored the enduring influence of our Nation's heritage when they jeered that we were too soft to fight. Little did they dream that, almost overnight, free men could perfect the finest and best-equipped fighting forces the world has ever seen.

So, today when good citizens see an A card on a windshield, they recognize it as a symbol of what people can accomplish who have learned from experience to work together to attain a common objective.

That same spirit will win this war—and in peacetime that same unity of effort will keep America strong and prosperous for our men and women now on the fighting front.

3. Extra jacket coat in pale blue wool, lavishly trimmed with band of fluffy black fox all around outer edge.
4. Lime green wool jumper dress with wrap-over front and two deep pockets, to be worn with long sleeved black jersey shirt and black stockings.
5. Smart Stewart Scotch plaid outfit composed of jaunty short jacket and skirt gored in back and straight in front, with soft fold over each hip. Short sleeved blouse is beige with gold colored buttons.
6. Two piece tunic dress of black with buttons down side and knitted striped sleeves. Bright yellow cotton stockings and black slippers complete outfit.

Yacht Club Crowd to Gather Today for Race to Mackinac

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Chicago Yacht club will miss its usual week-end hum of activity after 3 p. m. today, for by that time many of its members will be en route to Mackinac Island to share in the 37th annual Mackinac race, either as participants or as spectators. A veritable flotilla of "stay at homes" will be on hand to watch the 31 yachts entered in the racing and cruising divisions weigh anchor off Chicago harbor between 1 and 3 p. m., and by the time the two winners slip across the line at Mackinac next week a large number of Chicagoans will have gathered at the little island to see the end of the 333 mile race.

Mrs. Edward Schnabel, Mrs. Herman T. Van Meli, Mrs. Samuel Clarke, and Mrs. Richard Heinichen all will be cheering for Clare Udell's Falcon II., as their husbands will be members of her crew. Traveling up by steamer will be Mrs. Ted Lumbard, whose husband is co-owner of Bangalore II., and Mrs. Harold Ashton, wife of the chairman of the race committee.

Other Yacht Race Notes.

Lt. Comdr. Fred Peterson, who last summer missed his first Mackinac race in years, has arrived from his post at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to join the crew of the sloop Cara Mia, owned by Leland L. Karas, five times winner of the Mackinac. Lt. Comdr. Blair Walliser, just back from the European theater of war, has found a berth on Joyant, owned by Charles Granville Jr. and Robert Webster.

Also representing the navy is Lt. Gordon Brummel, who came from Texas to sail on Albert H. Veeder's Jacinta, the 76 foot schooner which is the largest boat in the race. Jacinta is one of the entrants which lists women crew members, as do H. Eldred Stephenson's Stephia IV., William Dickey's Lively Lady, and The Aramis, which will be sailed by Mr. and Mrs. William B. Goltra. Another feminine sailor, Mrs. Hobart Olson, has joined the WAVES as a lieutenant, but her husband has come from Milwaukee to sail their boat, Duchess.

Mrs. John T. Snite, whose husband sold his boat, Tehuna, when he went to his navy post in Hollywood, Fla., will watch the race with Mrs. Clyde Larish. Later the Larishes and Mrs. Snite will take Wind Song cruising thru the north channel to Little Current, Ont., formerly a favorite rendezvous for Mackinac sailors.

George Sollitt's White Cloud, Commodore Philo H. Danly's Trident, flagship of the Chicago Yacht club, and Robert P. Benedict's Southern Cross all will head for Green Bay, Wis., after the race. Mrs. Benedict and her daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Davies, will join Mr. Benedict aboard their yacht at Mackinac. Frederick L. Spencer, who with William Faurot will sail Scimitar in the race, will go on to the Les Cheneaux Islands later with Mrs. Spencer.

The George E. Foxes are not entering their yacht in the Mackinac this year. They and their daughter, Carol, are leaving tomorrow for a leisurely cruise to Mackinac, and after a brief stopover there they plan to go to Georgian Bay.

Engagement News.

At a luncheon yesterday Mrs. Benjamin S. Wilson of S. Winchester av. announced the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy Muriel, to Frederick S. Booth of S. Hoyne av., son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Booth of S. Eggleston av. The luncheon was given in the Astor st. home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Jr. Mr. Booth was graduated from Yale university. The wedding is planned for late summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Murnighan of N. Oakley av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Margery Patricia, to Lt. David Riley De Lano of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Riley De Lano of Oak Park. The wedding will take place in August after Lt. De Lano has received his wings at Luke field, Ariz. Miss Murnighan attended Mundelein college. Her fiance, a graduate of Loyola university, was commissioned in March, 1943.

Here and There.

When the Burlington Zephyr left yesterday for the west, one of the passengers, Mrs. William E. Ragland, was occupying an unusual seat—in the diesel engine cab of the train. Mrs. Ragland, who traveled west with Mr. Ragland to spend two weeks at the T-S ranch in Bear Creek canyon, Evergreen, Colo., made the first lap of the journey from Chicago to Galesburg in the engine cab at the invitation of one of the railroad's executives. Now that Mrs. Ragland's daughter, Miss Graziella Polacco, has recovered from a serious illness, she has entered the summer school at Northwestern university.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kraft will entertain today at the Sunset Ridge Country club for their house guests, Mrs. Laverne Jones and her son, Dickie, who are en route to California. Dickie plays the role of Henry Aldrich on the radio.

Stylist Makes Hit in Attire for Young Set

BY REA SEEGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 14.—One example of an American designer completely dedicated to fashions for youth is Claire McCardell. She is as great an inventive genius as the west coast wizard, Adrian. And she is causing a major revolution among members of the younger set—wooing them away from rolled socks, sloppy sweaters, and dingy saddle shoes and leading them into the smoothest young fashions ever designed.

Famed for her originals that stress a soft, swanky, casual silhouette, blue jean stitching, hip pockets, smart jumpers, and last year's sensation, the longies in knitted materials, Claire McCardell again has marched forward with other tempting models to make a new personality out of all junior misses, debs, and collegians.

This year she presents her creations with all the flourish of a skirling bagpipe at the New York Dress institute's current showings here for the fashion editors of the nation. Included are stunning outfits of authentic Scotch plaids, made of wool woven [of all places] in Kentucky. They are eye-blinding, young as tomorrow, and just about the snappiest of fashion items.

Take your choice of suits with jaunty short jackets and matching skirts having the flare at the center back, and trick soft fold plaits in front, one on each side. Or give your heart and extra cash for the swagger waist-long, square-shouldered cape teamed with a similar skirt. Skirts for both are of soft beige jersey.

Jersey is the most popular material; stripes are the most popular for contrast. Strong colored long cotton stockings are the newest excitement—green, red, black, or yellow. Dotted red wool jersey is used for stadium pants to be worn under the well known wrap-around jumper dress, and with that pair goes a shirt of black dotted red jersey.

The dress institute should be proud of Claire McCardell. The fashion writers still save their best adjectives for this charming designer with such a spirited penchant for the young.

Jane Wilson Is Bride of Ensign Scully

Ensign Daniel B. Scully III.'s unexpected arrival in Highland Park Wednesday from the east coast was the signal for hurried changes in wedding plans by his fiancee, Miss Jane Wilson. Originally scheduled to take place in New York next week, the marriage was held instead at 5 p. m. Wednesday in the chapel of Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park, with the Rev. Christoph Keller officiating. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Jeanne Patricia Scully, was maid of honor, and his stepfather, Waldo Thorsen, was best man.

Only a small group of relatives and close friends attended the reception afterward in the Highland Park home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William H. Wilson, among them two of the bridegroom's aunts, Mrs. Josephine Nesbit of Chicago and Mrs. John J. London, who recently arrived in Lake Forest with her husband, Capt. London of the navy. Ensign Scully, who studied at Lawrence college before entering the naval air corps, is the son of Mrs. Thorsen and grandson of Mrs. Scully Sr. of Lake Shore dr. He has taken his bride to Rhode Island, where he is stationed.

The marriage of Miss Janet Jacobsen to Brinton Buckwalter of Philadelphia, Pa., will take place at 5 p. m. today in the chapel of St. James' Episcopal church. The Rev. Duncan H. Browne will perform the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. Miss Jacobsen, who has lived with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Randall Bridge of the Edgewater Beach apartments, was graduated from Columbia university. Mr. Buckwalter attended Yale university. He and his bride will live in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Robinson of Race av. announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Jayne, to Joseph Sheahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sheahan of Bristol, Wis., which will take place tonight in St. Lucy's church. Mr. Sheahan and his bride will live in Antioch, Ill. The bride, a senior at Chicago Teachers' college, will resume her studies in the fall. Mr. Sheahan recently received a medical discharge from the army.

The marriage of Miss Lenore Renne Weinstein, daughter of Mrs. Marion Weinstein of Kimball av., to Lt. Julius Cohen of the army air forces will take place tonight in the Sovereign hotel. Following the ceremony, Lt. Cohen, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen of N. Hamlin av., will take his bride to Deming, N. M., where he is stationed.

Miss Ann Virginia Brinkley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stanley Brinkley of Norfolk, Va., and Lt. [j. g.] George A. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Olson Jr. of N. Campbell av., were married in Norfolk on March 21. While Lt. Olson is at sea Mrs. Olson is living with her parents.

Dear Diary BY BECKY

Marines' Story Is Among Best of War Movies

"MARINE RAIDERS."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The silly thing known as "Cobra Woman" is replaced on the Palace screen by "Marine Raiders," one of the most thrilling of the service pictures that have been produced.

This fine war film is so authentic, so forthright, so scorning of sentimentality, and withal so unashamed of honest sentiment, that it will strike a responsive chord in every American heart.

". . . We haven't been licked since 1775. We've been forced to our knees—yes! . . . but we shoot pretty good from there. . . ." Lt. Col. Lockhard's words to the troops under his command just before starting a major operation of the invasion, and they give you a pretty clear flash of what cooks in this movie.

The marines, intensively trained, plunge into spectacular warfare against the Japs in the South Pacific. They encounter violent resistance and suffer many casualties, but when the smoke of battle clears they have the situation well in hand.

Action opens on Guadalcanal, where Paramarine Capt. Dan Craig [Robert Ryan] and Maj. Steve Lockhard [Pat O'Brien] of the marines lead their men thru a successful erasure of a lot of Japs. This over, the army comes in and the weary fighters board ship for Australia.

Here Dan meets Ellen [Ruth Hussey]. They read their future in each other's eyes and plan to marry the next day. . . . Along comes Steve to intervene, believing the lady [whom he has never seen] to be just "a marine trap." . . . He shanghais Dan—who has been slightly wounded in a sudden attack by Jap airmen—and takes him back to the United States, where he and his men are being sent to train rookie marines at Camp Elliott.

Dan refuses to forgive him—and you shall go on from here with the picture. The romance, I may say, is one of the sweetest and most believable of love stories. It has never a trite or sloppy moment, due mostly to the refreshingly intelligent interpretations of Robert Ryan as Craig and Ruth Hussey as Marine Ellen Foster. [I do wish they'd spared her that speech at the end, tho. A wee bit too, too.]

Acting and direction are super thruout. At present writing Robert Ryan is my favorite male star. Mr. O'Brien goes to town and Ruth Hussey is lovely.

Not for one minute does "Marine Raiders" lose its hold on your interest. Which, considering the surfeit of war films, is most decidedly a feat.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

A new service of the Chicago Public library was created the day a man walked into the Hild Regional branch building and consulted Matilde Kelly, associate librarian and chief of publicity for the branch, regarding what books to send to his son, a war prisoner in Germany.

Miss Kelly and Ruth Utter, the branch's assistant readers' adviser, went to work on the problem. They did such a good job that Carl B. Roden, chief librarian, authorized the publication of a booklet of reading suggestions, the only one of its kind in the nation, based on Miss Kelly's and Miss Utter's researches, which is believed to meet all known Nazis restrictions. The pamphlet is available free in all library branches, at the main library, and thru the Red Cross.

The librarians spent two weeks going thru 10,000 titles of newer works, classics, detective fiction, and self-study volumes, weeding out those which contained references to technical subjects, racial issues, politics, and ideologies known to be displeasing to the Germans.

The books listed in the pamphlet also meet shipping requirements. [Miss Kelly took volume after volume over to the scales of a neighborhood delicatessen to be weighed.] A flyleaf of the booklet describes shipping rules.

Miss Kelly and Miss Utter also are working on another war time service of the library. Friendly letters are addressed to honorably discharged service men, whose names the librarians receive from the Ravenswood post of the American Legion, in which they are invited to visit the library and consult with the staff regarding studies to readjust them to civilian life.

Miss Utter has been busy for many months in making available to war workers on the north side the collection of technical works, the largest in the city, in the stacks of the Hild branch.

Two friends were reunited recently in the South Pacific when Anne Marie Eitel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Eitel, 3118 Sheridan rd., and Lt. Col. Julius Klein, whose wife resides in the Belmont hotel, met at the colonel's bivouac headquarters.

Miss Eitel, a Red Cross field worker, arrived a few months ago in the Pacific theater. Col. Klein, who has known her since she was a child, commands a mobile truck unit. He recently was cited for bravery by Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon.

WAVES will be the new residents of a 20 room, four story stone residence at 1530 Lake Shore dr., Albert H. Wetten & Co., representing the owner's estate, and Hogan & Farwell, agents for the federal government, announced yesterday. The building was leased for a year, with the provision that the government may renew the lease from year to year until the end of the war.

The residence was the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Eckhart, whose son, Percy B. Eckhart, lawyer and president of the Ravinia Festival association, lives in Winnetka.

Concert Fans in Grant Park Rest and Listen

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

About once a season I succumb to curiosity about how Grant park's amplifying system is working, and wander about in the crowd instead of sitting discreetly in the front row reserved for the press. Last night, when Igor Gorin sang with the Grant Park Symphony under the direction of Herman Felber, I drifted in about five minutes before concert time and took the best seat available without a special ticket, which turned out to be in the center section, about two-thirds of the way back.

It isn't so much a concert there as a kind of restful interlude after the day's work. People listen if they feel like it, or they talk, not too loudly. Three Chinese were reading a letter, with chuckles. A little girl was dancing in the aisle, holding her brief skirts high as she whirled. A very large woman sat heavily on a warped bench, and the very small woman at the other end of the bench bounced high. Mamas scurried in search of wandering offspring, and papas came back to their families bearing ice cream bars. People came and people went, bearing out the park board's contention that it has two audiences an evening, before and after intermission, probably due to the shifting hours of war workers.

The music? Well, back there the music isn't quite so important, or at least not in quite the same way. Down front you keep your eyes glued on the conductor, the soloist, or the man in the orchestra negotiating a tricky passage. You flinch, however invisibly, when something goes wrong, and you feel a crackle of excitement when something soars into brilliance. Back in the outfield, you can't distinguish visual detail and when the wind is from the south, as it was last night, you just hear orchestral high spots. The high singing, for instance, of the violins in Weber's "Oberon," the deep pull of the lower strings in the andante of Goldmark's "Rustic Symphony," snatches of tunes in the Venetian carnival that is the overture to Flotow's "Stradella."

Mr. Gorin, who could focus his flexible baritone directly into the microphone, was more clearly audible. He sang the prolog from "Pagliacci" well, tho without the operatic outpouring of tone that can make it magnificent, and he followed it with the Figaro aria from the "Barber," a light, crisp performance. After intermission he sang "The Blind Ploughman" and "Yours Is My Heart Alone," both with lugubrious slowness, then turned to the Russians with better luck, singing a folk song, "Viut Vitre" and Tschaikowsky's "None but the Lonely Heart," with Shostakovich's marching "Song of the United Nations" tucked in between.

Bond Auction Will End Net Tourney Tomorrow

Thru the Looking Glass

Going stockingless is now an eminently respectable custom. Even the diehards for the conventional in feminine dress and behavior will concede that it is a war time necessity to do without hose whenever possible and that once again usage has made a custom correct, at least for the duration.

But an expanse of milk-white flesh between the hem of the skirt and the top of the slipper simply is not acceptable. The best explanation seems to be that this is so simply because it is so unattractive always. Sun tan or leg makeup are absolutely necessities if you forego hose. Only in the privacy of your own home, when you're doing your household jobs out of the line of vision of your public, should you ever attempt to go about with completely bare legs. Otherwise you ruin your reputation as a woman of taste and good grooming habits.

Curiously enough, wearing anklets seems to minimize the necessity for having the skin of the legs covered with makeup, tan, or hose. We don't know why this is so, either, but it is. However, there are some unwritten but very definite laws about when and with what you can wear anklets. They should never, never be worn with high heels. They look peculiar. Anklets are an accessory to low heeled flat shoes of the active sports type—they look jarringly wrong even with a Cuban heel. And ankle socks are "right" only when the clothes you wear are of the most informal or the sports variety. They're wrong with any costume that is the least bit dressy.

There is a fine distinction, you know, between the casual in dress and the careless. Don't ever think for a moment that the trick of good, arresting casual dress isn't studied simplicity. It is. You must watch the details of line, harmonious accessories, and of general suitability as carefully in "casual" dressing as in your gala attire.

Press Women to Open National Conference in Evanston July 28

Timed to the Annual Writers' Conference of the Middle West, the 1944 war time conference of the National Federation of Press Women will be held in Evanston from Friday, July 28, to the following Sunday, with headquarters in the Orrington hotel. The writers' conference, opening two days earlier, will be centered at Scott hall on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university. Sessions of both meetings will be open to the other group.

Principal speakers at the press women's conference, all editors or writers on Chicago newspapers, will be Stanley Johnston of THE TRIBUNE, Clem Lane, Raymond Knotts, Herbert Graffis, Eddie Doherty, and David Dilliman. Cheng Pao Nan of the Chinese News Service Chicago bureau has been invited to speak on "Chinese Publicity in War Time" at the Friday session.

The federation is headed by Gertrude M. Puelicher of Milwaukee, Wis., who will conduct the meeting. Among those speaking at the opening session will be Mrs. Douglas Malloch of Chicago, who founded the national federation and was its first president.

City Girls End Labor Shortage in Corn Fields

BY JUNE GESERICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

El Paso, Ill., July 14.—Eighty-nine Chicago women and girls arrived today in Woodford county to help detassel 5,133 acres of commercial and foundation seed corn on farms near here.

Three bus loads of workers recruited by the farm labor office of the agricultural extension service made the 125 mile trip to relieve a drastic labor shortage in this part of the state.

Fifty-one of the volunteers are members of the victory farm volunteers for workers under 18 years of age. The remaining 38 are women's land army members and most of them are giving up their two weeks' vacation from their regular positions to speed up farm production.

The volunteers will sleep in the El Paso High school gymnasium in which 100 cots have been placed dormitory style.

Wages are at the rate of 50 cents per hour for the first 40 hours and 75 cents an hour for all over 40 hours each week. Double time on Sundays and holidays will be paid to all workers who have detasseled corn for the full week.

Detasseling is the removal of the pollen producing tassels at the top of the cornstalks. It is done to improve the strain, making it a better producer and less susceptible to effects of disease and drouth.

Unless the tassel of a cornstalk is removed, the pollen may fall into the corn silk below, causing self-fertilization. Cross-pollination—fertilization by pollen of other corn plants—is more likely to produce better corn.

To assure cross-fertilization of a portion of the crop tassels are removed from eight out of every ten rows. This leaves two rows of corn with tassels to fertilize the other eight.

Detasseling is done by workers riding between the rows. They grasp the end of a stalk with one hand and pull the tassel from the plant with the other hand.

"Most of the girls have strong patriotic reasons for wanting to aid in the production of food," said Mrs. Madge Little, assistant state farm labor supervisor in charge of the women's land army. "Hardly any of them asked me about wages."

Mrs. Hulda Naslund, 5635 Wayne av., Chicago, enlisted in the women's land army so "I don't have so much time to worry about my boys." Her two sons are Robert, an army private stationed at Camp Beale, Cal., and Layman, in the merchant marine.

Mrs. Jane Ennis, 6727 S. Parnell av., is the mother of a WAVE, Anna D. Ennis, storekeeper 3d class, assigned to the armed guard center at New Orleans, La. Mrs. Ennis' husband is a night worker for the telephone company.

Many Chicago high schools and several colleges and universities are represented in the group that will start their chores tomorrow. Two teachers, two nurses, a cadet nurse, 15 secretaries, a hat check girl, six war plant workers and an applicant for a master's degree in philosophy are among the new recruits.

The fields in which the women are to work produce seed for the Pfister Hybrid Corn company.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Been Thinking . . .

Been thinking about enthusiasm and what a bright and shining thing it is. Take the 18 year old promoted in her department of one of the air lines. Her heart belongs to the air lines, she said, just as does her brother's. "Why," she announced enthusiastically, "he joined the company and went straight to the top!"

He is head of the guards.

And Thinking . . .

Been thinking about sincerity and what a deeply satisfying thing it is. Take the woman who has cleaned, pressed, and altered 2,000 service men's uniforms free of charge since that day [how well we remember!] in December, 1941. It wasn't enough to give a son to her country, said Neva Michael. So, in proof of her sincerity, she went to work at an arduous task—and several thousand service men have thanked her royally.

And Pondering. . . .

Been pondering the words of the head of a Red Cross unit who shook her head sorrowfully and remarked: "We've offered lunches and every convenience, but we can't keep a full quota of day time workers on surgical dressings. So many drop out! It's the business girls who, night after night, are willing to add to an already full day's work!"

Been Rejoicing. . . .

Been rejoicing in the indomitable spirit, the "never-say-die" quality of the human heart that speaks thru the eyes, the voice, and the set of the shoulders—like Gertrude Newman, who holds a white collar job. By night she wrote a children's book, tho "it never would have been finished if coffee rationing had been in force," she admitted. Now the author of "Polly Poppengay Milliner," a vocational book for girls, has been asked by her publisher to do a sequel—surely a feather in the cap of the pretty grandmother who works at a job, bakes lemon cream pies, and dotes on her grandchild.

Been Remembering. . . .

Been remembering the successful careerist in her 30s who took a full year's vacation "to get her bearings" and came out of that year a poised, understanding woman. . . . Been recalling Ruby Phillips, head of the La Salle Street Women, who has appointed a job chairman to assist the employers of the members in finding new office help. "Our employers need us now; don't forget we may need them later," is her wise reminder to the business group she leads.

Been exploring the delightful possibilities latent in a suggestion of a WCG reader that: "We have one 'Turn About Is Fair Play' day a year, when the customers switch places with the salesgirls behind counters, the beauty operators seat themselves in the chairs, and the waitresses settle themselves at tables to chortle while the noonday trade carries the trays."

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Vack of Berwyn announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence Jeannette, to Lt. Donald P. Hasley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hasley of Montclair, N. J. Miss Vack attended Morton Junior college. Her fiancé, a graduate of Oberlin college, is with the army air forces in North Carolina.

'One Is Missing' . . . . . By H. Vernor Dixon

INSTALMENT XVIII.

HOPE.

St. John's eye gleamed in the dark as he said, "When a man makes a promise hereafter, whether he be a politician, a business man, or a common laborer, or an intellectual, I want that man to stick to his word, or I'm thru with him. From this point on I measure a man and his works by the honesty of the man and the honest effort put into his work."

Jed and St. John walked on in the dark, each of them lost in his own private world. When they reached the schooner, the others had already retired, so Jed nodded a good-night to the Englishman and turned into his stateroom. Sleep was out of the question. There was too much to be thought about.

For the first time, Jed began to doubt himself. The Englishman's statement concerning the honesty of a man's relative position in the world was drumming in his ears.

Now he was forced to weigh the importance of that position against the lives of the Bannings, St. John, Riddell, and Mae Nolan. Could it not be possible that they represented, in a small way, the very world for which he was fighting to protect and make secure? There was certainly nothing very saintly about them. But so it was with the mass of people everywhere, here a good one and there a bad one.

Jed asked himself, angrily, "Then what am I fighting for?"

The answer was somewhere close at hand. He knew that. It had to be found. He got to his feet and paced the short length of the stateroom.

It was a tense and sober group seated about the table in the main salon the following morning. Jed had not slept all night, nor, it seemed, had any of the others, with the exception of Bart. He stood in the galley doorway his eyes slowly traveling about the group.

Riddell was surly, still smarting over the blow Jed had struck. St. John had worked all night on the sketch of the patrol base and still had it spread before him on the table. Scott Banning was staring off into space, slowly chewing on the fruit, his face the color of dead ashes. Ellen was at his side, her shoulders drooping, her eyes rimmed with red. Banning had told her of Jed's ultimatum concerning their fate.

Mae Nolan sat at the end of the table, opposite Jed. She looked about the group, then leaned back in her chair and said, "Wonderful day, isn't it? Think it will rain?"

Every one looked at her. Bart chuckled under his breath. Ellen sniffed, "Don't be so facetious."

Mae said, "What am I supposed to do, sit here and cry my eyes out? Nothing doing, sister. I faced the old, grim reaper once before, when we crashed in the jungle. Once was enough. I'm not looking in that direction any more."

"You don't have to be silly about it." Ellen turned to look at Jed, a question in her eyes. "Captain?"

"Yes?"

She leaned toward him and placed a hand on his arm, her eyes now pleading with him. "You didn't really mean what you told the men yesterday, did you?"

"Yes. I meant it. Sorry you had to know about it."

Ellen's eyes blazed and she cried, "Of course, you understand that I haven't the faintest intention of remaining on this boat and—and allowing myself to be killed. A person just doesn't accept it that way. Evidently you have seen too many movies where the man reserves the last bullet for the woman he loves. I can't believe you're that ruthless. It isn't reasonable for a man to be that way."

Jed replied, "It isn't how I feel that counts. You are unfortunately trapped in a theater of war. That war isn't going to stop for your convenience."

Bart said, "It pauses now and then, sir. Months ago I witnessed some fighting up the coast. The Japs were trying to establish a beachhead in the face of Aussie machine gun fire. Men were dying everywhere, by the dozens. Then suddenly, at a critical point in the fighting, the sun dropped below the horizon. It was a beautiful sunset. And, you know the fighting came to halt while the men watched it. When it faded away the fighting was resumed.

Jed said, "There is shame in killing."

"But what I mean, Bart, I have experienced that sort of thing, too. I have felt that way. Once it was in the East Indies. I had planted some dynamite under a Japanese barracks. It was late at night. While waiting for the explosion I happened to pick up a flower. The scent was very delicate. Just as I pressed it to my nose the dynamite went off, blowing the barracks to bits. I suppose there were a hundred men inside. Holding that flower in my hand, watching the flames, I have never felt so ashamed or so humble in my life. It stayed with me for a long time."

Bart nodded with understanding. "When we blot out a life, sir, we destroy a whole world."

Jed turned away from him and looked at the others. His eyes went from face to face and a hard smile began to tug at his lips. "I knew it was somewhere close," he mumbled.

"To each of us that personal world is invaluable. There is no wealth great enough to place a price upon it. Whether it is ugly or beautiful, or more of one than the other, does not count. The thing that counts is the right to its possession. We'll fight for it and we'll kill for it, for the right to live our own lives in peace with our fellow men. That is what counts."

Ellen cried, "Have you two gone mad? What in the world are you talking about?"

Jed burst into a great laugh and slapped the table with his hand. "You," he shouted. "I'm talking about you. You have a right to live."

"Well, of course——"

"No. It's more than that. More than what you were going to say. I'll explain myself later."

He reached across the table and pulled St. John's sketch of the patrol base toward him. When he looked up his eyes were on fire. He said, "I think it can be done."

St. John leaned toward him, watching him closely thru narrowed lids. "What?" he asked. "The base or escape."

Jed looked at him. "Both," he said. "I think we can blow up the base and, if we succeed, I can get you out of here, all of you, and across to the submarine."

All of them stared at him. Mae Nolan suddenly started to cry. She got to her feet, one hand to her eyes, and ran out of the room. Jed frowned at her action. "A strange person," he breathed.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 14.—Gary Cooper's first independent picture will be Alan Le May's "American Cowboy," with Nunnally Johnson whipping up the script, just as he did for "Casanova Brown." . . . It's love! Betty Grable tagged along with Harry James on two weeks of one night stands. I'm wondering if Betty means it when she says she's not going back to work. It's a serious thing when screen stars have babies. In the old days, they didn't dare. Nowadays it's become the vogue, but it's hard on the studios when girls don't want to continue working. I have an idea it will be different with Nancy Coleman Bolton, mother of identical twin girls. After the Whitney Bolton twins were born Wednesday, Nancy received an oscar with this inscription: "For the best performance by an actress in her own production of The Bolton Twins. . . . Joan Crawford is still laughing at a preview card Charley Koerner sent her after a sneak showing of "Music in Manhattan," which features Phil Terry. Card read, "Now we know why Joan Crawford married Phil Terry. Wow!"

They're Twirling Again.

John Steinbeck and Jack Wagner, who wrote "Medal for Benny," are doing another story titled, "Mejicano," with Henry Ginsberg about to buy. . . . A cable from Gertrude Lawrence reports she's booked for a Paris opening soon. . . . Dick Powell is house-hunting with a new blonde. . . . George Abbott is paging Eddie Bracken for his next musical, and since Eddie conquered in "Hail the Conquering Hero," he would like to combine stage with pictures. . . . Soon after Cubby Broccoli married Gloria Blondell, they moved into a duplex apartment. A neighbor upstairs looked over the balcony, saw Cubby, and called down, "Hi, there, neighbor! My name's Beet. What's yours?" "Broccoli," said Cubby. And the neighbor has never spoken to him since. . . . Gloria Vanderbilt Di Cicco gave Mike Romanoff two silver pepper pots.

Talk About Invasion!

That's what Twentieth Century has done at Santa Ana air base. It has transformed a gymnasium into a sound stage, and the troupe will be shooting "Winged Victory" there for four weeks. . . . Dan Duryea claims most Hollywood characters lifted themselves up by their own bootlicks. . . . George Sanders has "Crime on My Hands" ready for a publisher. . . . George Murphy turned author with a little opus, "Hollywood Handbook," telling beginners how to get under ropes instead of hanging on them in our town. . . . Steve Fisher is coming out with a new one titled "Kat Loves Tony." . . . Virginia Leimont, Mocambo cigaret girl, has done three pictures in a month at R. K. O., but her face hasn't yet been seen. In one her shadow was used. In another her hands, in the third her voice. When are they going to put the face and body together? . . . Saw a theater ad about revival of Hedy Lamarr's "Ecstasy." Ad read: "Don't be satisfied with less. See all of America's No. 1 glamour girl."

That's Saving Space.

It was funny at Metro, walking thru a replica of our famous Olvera st. built on the deck of the Hornet, which was built for "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo." Gave you quite a twinge. Olvera st. is just one of the local locations being used as background for "Anchors Aweigh." Seen together Gene Kelly and Frank Sinatra are so thin they'd make one good sized sailor. After a scene with Kathryn Grayson, they went outside to take pictures with Johnny Broderick, well dressed and soft spoken aide of Valentino of the New York police force. Johnny did a job in San Francisco, stopped by our village for a look-see. . . . Sherman Adams of the Boston Adamses is another visitor. Also Betty Carstairs, who's been running a fleet of cargo vessels between the Bahamas and Miami, and Tallulah Bankhead arrived Monday.

3 spades	4 clubs	Pass	Pass
4 spades	Double	Pass	Pass

West and South did a lot of bidding on their far from powerful holdings!

West opened the club king. Declarer put in the ace from dummy, cashed the ace and king of trumps, then led the heart queen. West went in with the ace, laid down the spade queen, and then led the club queen. Declarer ruffed, but when he lost the next heart trick to East, the latter led still another club and declarer had no trump left with which to ruff. Down one.

Despite the danger of incurring a heart ruff, it was imperative for declarer to knock out the two top hearts before giving up control of the trump suit. As it happened, the three-three heart break would have made this proper line of play successful. Declarer establishes two heart tricks while he retains two low trumps for club ruffing, and he then cashes the top trumps. The defenders cannot stop him from discarding a diamond from dummy, and the doubled contract becomes ice cold.

Theater of Air Will Do 'Peer Gynt' Tonight

On the day of the opening of its 20th anniversary week celebration, W-G-N, thru its Chicago Theater of the Air, will broadcast a musical-dramatic production entitled "Peer Gynt" from the Grant park bandshell. The first half of the program will be aired by W-G-N, WGNB, and Mutual from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight. After an intermission, another hour of nonbroadcast music will be presented for the park audience.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be heard by the radio audience. He will speak from W-G-N studios.

The broadcast portion of the program will be based on Ibsen's play "Peer Gynt" with a musical setting by Grieg. Dramatic highlights of the composer's life will be interwoven with some of his compositions on the post-broadcast portion.

Vocal soloists will be Bruce Foote, Ruth Slater, and Virginia Haskins. Carol Silver, young Chicago pianist, also will play. Henry Weber will direct the orchestra and chorus.

A Reading Clinic Sharpens Dull Boy; He Wins His Wings

Success of the language art clinic in education in arousing the intellectual interest of students who may rebel against too much Shakespeare was described yesterday at the University of Chicago by Rachel C. Parry of Southern Illinois Normal university's bureau of child guidance.

One of the clinic's shining examples, Miss Parry told teachers and officials attending a conference on reading, was a 20 year old high school senior. His foster parents were trying to remedy his backwardness by giving him large home doses of the classics, but he exhibited a tremendous lack of interest.

In the clinic he was encouraged to read subjects of interest to him, and he selected books on airplanes. Easy writing goals were set, and he was persuaded to improve his speech by speaking into a dictaphone. Miss Parry said his progress was amazing. He finished high school, went to junior college, then passed the army air forces' exacting training course with honors, winning his wings and a commission.

W-G-N Opens 20th Birthday Display Today

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Veterans of two decades of radio listening may be heard speaking of cat's whiskers, crystal detectors and spaghetti around W-G-N this week. In fact, several were overheard yesterday using these and other vintage radio phrases at a preview of the exhibition of old [and new] radio equipment which W-G-N is opening at 10 a. m. today in the public service office of Tribune Tower in connection with a week's celebration of its 20th anniversary.

For the benefit of this generation of push button tuners, it may be explained that a crystal was employed as a detector in the earliest sets, those of the pre-tube era. A cat's whisker was a thin stiff wire, which was used to make a sensitive contact with the crystal detector. And spaghetti was a term referring to the insulation tubing used to cover the wires in home-built sets.

The equipment exhibit, together with a display of some 80 pictures bearing on W-G-N's history, in Harmony hall between the tower and the W-G-N studios, will be open for eight days from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily and is free to the public.

The exhibit of radio equipment covers 30 years of wireless operations [the terms radio and broadcasting were not introduced until 1920]. A display of equipment used thru the years by W-G-N discloses the fact that transmitter tubes have been growing steadily bigger and more expensive. Two decades ago tubes resembling the bigger home lighting bulbs sufficed. Today giants almost five feet long and costing $1,680 are required.

Microphones, on the contrary, which once were big, formidable metal cubes, or long cylinders have grown steadily more compact, the exhibit reveals, and no longer frighten radio performers.

The sets are all there, from the earliest requiring headphones for listening to the latest models incorporating frequency modulation, phonographs, push button control, home recording, and other devices. The gradual transformation of the radio set from a metal and wire gadget to an attractive piece of period furniture can be readily traced.

About half way along the visitor encounters the era of bulbous horns sitting atop overornate cabinets, an affront to the eyes, whatever their auditory appeal may have been.

Possibly the most curious item in the exhibit is a 1926 set, loaned by a W-G-N employe. It is in the form of a serviceable globe, mounted on a stand. The receiver circuit is housed within the sphere, the dial opening up out of the Gulf of Mexico with calibrations in meters instead of kilocycles. The speaker is concealed in the globe's pedestal.

Kitchen Pointers
By Mary Meade

"I canned some cherries and raspberries yesterday and today I find that most of the jar seals are broken," phoned an inexperienced canner. "Can you tell me what happened?"

Upon questioning this person about her canning method, we found she had used self-sealing lids [two piece metal] and had tightened them after removal from the canner. This had broken the seals. Lids of this type should be screwed on firmly tight [with the hand and not with a wrench!] and should not be touched after the processing period until completely cold, about 24 hours. Then the screw bands should be removed carefully and the lids tapped to test the seal. We advised that the fruit be reheated, poured into sterilized jars, sealed with new lids, and reprocessed for one-third to one-half of the original time required.

"I used my candy thermometer in making jelly and cooked the mixture to 220 degrees. The jelly was much too thick. What happened?"

Use of the candy thermometer in jelly making is not an accurate test. The "sheeting off" test is much safer. Dip a spoon into the boiling sirup and lift it out. When two drops of the sirup run together at the edge of the spoon and sheet off, the jelly is done.

"How many pounds of potatoes should I buy for potato salad to serve 50 people and how much ham do I need for that number?" wrote a club committee chairman.

We answered that 15 pounds of potatoes [used with one quart celery] would be sufficient and suggested that our booklet, "Food for a Crowd" might help in planning amounts of coffee, cream, butter, and other food items needed. This booklet not only lists amounts of food to serve 50 but also includes large quantity recipes. To order "Food for a Crowd," send 7 cents in stamps to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune, or pick up a copy at a Tribune Public Service office, 1 S. Dearborn st. or Tribune Tower lobby, for 5 cents.

Child Reflects Examples Set in the Home

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"He's cute all right when he's playing alone," sighed a young mother, looking at her small son, Dickie, absorbed in filling a box with stones. "He's an imp when he gets with another child, tho.

"Just yesterday I was downtown with a friend of mine who has a 3 year old daughter. Dickie is only 2, but he's large for his age. We were in a store when Phyllis suddenly screamed and ran to her mother. Dickie had pushed her in the tummy, and was all set to do it again when I grabbed him. When she yelled, he actually was delighted and wanted to repeat the jab to hear her do it again. I was so embarrassed.

"I'm sure my friend thought Dickie should be spanked on the spot, but I don't think he meant to hurt her; he simply enjoyed her reaction. Seriously, tho, I don't want him to grow up selfish and inconsiderate, an out and out pest! What sort of character training do you suggest?"

Parents who are unduly disturbed because their small children push or shove other little ones; who don't want to share their toys, or have outbursts of anger; and who think that all this presages selfishness and lack of control thru later years, needn't take it too much to heart. These sorts of behavior are phases that children outgrow. That is, they outgrow them with intelligent upbringing. And intelligent upbringing is something that not only emphasizes high standards but also allows a child time to adjust himself to the adult world around him.

The most important part of character training lies in the example a child has before him.

What kind of voices does his mother use when she speaks to him when they are alone and also when others are present? Does she fly off the handle over the least little thing that goes wrong, or does she wait for an explanation?

Is his father courteous and considerate at home as well as with friends and business associates?

Is his mother's word as good as her bond, or does she tell him white lies to smooth things over, only to have him discover the truth from other sources?

Sometimes a small child needs a word of guidance, or an older boy or girl a direct talk to crystalize some point of ethics, but on the whole the example within a home, in its atmosphere, are the vital factors in character building.

Warns Strains of War Bring Need to Relax

Because the times are grave and worry and work are exhausting, provision must be made in every one's life for games, social diversion, or other forms of relaxation, Dr. Charles H. Kauffman, Danbury, Conn., warned yesterday at a first day session of the five day war conference and 48th annual meeting of the American Osteopathic association in the Palmer House.

"All work and worry and no play make Jack a nervous wreck," he said. Altho concern over relatives in service or one's own work is natural, he added, worry is utterly futile and can be extremely detrimental to health by interfering with normal bodily functions.

A plea for more women doctors to help replace the doctors who have entered service was made by Dr. Rachel H. Woods, Des Moines, Ia., president of the Osteopathic Women's National association.

"It is not likely that this situation [the shortage of civilian doctors] can be entirely readjusted when peace comes," she said, "because there is every indication that we will not disarm so quickly as after the last war, but that we will remain armed for a long time."

Asserting the magazines in doctors' waiting rooms should not be more than a year old, Dr. Ray G. Hulbert, Chicago, editor of the Journal of the American Osteopathic association, declared that still another way doctors could please their patients would be by discussing their ailments with them in plain, every day language.

A war plant sick bay where workers and executives receive regular osteopathic manipulative treatment was described by Dr. Sydney M. Kanev, medical director of the Reeve Sound laboratories, New York. He said that absenteeism was reduced and production increased.

Protective clothing, cleanliness, and avoidance of harsh cleansing agents are fundamental in the fight to reduce the incidence of skin disorders in industry

EXTENDS CURBS ON BRITISH CIVIL RIGHTS FOR YEAR

But M. P.s Assail Loss of Liberties.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—War time restrictions on personal freedom and liberty of the press may be relaxed before the European conflict ends, Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison told the house of commons today. The house, however, without the formality of voting, agreed to extend for another 12 months the emergency powers act under which these and other restrictions are imposed.

Morrison, speaking in a debate in which petty regulations, "trifling orders," and "crimes committed in the name of efficiency" were criticized by members of parliament, promised a review of the emergency powers as soon as the war in Europe is ended. "We may be able to get rid of some of the emergency regulations before the war in Europe is finished, but added the government could not agree to any clean sweep.

Jap Defeat Pledged.

The government, he said, "must still be armed with the powers necessary for the prosecution of the war in the east. We are engaged not in one war, but two. We are determined to fight the war thru in the east. There can be no question of letting down our American allies, the Australians or the New Zealanders. I ask the house to agree that if the Jap war continues longer than the European element, we can't be fettered in our necessary powers for the prosecution of that war."

Apart from the restrictions on the press and personal freedom, he gave the blackout regulations as an example of those that could be abandoned. The government has earmarked emergency powers that could be revoked, he said.

Among restrictions the government proposed to retain, Morrison indicated, were rationing and other economic controls. The public interest must be predominant, he insisted, and without stable economic controls chaos might result in the transition period after the war. Regulations to check inflation and maldistribution of supplies in that period, he said, would need careful consideration and might involve fresh legislation.

Loss of Liberty Assailed.

The minister of home security protested against a suggestion of Robert Bernays, Liberal, that while a few Britons had lost their homes as a result of bombings, all had lost their liberties during the war time.

"That's a silly thing to say," snapped Morrison. "It is a libel on this house, the British people and the government. It is true of Germany but it is not true of Britain."

Prof. J. J. Craik-Henderson, Conservative, ridiculed the "famous bread order" under which Vienna loaves were limited to a minimum of eight inches in length, the austerity of the clothing regulations, which had to be withdrawn, the tins, kegs, and drums order, which was excessively complicated, and similar "petty" restrictions.

"These regulations are making this country, against our own will, cease to be a law abiding country," he said, adding that respect for the law would disappear if the restrictions continued.

Hits Prison Without Trial.

Henderson admitted there might be differences of opinion regarding 18-B [British defense act] but said he thought none would "like a man to be kept in prison without a trial after the war." He demanded removal of restrictions that might hamper export trade, saying, "We must export or bust."

Capt. Bernays, criticizing a regulation enabling the minister of labor to direct an individual into any job, complained that it was "the road to serfdom."

Robert Boothby, Conservative, mentioned the case of a friendly alien who was refused permission to study at a university on the ground that he was not sufficiently studious in the past.

R. J. Taylor, Laborite, said the agitation for relaxation of controls led in one direction—"the liberty to exploit the people as soon as the war is over." He appealed against lifting the restrictions "too quickly."

Aneurin Bevan, Laborite, said that if controls were swept away "there would be inflation far worse than Germany experienced," followed by "riots, and civil disturbances."

WAR WEAPONS SHOW VISITED BY GOV. GREEN

Gov. and Mrs. Green and their daughter, Nancy, were guests yesterday of the transportation corps, newest branch of the army service forces, for luncheon aboard the transport ship anchored in the lagoon off Burnham park, scene of the "Weapons of War" show. The exhibit is free and open to the public daily from noon to 11 p. m.

After lunching with Brig. Gen. William E. Guthner, director of security and intelligence, 6th service command; Col. Daniel Hardt, transportation officer; Lt. Col. Sidney Z. Eleveld, director of the war show, and Maj. Russell Oakes, head of the transportation corps exhibit, the Greens toured the show.

Gov. Green's party rode to the ship in an amphibious truck—the two and one-half ton land-water vehicle in which show visitors who buy $100 war bonds are given a ride. The war show is conducted in conjunction with the treasury department and will continue thru July 24.

Brookfield's Baby Zebra Already Playing Briskly

Edward H. Bean, director of the Brookfield zoo, yesterday announced a new arrival—a baby grand zebra, born to Belva and Roscoe, zebras. The newcomer stands about 36 inches high and already is briskly playing about the zoo yard, Bean reported.

COL. DUNCAN NAMED AS QUARTERMASTER DEPUTY IN EUROPE

Col. A. G. Duncan.

The war department said yesterday that Col. Albert Gordon Duncan of 719 Judson av., Evanston, has been named acting deputy chief quartermaster for the European theater of operations. Col. Duncan also served as chief of the plans and training division in which he has a major part in the job of clothing, feeding, and equipping the army for continental operations.

The quartermaster in the European war theater has supervision over thousands of men operating more than 50 huge supply depots. He also directs the procuring, storing, and issuing of supplies.

Col. Duncan was a captain in World War I. in France. He was a lawyer in Chicago until October, 1942, when the army called him back to duty. He is a graduate of Lane Tech High school and of the University of Chicago in 1914.

July 14, 1944.

SHORTAGE of help on the Wheaton farm slowed down the work so much it now has piled up until the men are fearful that they may not be able to get all the harvesting done at the proper time.

The first round of haying is ending now. The wheat is ready to combine. After the combine moves thru the wheat field the straw must be raked up and baled and the bales stored in the barn.

After the wheat is harvested the oats will be ready for the combine. In the meantime the second cutting of hay will be waiting for the mower. How the men ever will be able to do all these jobs is anybody's guess.

3 Do Work of 11.

In previous years the farm has had as many as 11 men helping get in the hay crop at one time. This made it easy. The forage moved in a steady stream from the field to the barn. Now there are only three men doing the same work. After loading one wagon they must move to the barn and unload. With another crew it would be possible to have the loading and unloading going on at the same time with no interruptions.

The following excerpt from the farm column of July 11, 1942, reveals what it was like to farm in the good old days.

"Now that the first hay crop is in, the men have been figuring out the size of the labor crews needed to get each type of forage put up. To make silage out of the alfalfa takes a crew of nine men. It takes eight men to put hay in the hay keeper; seven men to bale hay in the field, and a crew of seven men to put loose hay in the barn."

Cost Per Ton Lower.

This year the work was done by three men, with the occasional help of two boys. The only cheerful factor in the picture is that the labor costs were kept down. It costs approximately $9.25 to grow and put a ton of hay in the barn in a normal year. Undoubtedly this figure was smaller this year because of the smaller number of men on the job.

The Fox river farm has been more fortunate in getting help and has not suffered this year. By trading labor the farm manages to keep at least four men working in the fields at all times. For shocking oats a man and a boy were hired as additional help. As a consequence of adequate labor the farming program is moving smoothly with little delay and no loss of crops.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

CHINESE cabbage is one of the few vegetables which thrives best in this region with late summer planting. This weekend is the final deadline for seeding Chinese cabbage in northern Illinois. This crop is easy to grow, but requires a fertile soil and an abundance of moisture during late July, August and September. Nitrogen fertilizer should be applied in shallow trenches along side the rows after germination, especially if the seeding is made in ground which already has produced one crop this season. The moisture requirements of Chinese cabbage make it inadvisable to plant this vegetable unless there are watering facilities.

Chinese cabbage rows should be two feet apart, and the seeds should be placed an inch apart in furrows two inches deep. If the topsoil is very dry, the planting furrow should be thoroly moistened before the seeds are planted, then the seeds should be covered with an inch of soil and an inch of decayed leaves or similar compost matter. When the plants are four to six inches tall they should be thinned to stand 18 inches apart, and the thinnings can be cooked as greens.

AIRMAN ADMITS LOW FLYING IN BEHEADING CASE

Takes Stand to Fight Murder Charge.

Marana Field, Ariz., July 14 (AP).—Second Lt. Howard E. Stittsworth, 21, Wakefield, Kas., testified in his own defense today to conclude the presentation of testimony before a court martial board on a charge of murder and violation of flying regulations in the plane-auto death of a Los Angeles man last month.

Admits Low Flying.

The court adjourned until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow when deliberations will begin.

The airman acknowledged on the witness stand that at the time of his plane's collision with the auto June 22 he was "flying at an altitude of between 20 and 30 feet" between two auxiliary fields that are adjacent to Highway 89 on opposite sides of the road. Earl W. Nepple, a California hotel manager, was beheaded when his automobile was struck by the wing of a plane on that highway.

"It was such a short distance between the two fields," Stittsworth said, "I did not think it necessary to gain higher altitude."

Failed to See Auto.

He explained he was having trouble with the plane's landing gear and was bent over in the cockpit at the time he felt an impact, but was not aware of an automobile below him.

Earlier in today's proceedings the prosecution used a mock arrangement of an automobile and an AT-6 training plane—the type Stittsworth was flying—in an effort to demonstrate how the wing could have struck Nepple's car and decapitated him.

Col. John C. Horton, commander of Roswell, N. M., army air field serving on the board, asked Stittsworth:

"Did you realize the danger of having your head in the cockpit for 30 seconds while flying at such low altitude as 25 or 30 feet when your plane could dive or climb several hundred feet in that length of time?"

"I knew that, sir," answered Stittsworth, "but I didn't think of it."

RAINBOW VETS HONOR HEROES OF CHAMPAGNE

The Champagne hour, a memorial service observed annually by members of the Rainbow Division Veterans' association, was held by the Illinois chapter last night, 26 years to the minute after the fighting division, which had been rushed into action to stop a German offensive, began the decisive battle at Champagne sur Mer.

Approximately 300 members and guests took part in the service conducted by Stewart Watson, vice-president of the Illinois chapter. Names of division members who died in the last year were read. Guests included representatives from many states. The annual convention of the Rainbow division was to have opened in Chicago last night, but was canceled for the first time since its inception in Germany in 1919 because of travel restrictions.

Prior to the service, Howard R. Stone, Winnetka, commander of battery F, 149th field artillery, was installed as president, and Howard Crowther, Chicago, as secretary. Municipal Judge Joseph McGarry conducted installation ceremonies.

RECOVER CHILD ABDUCTED FROM CRIB IN HOSPITAL

New York, July 14 [Special].—Blonde, blue eyed Barbara Anne Goggin, 6 months old, who was abducted from her crib at the New York Foundling hospital early yesterday, was found unharmed today in the possession of a woman in a 95th st. rooming house. The child was returned to the hospital where physicians pronounced her in good health.

The woman, 29, a former shipyard welder, was quoted as saying she slipped into the hospital and picked up the child "because I have a great love for children and am unable to have any of my own." She was charged with kidnaping.

The baby, whose ill mother, Mrs. Walter Goggin, 30, had left her at the hospital for temporary care, had been the object of a wide search. She was found after a coast guardsman reported he was suspicious about a child the woman had shown him. He told his superiors and they informed the police.

ROBBED OF WATCH, $2.70 CASH.

August Foreman, 1633 N. Oakley av., was robbed of $2.70 and his watch, valued at $35, Thursday by two Negroes who seized him at Damen av. and Fulton st., he informed police.

"Sure glad we've got FORDS!"

"NINE-TON LOADS are the average as we rush the lifeboats we make to nearly every shipyard on the coast. Our Ford truck tractors do a great job. Mileage is mounting, but operating costs stay low."

says M. JAREMA, Works Manager, Lane Lifeboat & Davit Corporation, Flushing, New York

On all kinds of jobs, Ford Trucks are delivering service that earns warmest praise from operators. Individuals and fleet owners write to tell how reliable their trucks are—how seldom they need repairs—how little they cost to run and to keep up. Limited production of new Ford Trucks has recently been authorized. If your needs are urgent and you can qualify, see your Ford dealer promptly. It will be necessary, of course, to provide official ODT certification.

"DELIVERING COMPLETE SETS of fully-equipped lifeboats saves both unloading and handling costs. Our Fords truck them into the yards on time, ready to be swung aboard the Victory and Liberty ships."

"A FORD RECONDITIONED ENGINE was recently installed in one truck in an emergency, enabling us to hold to schedules. Such service is a great help. We wouldn't trade our Fords for any other make."

31 YACHTS SET SAIL TODAY IN MACKINAC RACE

Test Is Longest in World in 1944.

Thirty-one sailing craft representing 11 yacht clubs around Lake Michigan will start this afternoon for Mackinac island, Mich., in the 37th annual race sponsored by the Chicago Yacht club. Eleven more yachts than last year are entered with Race Committee Chairman Harold Ashton.

The 333 statute mile race is the longest yachting event in the world this year, Ashton stated last night at the skippers' meeting held at the Belmont harbor clubhouse of the sponsoring club. As both the Atlantic and Pacific coastlines have been cleared of all but harbor sailing yachts, Lake Michigan is the center of world yacht racing activity, he added.

4 Past Winners in Race.

The fleet includes only four past winners, White Cloud and Lassie, which won the cruising division honors in 1942 and 1943 respectively, and Hope, 1936 and 1938, and Falcon II., 1942 Universal division winners.

The yachts are divided into two groups, as has been the custom since the 1927 Mackinac race, when cruising yachts were separated from the Universal or strictly racing craft. The winner of the Universal division time prize next week will receive the historic Mackinac cup. The Chicago-Mackinac trophy, which is alternated from year to year with the cup, goes this time to the yacht with the best corrected time in the cruising division.

Jacinta Biggest in Class.

The largest yacht in the Universal division is the 73½ foot racing schooner Lively Lady, owned by William Dickey of the Kenosha [Wis.] Yacht club. A crew of 15 will sail the boat in its first Mackinac race.

Jacinta, a 76 foot schooner with more than 2,000 square feet of canvas in its mainsail alone, is the largest cruising entry. The yacht is owned by Albert H. Veeder of Detroit, a member of the Chicago and St. Joseph River [Mich.] Yacht clubs. As in the last four or five years, Hobart Olson's cruising cutter Duchess, only 31 feet 4 inches over-all, is the smallest entry in the entire fleet.

Veteran Yachtsmen Vie.

Among the veteran yachtsmen who will sail as helmsmen, navigators, and light canvas men are Commodore Carl A. Kallgreen, who will be aboard W. R. Smith's Valiant; L. W. McMasters, who is here from St. Petersburg, Fla., to race on Clyde Larish's Wind Song; William Murphy on Hobart Olson's Duchess, John D. Kinsey on the Bangalore Too; Austen Field and Payson Mayhew on Tar Baby; Ed Schnabel on Falcon II.; Fred Spencer and Phil Hill on Scimitar; Lt. Fred Peterson, U. S. N., on Cara Mia; Walter Frye on White Cloud; Laurie Hendrickson on Trident; Lynn Williams on Hostell II., and Dr. William Thomas on Southern Cross. All have been in 10 or more Mackinac races.

The fleet will be started between 1 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon off Chicago harbor by four yachts, led by Chief Boatswain's Mate Neville Pilling's cruiser Al'Aise.

Yachts' Course

This chart shows the course 31 yachts leaving Chicago today will sail in the 333 statute mile race to Mackinac Island. The event is the longest in the world for sailing craft this year.

This Time It's 'What Chance Have Bears?'

[This is another of a series by National Football league coaches on the 11th College All-Star game between the collegians and Chicago Bears Aug. 30 in Dyche stadium, Evanston.]

BY PHIL HANDLER.

Co-Coach, Chicago Cardinals and Pittsburgh Steelers.

Football fans, about this time of year, start bombarding me with questions about the All-Star team. In the past, I was kept pretty busy giving my opinion on what chance the college stars had against the professionals. Needless to say, I didn't give them much encouragement because in normal times the pros have the advantage. But these aren't normal times, and please, I'd like to duck that question until about 11 p. m. the night of August 30. Then we'll all know.

Phil Handler.

Now it's the other way around. I've been asked frequently of late what I thought of the Chicago Bears' chances. That 27 to 7 whipping the All-Stars handed Washington last season still is fresh in the minds of sports followers.

Only the Bears Repeat.

In ordinary years, the championship team preparing for the All-Stars had 10 or 12 players who had made their pro debuts only the year before. But most of those youngsters have gone into military service. I would say the Bears' individuals average five or six seasons in the league; either that or it's been that length of time since they left college. The older an athlete is, the longer it takes for proper conditioning. The fact that the pros have to rush their exercising each summer for this contest is the big reason only one team has repeated as league champion since the series was started. That team was the Bears, who won the title in 1940 and 1941.

So I think the All-Stars have a tremendous edge in this game. They will have a larger squad than the Bears and consequently will be able to scrimmage more. The Bears, or any pro team in these times, can ill afford to take chances of losing key players in scrimmages.

All-Star Game Their Goal.

Fans frequently ask me the college boys' reactions to being named on an All-Star team. Every year I talk to a lot of collegians in the Big Ten and southwest and, to a man, it's their ambition some time to face the pros in the big game.

I've been asked many times to tell the biggest thrill an All-Star game ever gave me. That's easy, because it's still fresh in my memory. It was the play of Glenn Dobbs and Pat Harder against the Redskins last year.

ILLINOIS GOLF CROWN GOES TO JEANNE CLINE

Triumphs, 2Up, Over Virginia Nilles.

Bloomington, Ill., July 14 [Special].—Jeanne Cline of the Bloomington Country club, who has been seeking the Illinois Women's Golf association championship for four years, finally realized her goal here today when she rallied to defeat Virginia Nilles from the Rob Roy club of Arlington Heights, 2 up in the 36 hole final.

The 20 year old junior from Rollins college sank a 40 foot putt on the 36th hole for the victory. She took the lead on the 35th hole when Miss Nilles missed a 3 foot putt.

One Down After 18 Holes.

One down at the end of the first round at noon, Miss Cline was in even deeper trouble as she lost the 19th and 20th holes to open the afternoon's play. They halved the 21st, but Miss Cline won the 22d, cutting Miss Nilles' advantage to 2 up.

They halved the 23d but Jeanne dropped the next hole and was 3 down again. Then she rallied to take three straight holes and even the match.

Lead Changes Often.

She took the lead on the 28th hole but lost it on the 29th. They traded the 30th and 31st and Miss Nilles also won the 32d to lead again, 1 up. They halved the 33d, but Miss Cline evened it on the 34th. She won the 35th with a 4 and then took the 36th with the long putt.

Medal for first 18 holes:

Girls' Entries Received for Tribune Swim

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[ENTRY BLANK ON NEXT PAGE]

The Lincoln-Belmont Y. M. C. A. will be represented by four girls in the 100 yard swimming races at California park July 23. This center is one of four preliminary meets sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities and will qualify approximately 120 boys and girls for the 10 championship events July 30 at California park.

The Lincoln-Belmont girls are Fritzie Schalk and Joy Kenny, Class A, 11 and 12 years of age; Thelma Niowarmer, Class B, 13 and 14 years of age, and Jane Wakefield, Class C, 15 and 16 years of age.

Trials July 22 at Cermak.

Trials will be held at Whealan pool on the same afternoon as the races at California park. On July 22, a week from today, the preliminaries are scheduled for Cermak pool, Lyons, Ill., and Sherman park on Chicago's south side. Cermak pool, on the southwest side of the city, is the best location for contestants living in that territory as well as for those who come from down state.

At Cermak pool, the swimmers cross the width of the pool three times, thus having to make two turns. The other centers have 50 yard courses which require only one turn. All trials will start at 2 p. m. and swimmers must report between 1 p. m. and this starting time. Each will receive a postcard of admission to the pool which also is acceptance of entry.

Only Three Days Left.

Three days remain in which entries will be accepted for the 15th annual races. All entries must be postmarked before midnight Monday. The individual entry blank will not be printed after Monday's edition. Team entries may be submitted by coach or captain but the age and home address of each contestant must be given.

All boys and girls who prove their ability to swim 100 yards will receive a souvenir award. Qualifiers for the championships also will receive prizes while the champions July 30 at California park and those finishing second and third will receive gold, silver, and bronze medals.

FRANK CROSETTI PLANS TO JOIN YANKS TUESDAY

New York, July 14 (AP).—Frank Crosetti, star shortstop of the New York Yankees who had been working in a California shipyard this year, notified President Ed Barrow today that he expects to rejoin the club next Tuesday in St. Louis.

IF a poll were taken, Chicago newspaper photographers would vote Jim Tobin, the Boston Braves' two time no hit pitcher, the major leagues' most uncooperative character. . . . When the Braves last visited Wrigley field, Jim held his glove before his face to foil the cameramen. . . . Joe E. Brown, the cinema comic, and Maj. Paul Schissler, the former coach, are said to be laying plans for a post-war professional football team in Los Angeles. . . . British soldiers, thru their familiarity with cricket, become good softball players after only a few hours' practice. . . . A group of officers [nothing below a colonel] challenged an American nine of the same rank and beat it, 20 to 13, to the surprise of all concerned. . . . In reporting the game, an American sergeant says: "They really could hit! Years of cricket had given many of them good batting eyes, tho they had a tendency to swing in an arc like you would with a golf club, and thus miss the high ones. . . . When a low one came over the plate, those British were dynamite. Their pitcher banged out a home run with two on. . . . The winners were a happy bunch and they immediately challenged the American officers to a game of cricket." . . . Altho Fred Corcoran, secretary of the Professional Golfers' association, predicts night golf after the war, lighting engineers are not too sanguine. . . . "Golf course lighting presents many more problems than baseball," says one Detroit authority. "It probably can be done, but to date authorities have no record of any successful experiment." . . . In 1940 the Detroit Tigers won 18 out of 22 games from the St. Louis Browns in marching to a pennant. . . . To date, the Brownies hold an 11 to 3 edge in the 1944 series. . . . The record books show that Miss Anne Johnson of Salford, England, swam 151 feet 6 inches under water on Oct. 26, 1895, and the United States navy credits Seaman 1st Class Eddie Jochym with 221 feet at Great Lakes in 1942. . . . Recently, Ruth Kahl of Santa Cruz, Cal., bettered both performances by staying under 2 minutes 49 seconds while swimming 303 feet. . . . Frankie Kovacs, the tennis clown, is unchanged after two years in the army. . . . He still admits, modestly, that he is the best singles player in the world. . . . An Apparent Contradiction.

"Refrain from rum," I heard the padre say,
"It's the worst enemy you have in life,
'Twill lead your toiling footsteps far astray
And bring grief to your children and your wife;
It will dethrone your reason and destroy
For how can one know happiness and joy
Who gives a foothold to his enemy?"
And yet last week in church the padre said
That every one should love his enemies,
And every night before he went to bed
That he should pray for them on bended knees;
Because I'm fond of being wined and dined

Unknown Soldier.

Soon, now, they may carve out a massive stone,
Inscribing it just as they did for me.
When cannons cease to roar and bombs to fall,
Perhaps they'll place this symbol next to mine,
And dedicate it as a sacred shrine,
At which to place a wreath, while bugles call.
This is my wish: that I might have him here,
To share my lonely vigil thru the years;
To know my silent longing and my tears;
To know that he would be forever near.
Then, when each boy goes home to dad and mother,
If one, as I, must ever be unknown,
Place him beside me; not somewhere, alone,
That we may feel that each has found a brother.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs' first division or bust campaign made headway yesterday and by way of being certain the plans for the afternoon didn't miscarry, the Charley Grimm ensemble went all out with its bats before a ladies' day gathing of 11,800. The boys cuffed the Pirates around by 11 to 5 in a rather disorderly affair that involved five homers, a theft of home, and the services of five pitchers. Four of the home runs were by the Pirates, each with the bases empty, for their first four scores.

The Pirates got a bit gay by knocking Bob [Lefty] Chipman, seeking his fifth straight, out of the picture in the third and apparently the Cubs didn't care about having the ex-Dodger booted around. What the Pirates did to the lad was to unload three homers, two of them by Tommy O'Brien, for a 3 to 2 lead but the Chicagoans went to work immediately with their bats to thump Ray Starr, Art Cuccurullo and Xavier Rescigno for a grand total of 13 blows, one of them Stan Hack's first 1944 nonstop trip. Meanwhile Hy Vandenberg was taking good enough care of the enemy batters.

Hughes Leads Attack.

Because the strain of one day as a regular put Lou Novikoff in bed with stomach pains, Bill Nicholson had to get back on the job despite his bum hand. For a cripple he fared pretty well, getting a pair of hits and a pair of passes in five attempts and driving in two runs. However, for individual labors Roy Hughes set a pace all by himself. He tripled, doubled and singled and also was the gentleman who stole home much to the confusion of Cuccurullo in the fourth.

Chipman started his day's work nicely enough by fanning Pete Coscarart but two pitches later O'Brien discovered the lefty's home run ball. He plastered it into the left field seats for his season's No. 1 homer. In the Cubs' half Stan Hack led with a single, scored on Hughes' triple and the latter counted on Phil Cavarretta's infield out. This lead lasted only until Coscarart and O'Brien hit homers on successive pitches in the third.

Cubs Pull Ahead Again.

The Cubs' three run third opened with Hack walking and going to third on Hughes' single. Hack scored while Frank Zak was erring on Cavarretta's grounder and when Nicholson singled to drive in Hughes, the Pirates' pitching affairs were placed in the care of Cuccurullo. The Pirates let Dom Dallessandro's pop drop for a single and Cavarretta scored. There was nobody retired up to this point but with the help of a double play the whole thing was broken up quickly.

No tricks were revealed by the Cubs in the fourth until after two were defunct. Hughes walked, went to second on a passed ball and to third on Cavarretta's scratch hit. Next came his steal of home, Cavarretta meanwhile burglarizing second, after which he rode to the plate on Nicholson's single.

Hack Hits Homer in Eighth.

The Pirates then took the offensive for a short spell. Babe Dahlgren hit his No. 7 homer to left in the sixth and in the seventh a single by Zak linked with an error by Don Johnson gave them their last run. Dallessandro's double and Dewey Williams' single off Rescigno got this back in the home half. Three runs in the eighth were started by Hack's homer, Hughes' two bagger and Cavarretta's third single.

Overmire and Tigers Defeat White Sox, 2-0

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—Jimmy Dykes' dashing White Sox this afternoon rolled two singles thru the Detroit Tiger infield to make it a grand total of five hits in the series to date. The Tigers won, 2 to 0, and it was Stub Overmire's second shutout of the Sox, he having held the Comiskey sluggers to four hits in a 1 to 0 victory in Chicago on June 11. Stub has won two other victories in American league competition this season.

Bill Dietrich, the lone Chicago starter who sometimes wins a game when the Sox can eke out two or three runs, was the victim. Bill turned in a creditable job of pitching, considering the hopelessness of trying to conquer with such a helpless company of touring sportsmen. He held the Tigers to four hits until the eighth when the Tigers added a couple of infield scratches.

Not Even to Second.

Overmire walked no one and even a pair of Tiger errors was not enough to advance a Dykes boy to second base. Hal Trosky rolled a single past the clumsy Rudy York in the second inning and the rally ended when Thurman Tucker and Tom Turner flied out. Wally Moses singled off Joe Hoover's glove in the sixth and was doubled as he sought to steal second on Leroy Schalk's whiff.

The run which was enough to win for the Tigers was a homer by Dick Wakefield in the second inning. Dick rejoined the Tigers yesterday following his honorable discharge from the navy.

Overmire scored the run he didn't need. He led off the sixth with the third Tiger hit, a double to left center. He took third on Hoover's sacrifice [on which Hoover reached first on Schalk's error] and scored on Eddie Mayo's fly to Moses. The three hits after Overmire's shot all were infield scratches, one by Wakefield, one by Paul Richards and the third by Hoover. Outfielder Ralph Hodgin, playing third for the Sox, fielded Hoover's effort cleanly but lost the play when he had to wind up to throw to first.

Maybe Pay Day Will Help.

Today's collapse gave the Sox a record of 12 losses in 16 games since they left Chicago in second place. Since they were beneficiaries of two gift games in Yankee stadium they have lost nine and won two. They have won one game on an earned basis since leaving home and it took them 12 innings to grab that one, in Washington, 3 to 2. Today's defeat sent the Sox into eighth place.

MARSCH ENTRY IS WASHINGTON PARK FAVORITE

Futurity Field

SEVEN of the nation's top 2 year olds were entered in the $25,000 added Arlington Futurity, to be contested at Washington Park today over six furlongs. The field in the order of post positions follows:

	Wgt.	Jockey.	Prob. Odds.
Flood Town	122	G. Woolf	8-5
Buck Road	123	C. Brooks	20-1
*Errard	122	L. Haas	1-1
Sir Bim	119	C. Corbett	12-1
Spartan Noble	122	N. Jemas	10-1
*Free for All	122	O. Grohs	1-1
Darien	122	C. Wahler	20-1

*John Marsch entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Seven, the smallest field ever to go postward in the history of the event, have been named for the $62,175 Arlington Futurity at Washington Park today.

It will be the 15th running of the juvenile fixture, and to most followers of the sport the outcome rests between John Marsch's Chicago owned Free For All and the importation from New York, Lt. Edward Lasker's Flood Town. Marsch's Errard is almost as highly regarded and is coupled with Free For All, winner of the Hyde Park stakes and holder of the Washington Park track record, 1:04 1/5 for five and one-half furlongs.

Representative Field.

The Futurity distance is six furlongs, and with two track records already smashed and two others equaled during the first four weeks of the current meeting, the six furlong mark of 1:10 1/5 is in danger from today's contenders.

Despite the short field, it is the most representative from a sectional standpoint that could be assembled. Beside Flood Town from the east and Free For All and Errard from the middle west, the field includes the following: Don Ameche's Sir Bim from the Pacific coast, William Helis' Spartan Noble, representing New Orleans in the deep south; H. D. Ulmer's Darien from Florida, and S. E. Pershall's Buck Road from Illinois. All but the latter are Kentucky bred. Buck Road, a surprise entry, is a son of Morsel, once a popular performer on Chicago tracks.

Flood Town Second Choice.

The Marsch entry probably will go to the post at even money on the strength of their one-two finish ahead of Flood Town in a prep race Tuesday. Flood Town is rated at 8 to 5 probably because of a record of four victories, including the National Stallion and Juveniles stakes in five starts. He was sold privately by his breeder, Hal Price Headley, to Lt. Lasker.

Marsch, who has had phenomenal success in futurities with the full brothers, Occupation and Occupy in the last two years, bought Free For All for $11,000 as a yearling from the Mereworth farm, but Errard, like Occupation and Occupy, was bred by Marsch and Thomas Carr Platt at the latter's Crestwood farms in Kentucky.

Sir Bim, a son of Bimelech, was bred by Col. E. R. Bradley at Idle Hour and purchased privately by the movie and radio star. Spartan Noble is a product of the Coldstream stud and a son of Bull Dog.

Of the $62,175 gross value of the race, $49,275 will be the net to the winner.

Three Dots won his third race of the meeting for J. H. Rouse in the $5,000 Roman Handicap, yesterday's feature, before a crowd estimated at 12,000, and paid $6.40 to win. T. D. Grimes' With Regards was second, a length back, and just a nose in front of Miss Ethel Hill's War Knight.

The first race was won by W. W. Ingram's Bohemia, which paid $15.60, and a photo knocked off a 60 to 1 shot in the second and gave the decision to U. H. Plavin's Urge Me over S. H. Herendeen's Viola Wise, which paid $47.20 to place. Urge Me returned $12.20 and the daily double amounted to $95.80.

The day's mutuel handle was $801,620.

YANKS TAKE 2D PLACE; DEFEAT BOSTON, 4 TO 3

Borowy Wins 12th Victory of Season.

New York, July 14 (AP).—The New York Yankees hit Tex Hughson, losing pitcher in the All-Star game, for all of their runs in the first three innings as they whipped the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 3, today. Hank Borowy went the route for his 12th victory as the Yanks took over second place from Boston by a fraction of percentage point.

BUCKY WALTERS AND REDS BEAT CARDINALS, 3-0

St. Louis, Mo., July 14 (AP).—Bucky Walters shut out the St. Louis Cardinals for the third time this year, the Cincinnati Reds winning, 3 to 0, tonight. The Cardinals have scored only one run in 40 innings against Walters this year.

The Reds scored their first runs in the seventh. Ray Mueller opened with a single and scored on Steve Mesner's triple. Mesner came in on a balk by Mort Cooper.

SOX ADD 7 NIGHT HOME GAMES TO SEPTEMBER LIST

Despite the lifting of the limit on night games by the major leagues, the White Sox will play only their originally scheduled six after-dinner contests during the three weeks' home stand that opens Tuesday, Vice President Harry Grabiner said yesterday.

Seven additional night games will be played in Comiskey park during the month of September, however, one with each of the other clubs in the league. In all, the White Sox plan to play 22 night home games.

Thornton Lee, White Sox pitcher whose services for the season were believed ended Sunday when he suffered a break in his left forearm when hit by a line drive, predicted in Chicago yesterday that he will be back in uniform in a couple of weeks and will be ready for mound duty early in August.

Lee, one of the two Sox left handed pitchers, said an examination disclosed that the break involved a small bone and that the injury has not impeded the movement of his elbow or fingers.

Major League Club Ups Bid for Sacramento Star

Sacramento, Cal., July 14 (AP).—The unnamed major league club seeking Clem Dreisewerd, crack Sacramento southpaw pitcher, has upped its bid from $20,000 to $32,500 and a good pitcher, Earl Sheeley, Sacramento manager, said today.

REMORSE SEIZES WIFE WHO TOLD ON FLED CONVICT

Hated Being Hunted for 11 Years, She Says.

A wife who informed police of her husband's past criminal record, which resulted in his return to prison yesterday after 11 years of model living, was remorseful yesterday. The woman is Mrs. Carmella Jablonski, 32, and the man is Joseph J. Jablonski, 42, husband and father, who escaped from the Joliet prison honor farm in 1933 while serving a life sentence for the 1921 murder of a Chicago druggist in a holdup.

"I hated being hunted like a rat," the weeping wife said in explaining that she disclosed her husband's secret because she got tired of running away and moving from rented rooms to a new neighborhood frequently in an effort to keep her husband from being discovered and returned to prison.

Wife Cries Out.

As Jablonski was driven away yesterday by Clarence Atherton, assistant warden, and Lt. Andrew Stash, of the prison police, the wife called after him, "I didn't intend to be a stool pigeon Joe, I'm sorry."

"Take care of the kid," was all Jablonski said. He referred to their 11 year old daughter Antoinette.

Jablonski was arrested, with two others, when only 19 for the murder of Albert N. Lawrence. He was sentenced to life imprisonment and served from 1921 until his escape Dec. 30, 1933.

Avoids His Parents.

In the 11 years he lived as a fugitive he made no attempt to visit his parents, altho he did call his relatives long distance on various holidays to inform them he was all right, a member of the family admitted. His mother died in May, 1935, and his father in December the same year. Whether Jablonski visited them at the hospital during their illness could not be verified.

Jablonski, who arrived at the Joliet penitentiary yesterday at 11 o'clock, will be unable to have visitors for 30 days while he is at the diagnostic depot. Thereafter he will be accorded all privileges of a regular prisoner, Warden Joseph E. Ragen said.

According to the state parole board, he will not be eligible for a parole until he has served a minimum of 20 years of a life sentence.

SULLEN INMATES OF BOYS' SCHOOL STAGE SITDOWN

2 of 29 Who Fled Are Still at Large.

A sullen, restless group of juvenile prisoners, most of them involved in the mass escapes Wednesday and Thursday nights from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles, yesterday staged a sitdown strike as police announced the capture of five inmates. Another gave himself up last night, leaving only two of the 29 who fled still at large.

The one who surrendered is Vincent Obos, 16, of 1736 N. Wood st., who walked into the Racine av. police station and told Sgt. Francis Pitlock, "I want to give myself up. I'm one of the five who escaped from the school at St. Charles Thursday night." Obos explained that the only reason he broke out was to "visit my folks and now I'm satisfied."

Late in the afternoon police from the South Chicago district announced they had arrested three of the prisoners who escaped the school Thursday night. Earlier, police in Clinton, Ia., wired school officials that they had found two more of the 24 inmates who escaped the school Wednesday.

Chicagoans Are Caught.

Those arrested by South Chicago police are Anthony Perez, 16, of 8900 Green Bay av.; John Nosik, 16, of 3243 N. Hamlin av., and Robert Chamberlain, 19, of 2349 Roscoe st. In custody of Clinton police are George Lakin, 16, of 1440 S. Spaulding av., and Eugene Martin, 16, of Peoria.

The sitdown strike by inmates of the Pierce disciplinary cottage, from which the group of 24 prisoners escaped Wednesday, was revealed by a guard who described the situation as a "keg of dry powder ready to blow up any time."

Refuse to Work.

The guard said the entire group of cottage prisoners refused to perform work assignments and cursed at guards who tried to force them to leave the home. He said he was "very unhappy" about having to stand watch in the cottage last night.

The group of about 30 inmates of the Pierce cottage finally went to work shifting a coal pile in the afternoon.

FUGITIVE LIKELY TO FACE CHARGE OF AUTO THEFT

Ralph L. Williams, 26, escaped convict from the Indiana state penitentiary at Michigan City, who was captured here last Tuesday, probably will be booked on a charge of larceny of an automobile, Capt. Peter Annen of park police said yesterday. Williams, who has confessed a string of robberies and purse snatching in Chicago, will be held meanwhile for further investigation and additional showups, the captain said.

A Michigan automobile, which Capt. Annan said the fugitive admitted stealing in Chicago, contained a set of Indiana license plates. This and other evidence, the captain added, may be the basis for filing a federal charge of transportation of a stolen automobile across a state line.

The warden of the Indiana penitentiary issued an arrest order for Williams, who broke out of prison serving 3¼ years of a 10 year sentence.

STANLEY JOYCE ESTATE VALUED AT FIVE MILLION

Estate of the late James Stanley Joyce, Chicago lumber king who died Jan. 3, was revealed in an inventory filed in Probate court yesterday to have amounted to more than 5 million dollars, slightly more than half the amount which he inherited from his mother, Mrs. Clotilde Gage Joyce in December, 1941. His entire estate goes to his young niece, Mrs. Beatrice Joyce Richardson, 233 E. Walton st., Chicago.

The inventory listed 20,000 shares of stock and 7,900 bonds in the Tremont and Gulf railroad, of which he was president; 6,666 shares in the William Joyce company in Maine, which he owned; 16,666 shares in the Spruce Creek Lumber company of Tennessee; 3,222 shares of United States Steel; an $865,000 life insurance policy, and a claim against the U. S. government for the war time seizure of his yacht, Whitecap II.

Under terms of a pre-nuptial agreement, Joyce's second wife, Nelle, was to receive $250,000 within one year of her husband's death, but her attorney, John Black, has been granted permission by the court to enter objections and July 26 has been set for hearing. Joyce's first wife, the famous Peggy Hopkins Joyce, received a $40,000 cash settlement at the time of their divorce, as well as a $1,350 monthly income for life.

NEW UNION BOSS ACCORDED VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Edward Fenner, British born and college educated boss of local 705, Chicago Truck Drivers, Chauffeurs, and Helpers union, was given a vote of confidence last night by 110 of the union stewards after he denounced as underhanded the efforts of "Tom, Dick, and Harry" to malign him.

"Tom, Dick, and Harry" were authors of a letter which assailed Fenner's past as an office secretary to the late Mike Galvin, the union's first boss who was assassinated in 1936. Heatedly, Fenner asserted the letter was "malicious and libelous" and, by their vote, the stewards believed him.

Fenner succeeded the late Patrick J. Lavelle, who died of natural causes, as executive manager and business agent, but Fenner was given dictatorial powers "to conduct the affairs of the union as he sees fit."

Cashier's Screams Rout Bandits and Save $20,000

The screams of Mrs. Mildred Cohen, 27, cashier, yesterday routed two bandits from the Transportation Currency exchange at 626 S. Dearborn st., and saved $20,000. When Mrs. Cohen saw the bandits enter the exchange, she screamed and shouted to Harry Siegal, the manager, who threw the money in the exchange safe. Frightened, the two bandits fled. Siegel said the large amount of money was to cash paychecks.

Decree Granted

MRS. VIRGINIA STEWART.

Mrs. Virginia Stewart, 25, of 7708 S. Paulina st., assured her ex-husband, Thomas, 28, there were no hard feelings when she met him in the county building corridor yesterday after she had been granted a divorce on a charge of cruelty. Mrs. Stewart waived alimony thru her attorney, Thomas Rosenberg, and was granted custody of a son, William, 3 months old, and $10 a week for his support. Stewart, a tavern owner, lives at 4537 Drexel blvd.

SISTER-IN-LAW SUES AFL AGENT IN ESTATE FIGHT

Charles Youngblood, business agent for the Painters' union, local 147 [AFL], yesterday was made the defendant in a suit filed in Circuit court by Mrs. Hazel Newman, 4738 Beacon st., who claims a half interest in two apartment buildings left by his deceased wife, Mrs. May Youngblood, who was Mrs. Newman's sister.

The complaint alleged that, under the terms of her sister's will, Mrs. Newman is entitled to a half interest in the properties, located at 8055-7 Prairie av. and 141-5 W. 75th st. It also charged that deeds granting joint title to Youngblood were recorded the day after Mrs. Youngblood's death, May 21, by Atty. William Rodriguez. The attorney is made a joint defendant in the suit, which also names Sutton & Peterson, Inc., a real estate firm which, the plaintiff charged, collected $1,000 rent for Youngblood on the property.

Mrs. Youngblood, the petition asserted, had directed Rodriguez to destroy the unrecorded deeds after altering a previous decision to name her husband as joint owner of the buildings.

MICHIGAN BRIBE TRIAL HEARS END OF STATE'S CASE

Mason, Mich., July 14 [Special].—The prosecution's case in the legislative graft trial was completed today after a new chapter was disclosed in the colorful career of former Democratic Sen. Joseph C. Roosevelt, self-styled "errand boy and bartender" to Maj. Charles F. Hemans, in the payment of bribes on finance company legislation. Hemans is a former Democratic regent of the University of Michigan.

Circuit Judge John Simpson will be asked Monday to pass on a series of defense motions for dismissal of some defendants and alteration in the record.

On re-direct examination, Roosevelt testified that the $50 a week wage paid him by Hemans was divided equally with Samuel J. Leve, former director of the bureau of investigation of the Wayne county board of auditors, who since has been convicted in Wayne county of accepting graft in return for condoning his double employment by the county bureau and Hemans. Roosevelt had been sent to the state capitol to watch legislation affecting the bureau.

REPUBLIC STEEL WORKERS STRIKE OVER WAGE RATE

Twenty scarfers and inspectors at the Republic Steel company's plant at 116th st. and Burley av. walked off of their jobs at 3 p. m. yesterday in protest of an asserted wage grievance, a company spokesman said. The spokesman said the men asked for compensation on a tonnage rather than the prevailing hourly basis and that the management, while amenable to the plan, cannot put it into effect at once as requested.

If the walkout continues from 24 to 48 hours, the spokesman said, it will tie up vital war contracts and halt the flow of material to 3,200 other workers in the plant.

Sam Taylor, international field representative of the United Steel Workers of America, CIO, with which the workers, members of local 1033, are affiliated, said he had no knowledge of a strike.

"No strike was authorized and there won't be any," he added. The local has headquarters at 908 S. Commercial av. and its president is G. L. Yuratovac.

Heart Attack at Work Fatal to Phone Employe

Anthony Breitzke, 48, of 8543 S. Justine st., died yesterday en route to St. Bernard's hospital after suffering a heart attack while repairing a telephone cable at the intersection of Ashland av. and 55th st. Breitzke, brother of Lt. Philip Breitzke of the homicide squad, was assisting Bruno Warsh, 6934 S. Campbell av., when stricken.

FARWELL WILL REVEALS ESTATE OVER 2 MILLION

$300,000 Given Away Before Death.

The Passavant Memorial hospital and the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago will eventually benefit in the $2,502,500 estate of John V. Farwell, Chicago merchant, it was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed in the Lake county probate court at Waukegan before Judge Martin C. Decker.

In recent codicils, the will disclosed that within the last year before his death on June 17, Mr. Farwell had given approximately $300,000 to various charities. For this reason previous bequests to the charities under the will are canceled.

Stepchildren to Share.

The will specifies that after minor bequests, the bulk of the estate be divided into two equal funds. One fund—to be known as the Harriet S. Farwell fund in memory of his wife who died in 1938—is to be shared by five stepchildren.

The stepchildren are: Hermon D. Smith, 370 Onwentsia rd., Lake Forest; Harry D. Smith, 347 Forest av., Winnetka; Lawrence D. Smith, 190 E. Onwentsia rd., Lake Forest; Lucy S. Harvey, Macomb, Ill., and Elliott D. Smith, New Haven, Conn.

The second fund is to be known as the Katharine Farwell Carpenter fund, the name of his daughter by his first wife. Mrs. Carpenter resides in Bridgewater, Conn. After an outright bequest of $30,000 Mrs. Carpenter's foster child, Joan Carpenter Price, the remainder of the fund is to be placed in trust with the income of at least $18,000 a year going to Mrs. Carpenter.

Fund Reverts at Death.

The will provides that at Mrs. Carpenter's death, two-fifths of the trust fund will go to Passavant hospital; two-fifths to the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago, and the remaining one-fifth to be shared by Hermon and Elliott Smith.

Charities to which Mr. Farwell contributed in the year before his death included: Y. M. C. A. of Chicago, $166,054; Passavant Memorial hospital of Chicago, $24,396; Visiting Nurses association of Chicago, $24,525; Y. W. C. A. of Chicago, $20,000; the United Charities of Chicago, $25,000; Presbyterian hospital of Chicago, $5,000; Chicago Historical society, $5,000; First Presbyterian church of Lake Forest, $10,000, and Yale university of New Haven, Conn., $10,000.

UNION TO PRESS FOR AERO COACH WAGE CONTRACT

Lester Thornton, subdistrict director of the United Steel Workers union [CIO], announced yesterday he would begin negotiations at once for a contract with the General American Aero Coach company, East Chicago, after it was announced by the national labor relations board in Washington, D. C., that the USW had won a disputed election held at the plant in March.

The coach company, with a plant at Hegewisch, leased a building from the General American Transportation company at East Chicago a year ago when the Hegewisch facilities became too small, and instead of negotiating a new contract, expanded the contract they already had with the United Mine Workers. Protesting, the USW picketed the plant, and the NLRB ordered an election.

When the results were counted, the USW had received 85 votes to the UMW's 67. Forty-four votes were challenged on the ground that some of the supervisors, as well as some of the Hegewisch employes, were not eligible to vote. The challenges were upheld, and the NLRB yesterday gave the CIO its permission to organize in the East Chicago plant.

ORDER McGURN PUT ON MEDICAL ROLL FOR MONTH

Police Capt. Charles G. McGurn of the West North avenue station yesterday was ordered on the medical roll by Commissioner Allman on the recommendation of Police Physician Dr. Elmer W. Moseley. Capt. McGurn, who has been in ill health, has been a member of the police force since 1907 and has been captain since 1926. He has five creditable mentions for police work. Capt. McGurn recently was reinstated to duty after he had been suspended for 30 days following a raid on a bookie in his district by police from the commissioner's office. At the end of 30 days, Capt. McGurn again will be examined by Dr. Moseley and if found still ill will be retired from the force.

WAR BOND SALES CONTINUE RISE IN CHICAGO, COUNTY

Sale of 5th war loan bonds in Chicago and Cook county moved up another notch yesterday as four local governmental units reported their employes had exceeded their quotas under the pay roll savings plan. Philip R. Clark, general chairman of the drive, said total sales thru Thursday rose to $1,061,909,000, or 118.78 per cent of the overall quota of $894,014,000. Sales to individuals, which run until July 31, totaled $192,475,000, or 69.38 per cent of the quota of $277,439,000. Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that the city had purchased a total of $9,100,000 in war bonds during the drive.

OBITUARIES

Joseph Little Bristow.

Fairfax, Va., July 14 (AP).—Joseph Little Bristow, 83, former United States senator from Kansas, died today at his home here after a three week illness. Bristow served in the senate from 1909 to 1915. He was a joint author of the 17th amendment providing for election of senators by a popular vote. He entered federal service in 1897 as fourth assistant postmaster general and conducted two investigations into huge postal frauds. SEDITION TRIAL ATTORNEY CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—Henry H. Klein of New York, a defense attorney who walked out of the mass sedition trial nine days ago protesting what he called a "high handed" attitude of the court, was cited today by Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher to appear July 21 and show cause why he should not be held in contempt.

At the same time, Justice Eicher ordered James True of Arlington, Va., one of the 29 defendants, eliminated from the case on account of illness. Earlier, two other defendants, Robert Noble of Los Angeles, Cal., and David J. Baxter of San Bernardino, Cal., were eliminated. They may be tried later.

The contempt citation against Klein was issued upon a petition by O. John Rogge and Joseph W. Burns, government prosecutors, who said Klein, who was counsel for Eugene N. Sanctuary had absented himself since July 5 and "committed a contempt of this court."

Elwood Ordnance Plant Blast Blamed on Spark

A spark created by friction during the cleaning of a washing tank caused the fire and explosion last Tuesday in the Elwood ordnance plant which was the cause of three deaths and injury of two men, Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commander of the Elwood and Kankakee plants, said yesterday. Investigation of the blast has not been concluded. Damage to the loading line is being repaired and the line will be in full operation Monday.

Find 10 Dead in Wrecked Fortress.

Rangeley, Me., July 14 (AP).—The entire 10 man crew was found dead today at the wreckage of a Flying Fortress which crashed between Deer mountain and Big Buck mountain near the Rangeley lakes.

Maj. Norman D. Vaughan of the air transport command said the plane appeared to have exploded when it crashed Tuesday during a storm. The wreckage was located yesterday.

The army yesterday announced the names of the Fortress' 10 crew members, among whom was Staff Sgt. Wayne D. McCavran, Seymour, Ia. A search party reached the scene today.

BRIDE OF 15—OR MAYBE 16—GETS 2 YEAR SENTENCE

Detroit, Mich., July 14 (AP).—Korine Buckner, 35 year old dress designer, was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $2,000 today for fraudulently obtaining service men's allotment checks from two of the 15 or 16 husbands she told the FBI she remembered marrying. Judge Frank A. Picard directed she serve her term in the National Reformatory for Women at Alderson, W. Va.

If she took the names of all her remembered husbands, she would be Mrs. Korine Labyatt Hopkins Coffey Sperrow Fitze Barker Stormanns Neumann Patchett Zerich Wilhelm Osworth Horn Galvin Stankowich.

To avoid the difficulty of determining her proper legal name the government used her maiden name. She pleaded guilty to a seven count indictment charging her with cashing five allotment checks as the wife of Lloyd H. Osworth and two as the wife of Jacob E. Horn.

AUTO INDUSTRY IS TOO BUSY TO PLAN FOR SHIFT

Proposals of WPB Are Rejected.

Washington, D. C., July 14 [Special].—The government's program for an early start in the reconversion of the automobile industry to civilian output suffered a setback today when the industry's nine big companies protested they were too deeply engaged in war work to permit any preparations for the manufacture of passenger cars. This decision was reached unanimously at a meeting of the automobile industry with officials of the war production board's automotive division and other high WPB members.

Charles E. Wilson

The conference was called by the WPB to discuss a series of proposals based on surveys submitted to the automotive division by each of the nine companies in the last several weeks.

Quotas Held Impracticable.

One proposal, the "blue order," which was to permit manufacturers to place orders in advance for materials, parts, and machinery for fulfilment when the WPB gives the signal, was rejected. Possible quotas for the industry, understood yesterday to be one of the reasons for the meeting, were dismissed as impracticable at this time, it was said.

Permission to make experimental models of post-war cars, another step the WPB thought would be helpful in the gradual readjustment of the auto industry to peace time production, was discouraged by industry representatives who said they were experiencing a shortage of engineers and technicians which would make experimentation difficult.

"Members expressed the view that they could therefore devote very little time, now at least, to the development of experimental models or even to major design changes in their passenger cars," the WPB said.

Action Pleases Wilson.

Charles E. Wilson, WPB executive vice chairman, who has fought preparations for reconversion at this time, said he found "particularly gratifying" the policy pronounced by all the companies present "to prosecute their existing or future munitions contracts" to meet the "admittedly difficult" requirements of the army and navy.

He said, however, that if "we are fully realistic we must recognize that a day will come when it will be possible to resume the production of passenger automobiles. As far as we can see that day is still quite far off, and there is not much we can do now in preparation for the reversion to peace time production. But when Germany is knocked to her knees, as she will be, we will have been less than prudent if we have not done as much advance planning as possible. We must have a complete, workable plan ready for the day when production of passenger automobiles can be authorized."

At the same time, other WPB officials described as "utterly hopeless" the wish of the automobile manufacturers to start simultaneously and on an equal footing in the manufacture of passenger cars.

L. R. Boulware, WPB vice chairman for operations, said the manufacturers also agreed that it would be economically unsound to start the manufacture of passenger cars unless individual company quotas totaled at least 2 to 2½ million automobiles.

Between 3,000 and 5,000 small companies engaged largely in war work, would have to supply parts for automobiles, and clearing these channels would present big obstacles to reconversion on a large scale, he said.

Despite the pessimism of the industry on the possibility of speedy reconversion on X-day, when Germany falls, other authorities appeared more hopeful.

Overly Modest, Some Say.

They speculated on the possibility the nine auto companies were being "overly modest," in the meeting for the benefit of their competitors, and that they were hesitating to disclose too much of their individual post-war progress.

Industry members attending the meeting today were:

H. S. Vance, board chairman, and Courtney Johnson, assistant to the chairman, Studebaker corporation; K. T. Keller, president, and B. E. Hutchinson, vice president, Chrysler corporation; George T. Christopher, president, and J. H. Marks, vice president, Packard Motor Car company; A. E. Barit, president, and S. G. Baits, vice president, Hudson Motor company; George W. Mason, president, and A. M. Wibel, vice president, Nash-Kelvinator corporation; C. E. Wilson, president, and Albert Bradley, vice president, General Motors corporation; Charles A. Sorensen, president, and Ward M. Canaday, board chairman, Willys-Overland Motors; Henry Ford II., vice president, and R. R. Rausch, vice president, Ford Motor company; Powel Crosley Jr., president, and R. C. Cosgrove, vice president, Crosley corporation.

The WPB reported the representatives returned to their homes "to explore further, in the light of subsequent developments of the war, the starting rates that might be applicable and appropriate at a future date."

BENTON HARBOR FRUIT.

Benton Harbor, Mich., July 14 [Special].—Fruit market prices: Raspberries, 24 pints, reds, mostly $4.50; blacks, $4.00 to $4.50. Dewberries, 16 quarts, $4.32 to $4.50. Currants, 16 quarts, $3.00 to $3.50. Cherries, 16 quarts, sour, $4.00 to $4.50; sweet, mainly $4.50 to $5.00. Apples, No. 1, bushels, yellow transparent, 2 inch and up, $4.00 to $5.00. All supplies heavier.

Light Trucks Output Plea of ODT Loses

Washington, D. C, July 14 (AP).—The war production board rejected a request of the office of defense transportation for resumed manufacture of light trucks for civilian use in the first three months of 1945, ODT announced today.

As a result, ODT ordered its district offices to halt at once the acceptance of applications for light trucks. This action was necessary to conserve the scant supply of new trucks remaining in the country's stockpile, ODT said.

Based on Steel, Labor Lack.

WPB's refusal was based on the scarcity of flat rolled steel and of labor, factors which are curtailing highly urgent military programs for heavy trucks and other equipment.

However, WPB authorized a total of 41,000 light trucks for the first quarter of 1945 on a "suspended AA-3" basis. This is a priority rating which would not be effective until validated by WPB, and amounts only to permission to plan for production.

Only 700 light trucks remain in the national pool, of which only 300 are available for essential civilian use, ODT said. The others are reserved for military and other government use. Normal peace time production runs about 300,000 a year.

Will Sift Applications.

With new applications halted, ODT said the large backlog of applications on hand would be sifted down to the 300 most essential applicants. On Aug. 7 all trucks which have not been taken by the agencies for which they were earmarked will be transferred to a common pool available equally to all agencies. ODT said it was hopeful of getting a few more light trucks for civilian use from the common pool.

DENIES OIL FIRM PROPERTY TAKEN BY U. S. AGENCY

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—James E. Markham, alien property custodian, today denied the assertion made by Eugene Holman, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, that the custodian's office had confiscated valuable property belonging to American citizens.

Holman made the accusation in a statement concerning a suit filed yesterday in federal court in New York, seeking an injunction to prevent the custodian from dissipating what was termed the company's property.

The custodian, who demanded surrender of the securities and patents on May 24, said:

"My office has given full consideration to the claims of the Standard Oil company that it was the owner of certain patents and shares of stock involved in arrangements with I. G. Farbenindustrie, A. G., the German chemical and dyestuff trust. After examining the facts and discussing the case with representatives of Standard Oil, we concluded that I. G. Farben owned both the patents and the securities at the time of our seizure."

MEXICANS FORM UNIT IN CAPITAL TO OBTAIN TOOLS

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—A Mexican purchasing commission has been set up in Washington with 20 million dollars of credits available for cash purchases of many types of industrial machinery not needed for war production. The commission, which will continue after the war, has a nonofficial status, but it has the backing of the Mexican government and will draw its funds from the Mexican treasury.

Forming part of the Mexican industrial and agricultural development commission, composed of leading Mexican industrialists, the purchasing commission plans to buy available American machinery for sale to Mexican industrialists and farmers.

Felix Villasenor, head of the purchasing commission, and Washington representative of the development commission, said that all purchases will be made in cash. The 20 million dollars is "just to get rolling," he said.

Hinckley Gets Job to Close War Orders

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—Robert Henry Hinckley, 53, of Ogden, Utah, former assistant secretary of commerce, was selected by President Roosevelt today for the job of settling billions of dollars of government munitions contracts when the war ends.

Now a vice president of the Sperry corporation, Hinckley is resigning to accept the newly created position of director of contract settlement, the White House announced.

Job Created by Congress.

Congress created the post in accordance with recommendations by Bernard M. Baruch and John M. Hancock, special advisers to the office of war mobilization.

The Baruch-Hancock report called for an office of contract termination and procedure to settle contracts swiftly and thus free factory space and capital for a return to production of civilian goods.

Hinckley resigned as assistant secretary of commerce and joined the Sperry corporation in 1942 after nine years with the government.

Former CAA Head.

He was director of federal emergency relief for western states in 1933, later was assistant administrator of the works progress administration, and in 1938 was appointed to the civil aeronautics authority.

He was chairman of the CAA in 1940 when that agency was placed under the commerce department. He was transferred with it, becoming assistant secretary of commerce.

He was in the automobile business in Utah before going with the government.

MAKER OF RUGS OFFERS OWNERS COMMON STOCK

Artloom corporation, rug manufacturer, yesterday announced the offering of 100,000 common shares at $5 a share to present stockholders in the ratio of one new share for each two held. The company plans to retire 4,100 shares of outstanding preferred stock on Sept. 1 at $115 a share.

Carrier corporation, manufacturer of air conditioning and other equipment, called a special meeting of stockholders for Aug. 15 to vote on a new issue of 120,000 preferred shares, of which 70,000 shares would be sold to common stockholders. Proceeds would be applied to retiring outstanding 4½ per cent debentures.

BOOTH FISHERIES REPORTS LARGER VOLUME IN 1943

Booth Fisheries corporation handled more business in the fiscal year ended April 29, principally because of increased sales of quick frozen fruits and vegetables, R. P. Fletcher Jr., president, told stockholders in his annual report yesterday. Sales totaled $22,600,920, against $19,516,660 the year before.

Net profits were $488,165, including $49,922 of nonrecurring profit from the sale of the government requisitioned trawler Illinois, compared with $428,671 in the 1943 year.

At their annual meeting Aug. 4, shareholders will be asked to ratify a pension plan for employes.

People and Events

F. A. Hiter, senior vice president of Stewart-Warner corporation, yesterday announced the appointment of Floyd Masters as manager of the company's radio division. Masters since 1939 has been midwest manager for Stewart-Warner appliances. "Stewart-Warner definitely will remain in the radio business after the war," Hiter said. "All we need to start civilian production is government approval. Post-war radio production will be concentrated in the company's Chicago plant."

The Rock Island lines yesterday announced the appointment of Ernest W. Larsen as assistant general freight agent with headquarters in Chicago. Larsen has been chief clerk to the freight traffic manager since 1941 and has been with the road for 27 years. William M. Spaulding, whom Larsen succeeds, has been assigned to assist in handling southwestern rate matters. Spaulding succeeds Leonard Hill who has been promoted to general freight agent.

Dr. Donald B. Keyes, formerly of the University of Illinois, was named director of the production research and development office of the war production board.

Wallace E. Wing has been elected president of the Marblehead Lime company. Wing has served the company in technical and executive capacities for the last 21 years.

PULLMAN PLANT IN EAST BOOSTS SHELL OUTPUT

Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company is materially expanding the production of heavy artillery shells at its Butler, Pa., plant, Wallace N. Barker, vice president, announced yesterday. He said that within two months the production rate of one type shell will be tripled, a second will be stepped up to 125 per cent of the current rate, and a third to 114 per cent.

A second 8 inch shell forging line costing $50,000 will go into operation in the fall, doubling the plant's capacity for producing this type of shell, he said.

The company's Hammond, Ind., plant is converting its shell making facilities to the production of navy shells. Barker said that because Hammond was in a labor shortage area the plant was denied extra facilities recently when the army authorized expansion in shell making.

WHEAT FUTURES TURN EASY IN QUIET TRADING

With wheat prices near the 1944 government loan basis most traders displayed little interest in speculative selling yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Hedging pressure, however, was sufficiently heavy to give the market an easy undertone and futures closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel lower. July wheat in Kansas City sold at $1.49½ a bushel or within ½ cent of the price the Commodity Credit corporation announced it would pay for No. 1 hard winter in elevators.

The volume of trading in all grains was smaller than recently. Oats were unsettled, July closing ⅛ cent higher and the deferred deliveries ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower. Rye declined ⅞ to 1¼ cents. Barley finished ⅝ to ¾ cent lower.

Gulf Masonite Abandons Oil Well at 7,000 Feet

Laurel, Miss., July 14 [Special].—The Gulf Masonite corporation, No. 1, well in Jones county was drilled to 7,341 feet before being plugged and abandoned, it was announced today.

STOCKS MIXED; SOME LEADERS LACK SUPPORT

Dealings Smallest Since June 9.

New York, July 14 (AP).—Altho many favorites gained support in today's stock market, other leaders lacked sound bids and the market closed irregular.

Trends were mixed from the start when investors displayed conservatism while waiting for more of a technical correction to bring better purchasing levels. Railway equipment issues exhibited strength near the close on revived talk the lines need new equipment. Altho low quoted issues appeared in blocks as large as 20,000 shares, dealings were slowest in more than a month.

War News Buoys Market.

War news and political hopes provided a sustaining market influence and business prospects bolstered individual issues. Many accounts were trimmed for week-end protection.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was unchanged at 56.3. Of 931 issues appearing, 353 were down and 326 up. Transfers totaled 1,087,610 shares, smallest for a full session since June 9.

At tops for the year or longer were United States Rubber, Spiegel, American Car and Foundry, Baldwin certificates, Greyhound, and Alleghany corporation. The last named was the speediest mover, up ¼ at 3.

RAIL BONDS ADVANCE.

New York, July 14 (AP).—In the most active session in nearly a month, the bond market made good gains today under strong demand for selected rails and investment issues. Volume rose to $12,043,800, the largest since June 17, compared with $9,775,000 yesterday. The Associated Press 20 rail average reached a new high since 1937 at 90.6 and the 10 low yield bonds composite established a new 1944 peak at 116.3.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Prices closed uneven on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday as turnover dipped to 38,000 shares. Volume leaders included Armour & Co., down ⅛; Nash-Kelvinator, up ⅛, and Commonwealth Edison, down ⅝. Among 10 new highs were the preferred stock voting trust certificates of the Chicago and North Western railroad, up 1⅝, and Spiegel, up 1.

PUBLISHERS ASK STRICT RULE OF PRINT CONTROLS

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—The newspaper industry advisory committee has unanimously recommended strict enforcement of newsprint rationing "incuding criminal prosecution for wilful violations," WBP reported today.

Arthur R. Treanor, director of the WPB printing and publishing division, said each case of noncompliance would be investigated immediately.

The newspaper executives recommended that no violations be forgiven without the consent of Treanor's division, that no violators receive grants of extra newsprint to make up losses suffered as a result of penalties, and that offending newspapers should make prompt repayment of all newsprint used illegally, thru a reduction in quotas in the following quarter, whether or not the offense was wilful.

NEW A.C.F.-BRILL STOCK ISSUE IS FILED WITH SEC

Philadelphia, Pa., July 14 (AP).—The A. C. F.-Brill Motors company registered today with the securities and exchange commission 280,138 shares of $2.50 par value common stock to be offered at $12.50 per share to warrant holders prior to 1950 and at $15 between 1950 and 1955.

Warrants are to be issued to holders of B stock of Brill corporation and to common stock holders of American Car and Foundry Motors company.

The new company was formed under a June 19 merger agreement between American Car and Foundry and the Brill corporation. Stockholders will vote on the plan July 26.

New Wells to Push Oil Output Over '44 Goal, PAW Predicts

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—War time oil production requirements for 1944, as estimated by the petroleum administration for war, will be met as the result of an extensive new drilling campaign, a PAW official said today.

Approximately 1,500 rotary rigs are now in operation compared with 1,350 in 1941, and new territories have been opened in Alabama, Mississippi, Wyoming, Montana, Florida, Texas, and Oklahoma, PAW said.

Material Pinch Relieved.

This resulted from relief of the material shortage, principally in casing and drill pipe, and occurred despite a man power shortage in which inexperienced workers are being used, J. Edgar Heston, PAW assistant production director, said.

A 1944 goal of 24,000 new wells was set by PAW. Drilling fell about 5 per cent behind schedule in the first half of the year, but the present rate will make up that deficit.

The number of "wildcats" discovered is still unsatisfactory. PAW hoped that 5,000 wildcats would be brought in this year, but "there will be substantially less than that number," Heston said.

The country needs 4,600,000 barrels a day, and the new drilling drive means that this peak production can be maintained and "that we'll meet our estimates instead of falling short," Heston said.

Gas Problem Remains.

He warned that "we still are a long way from being out of the woods," in the pre-war sense of civilian gasoline consumption and declared that an even greater increase in drilling is needed.

No immediate relief for civilian users was expected. "This new drilling merely keeps the octane situation from becoming worse," Heston said, and added that 100 octane gasoline must go to meet emergency aviation requirements.

Cut Shortage Figure

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—Forecast of a 30 million ton bituminous coal shortage, made early this year, has been cut to 16 million tons, Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes said today. "A realistic study of the facts provides no hope for full residential coal bins next winter in the Atlantic coast states and the states depending on the Great Lakes coal docks," he said.

Term Public Purchase Only Traction Out

Mayor Kelly yesterday made public a report of the Chicago economic advisory council, which said the council was "driven to the belief that there is no other route to travel than to proceed uhder some form of public ownership to acquire the local transportation properties in Chicago."

The council is headed by James S. Knowlson, president of the Stewart-Warner corporation, and the report was drawn by a subcommittee headed by John L. Beven, president of the Illinois Central railroad.

Warns of Politics.

The report warned, however, that "the history of municipally owned utilities shows that even with good and efficient management political influences are present." That the New York City administration is striving to obtain 50 million dollars to pay the annual deficit of a local transportation system with a 5 cent fare was not mentioned.

After outlining the history of Chicago traction the report said private financing of local transport is difficult, if not impossible, and that some form of subsidy must be used to keep such systems alive.

Boston Plan Study Urged.

The mayor now has a plan for municipal ownership which would require the raising of about 85 millions thru the sale of securities. The report suggested that an approach to the "Boston plan" be studied. Under this system Boston formed a transportation district and sold bonds to acquire and improve local transportation. Fourteen suburbs were taken into this district, which is taxed for several millions annually to maintain the system.

Under the Boston plan the full taxing power is behind the utility's securities. Mayor Kelly's plan contemplates the sale of revenue certificates secured only by the earnings of the traction properties. The report said present war time earnings of the surface and elevated lines are abnormal and that after the war earnings will probably recede.

EXPECT CUNEO GROUP TO FIGHT FOR RULE OF NATIONAL TEA CO.

Business associates of John F. Cuneo, president of the Cuneo Press, said yesterday that a substantial stock interest in the National Tea company had been acquired by Cuneo and a group of associates, and that the group had been rebuffed in efforts to obtain representation on the food chain's board.

John F. Cuneo.

The Cuneo interests reportedly own 200,000 of National Tea's 622,650 common shares and a small, undisclosed number of the 143,107 preferred shares, putting them in position to challenge control of the company by interests identified with R. V. Rasmussen, president of the company.

John McKinlay, National Tea chairman, and other officials would not comment on Cuneo's reported demands for board representation, but Cuneo interests said formation of a stockholders' protective committee was being considered.

HOG PRICES DIP 10 TO 15 CENTS; DEMAND SMALL

The average price of hogs fell to the lowest level in 11 days yesterday at the Chicago stock yards as demand for all "lard hogs" narrowed abruptly. The average was $12.85 a hundred pounds, off 15 cents from Thursday.

Declines of 10 to 15 cents in the heaviest of the butchers and sows, coupled with the fact that the percentage of sows in receipts was largest for the year, pulled average costs of droves down. The top price declined 5 cents, to $13.75, the "floor." Most sales of 180 to 270 pound hogs were made at this price, altho several thousand head of government weights remained in the pens at the close.

Cattle offerings were mostly cows that met good demand at fully steady prices. Best native lambs brought $15, a steady price, but the bulk sold weak to 25 cents lower.

SIX GIVE ALIBI FOR FAWCETT IN QUIRK MURDER

Testimony of Egan Is Denied on Stand.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Six alibi witnesses testified yesterday in behalf of James Fawcett, who is on trial in Judge Harold G. Ward's Criminal court for the murder of Martin [Sonny Boy] Quirk in a gambling war. Robert Bock and Ray Deskovitz are on trial with Fawcett. All were accused by James Egan, employe of John J. Williams' gambling house at 63d st. and Kedzie av.

Egan said he was in the execution squad which removed Quirk from gambling competition last Sept. 18 at 7:40 p. m. in front of 6620 Stony Island av. The six witnesses said that from 7 to 11 o'clock that night Fawcett was at a dance in the hall of local 134 of the electricians' union.

Deskovitz on Stand.

Deskovitz testified in his own behalf and Bock's mother was a witness for him yesterday. It was understood that Fawcett and Bock would not appear on the witness stand to deny Egan's story.

The state finished its presentation of evidence against the trio at yesterday's morning court session. Fifteen policemen and three deputy sheriffs told of searching in vain for Fawcett, Bock, and Deskovitz from last October to March.

They surrendered after Egan left Illinois in March. Egan returned to repeat his accusations and to face them in court where on Thursday he told the same story of the Quirk murder he had given to another jury last December. At that time Williams, the gambling house boss, Anthony DeLordo, and John Enright were found not guilty of the Quirk murder. Altho Egan said they were in the murder plot.

"If they were not guilty, why did they flee?" Prosecutor Wilbert F. Crowley asked, in explaining why he called the 15 policemen to tell of their many visits to the homes of Bock, Deskovitz, and Fawcett.

Deskovitz' Wife Testifies.

Deskovitz' wife, Irene, offered an explanation when called to the witness stand. She said there was no money with which to hire a lawyer and Deskovitz didn't know the court would appoint a lawyer to act for him without cost. When she learned the court would supply him with a lawyer he surrendered, she testified. Meanwhile they lived in another neighborhood under the name of Deske.

"As God is my judge I never saw Fawcett or Bock until I met them in jail," Deskovitz said from the witness stand. "I never met Quirk in my life. I was never at a race track in my life. I never did any of the things Egan said I did."

"What about Egan's statement that Williams assigned you to shadow Quirk?" asked Attorney George Crane.

"Preposterous," said Deskovitz quietly.

Landlord Is Fined $500 for $7 Rent Overcharge

Municipal Judge John J. Griffin yesterday found Constantine Pappas, owner of a building at 333 Schiller st., guilty of overchanging a tenant $7 a month on rent and fined him $500 plus $50 attorney's fees. Pappas contended that the rent he charged was below ceiling because he had deducted $12 a month from the rent of the previous tenant for janitor services. He announced that he would appeal.

PRIVATE SEWER IS SUSPECTED OF TAINTING WATER

The source of a suspected submerged sewer outlet which is contaminating the lake in the vicinity of Hammond, Ind., and is a menace to Chicago south side drinking water intakes has not been located, Public Works Commissioner Hewitt said yesterday.

In view of the denial by Mayor Smith of Hammond, who said the city of Hammond has no sewer that empties into the lake, Hewitt said it is possible that a private industry could have constructed a sewer in the area.

When the outlet is located, Hewitt added, representatives of the company responsible "will be called in and informed they are menacing the Chicago public health." He added that "they will be asked to take necessary remedies to correct the situation" under penalty of legal action.

Wind Direction Factor.

The fact that the prevailing general direction of the wind in Chicago is southwest and that the two south side cribs fall directly in the path of the polluted water area under these conditions adds to the gravity of the situation, Hewitt asserted.

Water with a coliform bacteria count over 50 is not susceptible to purification by chlorination, and recent tests, according to Hewitt, showed the count considerably in excess of that figure at the 68th st. and Dunne cribs on the south side.

Fortunately the general direction of the wind since July 1 has not been southwest and velocity has been comparatively gentle, Owen T. Lay, official in charge of the United States weather bureau here, reported.

However, coliform counts taken in four daily tests on July 7, the day following a southwest wind, ranged from 130 to 220 which are greatly in excess of the safety margin of 50, Hewitt pointed out.

Wind Velocity Low.

The wind velocity on July 7, Lay said, was 4.5 miles an hour, an exceedingly low rate. The daily average in June was 10 miles an hour. The stronger the wind the greater is the danger of carrying the polluted water to the intakes.

John R. Baylis, Chicago water purification engineer, said water from the south side cribs is being chlorinated at the rate of 16 pounds a million gallons which leaves a distinct taste of chlorine in the water.

United States engineers said yesterday no complaints have been received at their office and they were not prepared to comment on the situation.

In Hammond yesterday Mayor Smith conferred with City Engineer Leo Basozzi who will make a survey of sewer outlets and report to the mayor Monday. Hammond public beaches are still closed due to an alleged pollution from Whiting, Ind. Mayor James T. MacNamara was not available to answer charges by Mayor Smith that Whiting sewage is polluting both Hammond and Chicago water.

MAYWOOD'S AIDS TALK TO HEWITT ON WATER DEAL

Maywood officials, led by Earle K. Broberg, village president, and a subcommittee of the Chicago city council headed by Ald. Duffy [19th] met informally yesterday with Public Works Commissioner Hewitt to discuss a contract between the village and the city of Chicago to supply Maywood with water.

Altho no official action was taken, it was understood that a contract was being drawn and that the group will meet again Monday, when the subcommittee will authorize Hewitt to enter into contract to provide water to Maywood at a rate of 7.36 cents per thousand gallons.

New Water Main Proposed.

It also was understood he would be authorized to contract for a new water main connecting the Springfield av. pumping station at 1747 N. Springfield av. with a main from the Mayfair pumping station at 4850 Wilson av. Cost of the construction was estimated by Hewitt at $475,000.

Hewitt explained it would be necessary to connect the two stations to avert a possible water shortage to Melrose Park, Mayfair, and the Buick plant, already being serviced by the Mayfair station. The addition of Maywood, with an estimated intake of 2 million gallons daily, would be too heavy a load for the single station.

3 of 4 Wells in Operation.

Broberg said yesterday that Maywood has three of its four wells in operation and is borrowing water from Melrose Park, Broadview, and the American Can company, which has its own wells, but warned that residents should continue to boil all water for human consumption until notified differently. He added that villagers now have permission to sprinkle their lawns for the first time in 10 days.

Maywood, he said, is ready to construct a water line between Iowa st. and St. Charles rd., at an estimated cost of $142,000. Arrangements already have been made for a bond issue and a buyer has been found, he added.

Approval of the Maywood-Chicago contract by Mayor Kelly was expected before the committees meet again Monday.

COURT RULES RATION WITNESSES CAN BE CALLED IN PROBE

The power of an Illinois joint legislative commission to subpena witnesses to testify in its investigation of gasoline rationing in Illinois was sustained in a precedence case in Kane county Circuit court in Geneva yesterday by Judge Charles O'Connor of Aurora.

The commission called 12 representatives of trucking companies and transportation associations in Illinois to testify concerning the gasoline rations alloted to them by the office of defense transportation.

Paul F. Sodergren of Dixon, Lee county, one of the witnesses subpenaed, did not appear. The commission waited an hour, then its attorney, George E. Arthur of Chicago, was instructed to petition for the court order.

When Judge O'Connor ordered Sodergren to answer the subpena, Arthur and Rep. Lyle M. Prescott [R., Dixon] commission chairman, said a precedent was established to assist further investigations of gas rationing.

As an emergency measure due to newsprint restrictions, the Tribune temporarily can print in any one copy only half of each day's total volume of want ads. As a result, this copy contains one set of want ads, while the next copy off the press after this one contains an entirely different set of ads. The odds are your neighbor's copy today will be the alternate to yours. By referring to the letters "A" or "B" next to the page number, you can quickly identify the alternate sections. Even tho your copy contains only half the want ads published today by the Tribune, it still contains more want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.
